MONARCHIST ROARS GREET HINDENBURG ON ENTERING BERLIN

BERLIN, May 11.—President-elect Hindenburg of the German Republic, the colors of which are black, red and gold, was welcomed with a roar to the capital of that republic this evening by a crowd of several hundred thousand waving the old imperial German colors of black, white and red. From the beginning to the end of the five-mile route traversed by Germany's new President, from the Heerstrasse Suburban Railroad Station, where he alighted from the Hanover train, to the Chancellery in Wilhelmstrasse, the republican colors were utterly swamped. Everywhere was the banner which waved over the German armies when they poured through Belgium eleven years ago.

It is estimated that fully 500,000 persons lined up today along the route of Hindenburg's entry. These included more than 100,000 members of patriotic and other societies. The line stretched from the point of Hindenburg's arrival to his ultimate destination at the Chancellery. By 4:30 o'clock this afternoon practically all were in line—they were strung out in tens of thousands from the Brandenburg gate straight through the broad Charlottenburg Chaussee which intersects the Tiergarten along Berlinerstrasse and Bismarckstrasse, heart of the residential Charlottenburg quarter. They roared a stentorian welcome to the wrinkled, rugged old veteran of three German wars of conquest as his motor car sped past.

Republicans Keep Out of Sight.

Before the serried ranks of monarchist organizations Republicans ran to cover. Communists wilted into invisibility.

Tomorrow Hindenburg will swear allegiance to the Constitution of the republic, whose upholders today sulked in their tents, deeming that entry of that republic's President into its capital was a triumph not for them but for their monarchist rivals.

Upon his arrival at the Chancellery Hindenburg was compelled to come out on the balcony to acknowledge the cheers of the crowd. He excused himself soon after a small dinner in his honor at the Chancellery this evening and went to bed early.

Hours before Hindenburg's arrival crowds began to take up positions along the announced line of march. Men, women and children, bringing lunches with them, were there at 2 o'clock this afternoon, though the President-elect was not expected before nearly 6.

From 3:30 onward pro-Hindenburg organizations began to take their places along the route. No Republican organizations appeared; only semi-military bodies to whom the republic is anathema and who in their hearts damn all that is democratic were there.

In tens of thousands, beside themselves with enthusiasm, beneath black, white and red colors, around which all their memories cling and upon which all their hopes are pinned, they shouted for Hindenburg as his car sped along the Kaiserdamm.

Members of the Stahlhelm were there, and the Wehrwolf and Jungdo and all the rest of the bodies whose reactionarism has alarmed the French and other foreigners ever since the armistice. And there were Boy Scouts, too, and gymnastic societies, members of trades guilds, school children in thousands, and an enormous number of persons belonging to no special organization, who wedged and wormed themselves into the front ranks in order to cheer for Hindenburg.

Police Are Out in Force.

Police were out in numbers never seen here before. There were easily 10,000 of them—on horses, on motorcycles and on foot.

To complete the small police army deemed necessary to check the Communists—and Republicans—cities within a wide radius of Berlin were drawn upon for every available policeman. Singly and in squads resembling military battalions, they kept an iron grip on the situation.

Among the organizations represented today the most numerous were the gymnastic societies of Berlin, which turned out more than 50,000 strong. Others well represented were the National Workers' Association, with 20,000 men; members of the People's Party totaling another 20,000; the Kyffhäuserbund, which came out 10,000 strong; the League of Former German Army Officers, 5,000; Jungdeutsch Order, 3,000; Stahlhelm, 1,500; Fronthann, 1,000; Women's Union, 1,000, and the High School Union, 10,000.

Fearing a possible attempt at violence, the police are taking extraordinary precautions for tomorrow's oath-taking ceremony at the Reichstag. The Reichstag building has been searched from top to bottom lest Communists or anybody else be concealed there. Besides these measures the police will subject all seats

HERRICK RECEIVES DEBT INSTRUCTIONS

Will Enable Envoy to Furnish Information Desired by French Finance Minister.

CAILLAUX MAY SHIFT VIEW

Inclined to Recognize Full Debt, but Stands Pat on Basis of German Payments.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 11.—Ambassador Herrick has received from Washington instructions to guide him in his conversations with Finance Minister Caillaux on the subject of France's debt to the United States. It is not exact that America has sent the French Government a note demanding that Paris take steps to arrange the debt. The new communication from America comes as the result of a request by Mr. Herrick for instructions relative to certain suggestions made by the French Finance Minister.

Mr. Herrick returned to Paris tonight from Brussels and has not yet seen M. Caillaux to place before him the fresh information from America. It is expected that he will see M. Caillaux tomorrow or Wednesday.

There appears to be a mistake in regard to the communication from Washington as directed to the French Foreign Office by the American State Department. Rather the communication may be regarded as having its origin in the Debt Funding Commission, acting, of course, with the advice of the State Department.

Subject Broached by Caillaux.

About a week ago and again three days subsequently, M. Caillaux told Mr. Herrick he would like to undertake debt conversations with America, but only after he had obtained the passage of a balanced budget. He pointed out that France could not pay America and England unless Germany paid France and proposed to set aside one-third of the payments France received from the Reich for a fund to care for France's foreign debts.

Mr. Herrick referred to the repeated refusal of America to accept German payments in lieu of debt payments because she did not wish to be put in the position of collecting allied claims on the Reich.

M. Caillaux then said that while in the French mind there must be a connection between payments to France and French payments to America and England, yet he thought a formula might be found which America would accept, and suggested that France could commit herself to certain payments to America, in view of the prospect of German payments under the Dawes plan, it being understood that France's ability to pay was not affected by Germany's executing her reparation obligations.

On this point Mr. Herrick was unable to give a clear answer, and therefore asked Washington for instructions, which have now arrived.

As far as one can gather, the American reply displays no enthusiasm for the Caillaux suggestion, it apparently being the point of view of Washington that France must pay, regardless of whether or not Germany pays.

French official circles said tonight that the Finance Minister had as yet received no new communication from Mr. Herrick nor did he know what Mr. Herrick had to say. However, it is taken for granted as entirely probable that the American Ambassador has received instructions to enable him to answer now the questions he was not ready to answer a week ago.

It is now learned that before going out of office former Premier Herriot had been brought to the point of view that it was wise to seek easy terms from the United States on the total debt of $4,000,000,000 than to seek a reduction. M. Painlevé and M. Caillaux have not been in office long enough to make definite policies, but there are indica-

WORLD COURT ENTRY LINKS US TO LEAGUE, BORAH DECLARES

COURT LIKE AN 'ATTORNEY'

Reservations, He Contends, Would Be Useless and Show Lack of Faith.

WANTS INDEPENDENT BODY

Ten Men Would Decide War or Peace Under Proposed Amendments, He Tells Unitarians.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 11.—Senator William E. Borah, Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, attacked the World Court as a mere adjunct to the League of Nations at the annual meeting of the Unitarian Laymen's League tonight at Unity House.

He declared that if the court could be completely divorced from the League he would immediately support it as enthusiastically as any man in the Senate.

Voices Desire for World Peace.

Speaking in clipped, staccato sentences, and gesticulating vigorously with his clenched fists, he voiced his sincere desire for world peace and asserted that it must be founded on international amity and understanding rather than on an organization which was based on armed force.

Introduced by Charles H. Strong, President of the Laymen's League, and preceded by C. Sydney Jones of England, a member of Parliament who called the friendship between Great Britain and the United States the best pledge of peace, Senator Borah at once remarked that he knew that his audience disagreed with him on his views, and added, "that is good, for I come not to talk to believers but to call sinners to repentance."

The chief impression which his personality evidently made on his hearers was that of sincerity and fearlessness. The audience, which packed every square inch of the floor, the balconies and the side aisles, would applaud first hesitatingly and then enthusiastically. It was obviously a tribute to his honesty of purpose rather than to his theories.

Speech Is Broadcast.

At the beginning of his address Senator Borah said that his views on the World Court had been widely misunderstood, sometimes perhaps wilfully, and sometimes through his inadequate knowledge of the English language. On this occasion, he promised, he would take pains to put his case so that there should be no possible excuse for misinterpretation.

All the speeches of the evening were broadcast by WBZ and the Senator referred to this fact when he said satirically that it might interest Mr. Jones, who had spoken of the cowardice of politicians, to know that his words were being heard by a sizeable percentage of the population of the United States.

Text of Senator Borah's Speech.

Mr. President, I have been invited by your committee to discuss the question of peace, particularly as it relates to a World Court. I am pleased to do so. It is a subject in which you are all deeply interested, and I claim to share in that interest. It would seem in some quarters that my position upon this subject is not understood. I have not felt that my position was, or could be, misunderstood. I have felt that those who claim to misunderstand it understood it perfectly well. Perhaps I do them an injustice. It may be that my inadequate command of the English language places me at a disadvantage. In any event, I shall endeavor not to leave you in doubt tonight.

No political platform binds me upon this subject. In the last campaign during my candidacy for re-election I stated plainly that I would not be bound by any political platform on this question. I do not think it a party matter, or that it should be. But if it is, I took occasion before the vote was cast to exempt myself from that embarrassment. I am free to advocate that which I believe to be in the interest of peace and for the safety and security of this country. I am going

Stage Folk Aid Man With a Ruptured Heart; Raise $3,000 for Pilgrimage to Noted Shrine

Edward Jacobi, 45 years old, of 317 West Fifty-eighth Street, a stage electrician, was in Roosevelt Hospital with a rupture of the heart, sustained when he fell from a ladder a year ago. He had spent all his money for a cure, and although doctors shook their heads over his ailment he told his wife and his three children and his friends that he would get well.

"I've got hope," he told Michael Kelly of 340 West Forty-fourth Street, "and I've got more than hope: I've got faith. If I could go to the shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes in France I'm sure my heart would be fixed as good as new."

Michael Kelly knew, too, of the shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes. Three hundred thousand Catholic pilgrims, many of them lame and blind and ill, visit it every year in search of cures. So Michael Kelly told his and Edward Jacobi's friend, James Meenan, a detective. They hit upon the idea of a theatrical benefit to raise the money to permit Jacobi to go to the shrine.

John Cort gave them the use of Daly's Theatre in West Sixty-third Street. Players from "My Girl," "China Rose," "Artists and Models" and several vaudeville acts gave their services. Stage hands, electricians and musicians gave theirs. Babe Ruth, ill in a hospital, autographed a baseball to be sold at auction. Thirty-two other members of the Yankees added their signatures on the ball. Theatrical workers from every part of Greater New York and some even from Providence, R. I., came to the benefit Sunday night.

Every act presented to make possible Jacobi's pilgrimage to the shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes was applauded by a crowded theatre. The autographed baseball was bought by the visitors from Providence for $85, which was added to the admissions.

And yesterday Father Sheridan of St. Malachy's Actors' Chapel in West Forty-ninth Street, Michael Kelly, James Meenan and a dozen other friends of Edward Jacobi crowded about his bed.

"Here," said Father Sheridan as he laid a package on the bed beside the man who has a ruptured heart, "is $3,000. It will take you to the shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes. May you get well."

INVESTIGATE STORY THAT BABY WAS SLAIN

2 BODIES TO BE EXHUMED

Accuser an Enemy of Mrs. Volk Since Denied a Partnership, Defense Counsel Asserts.

Assistant District Attorney William P. Ryan will open two small unmarked graves today in a search for evidence on which to base a charge of homicide against Mrs. Helen Augusta Geisen-Volk. His announcement that he would apply for exhumation orders was made late yesterday, following new allegations against the founder of the infantorium at 235 East Eighty-sixth Street, which had a record of twenty-three deaths in the last sixteen months.

The first grave to be opened will be that of Agnes Toohey, 18 months old, who died Dec. 15. The death certificate assigned acute unstoldiitis as the cause of death. A nurse who lodged at the infantorium told the Assistant District Attorney the Toohey child was "seized by the heels and its head dashed against a wall." The baby was found dead in its crib the next morning.

The second exhumation will be on the body of William Winters, who was 6 months old when he died Feb. 3. According to Health Department records, heart disease terminated this child's life. The decision to seek another explanation came after Mr. Ryan had talked to the child's parents. He did not disclose what he learned from them, nor would the baby's father talk.

Admitting that the charge the Toohey infant had been swung against the wall was an unsupported one, made by the unnamed nurse, Mr. Ryan pointed out, however, that he had corroboration of inhuman treatment of children by Mrs. Geisen-Volk from another nurse. This attendant remained at the baby farm only one day, leaving, she said, after she had seen the proprietress "bounce" infants up and down on beds, chairs and tables because their parents were tardy in paying for their keep.

Dr. Otto H. Schultze, Medical Assistant of the District Attorney's staff, after studying the death certificates issued for the twenty-three children who died in the care of Mrs. Geisen-Volk, said an investigation in ten hospitals disclosed that all had been suffering from malnutrition when admitted. They were barely alive and few of them lived more than a few hours after entering the institutions.

While the fate of Steven Angerer remained unsolved, the identity of the substitute baby which William Angerer, father of Steven, said the baby farmer tried to give him was cleared up.

Vincent T. Pisarra, Chief Agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, brought Mrs. Mary Shimkus of 391 South Fifth Street, Brooklyn, to the Criminal Courts Building. She said the fake Angerer baby was her son, Raymond. Mrs. Elizabeth Garrett, attendant at the infantorium, supported her statement. She said Raymond had been given to Angerer as his child.

Yet another development, and one which gave the authorities a hint to the possible fate of Steven Angerer, came when Mrs. Margaret Bukers of 2,012 Green Street, Philadelphia, told her story to Mr. Ryan. Mrs. Bukers said she was the grandmother of a child known as Robert Burton, which was sent to the infantorium Dec. 22 last. She said her daughter, Mrs. Mary Burton, who died on Jan. 2, was the baby's mother. On March 11, according to Mrs. Bukers's story, the head of the baby farm telegraphed to Philadelphia saying that Robert was sick:

Miss Julia Bukers, aunt of the infant, and Mrs. Anna Tierney of 205 East Fifty-first Street, a sister to Mrs. Bukers, made inquiries at the infantorium. They were told, as in the case of Angerer, that the child was with a baby specialist at Saratoga. Later they were informed that the child had gone West. They were still making ineffectual efforts to get trace of the child last Saturday, when they read that a Robert Burton had been among the seven children taken from the infantorium to Bellevue Hospital.

Mrs. Bukers went with Mr. Pisarra to the hospital on Sunday. The Robert Burton there was not her grandson, she said, nor was any of the children. Mr. Ryan shuffled through the stack of death certificates sent him by the Board of Health. He found that Robert Burton died March 11 in Lenox Hill Hospital the day the telegram was sent. The child lived only seven hours after reaching the hospital. Mrs. Bukers said she had continued to pay $10 a week for the care of Robert up until a week ago Saturday.

Isidore Neunstedter of 261 Broadway, counsel for Mrs. Geisen-Volk, said he

BOND THREAT FAILED TO AWE CONTRACTOR

EVIDENCE PLEASES MAYOR

Contractors at Hirshfield Inquiry Decline to Blame Sinnott & Canty for Loss of Jobs.

William H. Egan, manager of the Public Works Department of George Colon & Co., repeated yesterday before Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield his assertion, previously made before Deputy Controller Charles F. Kerrigan, that a "Mr. Duffy," asserting that he represented the bonding firm of Sinnott & Canty, had threatened him with loss of a city contract if he did not select that firm's able bond brokers, and that he had ordered Duffy out of his office.

Mr. Egan added that Duffy had failed to see him last Saturday to get him to say that he had not ordered him out of his office, but that he had told Duffy he would tell the truth. He brought considerable gratification to Commissioner Hirshfield when he said, in reply to questions, that he had not believed Duffy was telling the truth when he threatened him with the loss of a contract and that, if he had he would have been inclined to give his bonding business to Sinnott & Canty.

"I had trouble in my office with Duffy, and I told him to get out," said Mr. Egan, referring to the time Duffy had first approached him to solicit the bond on a school construction contract.

"We were the lowest bidders on Nov. 26, 1923, for School 22 in Brooklyn and School 99 in Manhattan. The contracts had not been awarded. Duffy solicited our bond, and I told him that I had already arranged for a bond.

"But the bond hasn't been written yet and you can give it to me," Duffy said.

"I told him that my word was good and that I wouldn't change. He retorted that if I didn't I wouldn't get the contract. He told me that he represented Sinnott—but I wasn't clear whether it was Mr. Sinnott, the Mayor's secretary, or Mr. Sinnott, the surety broker.

Didn't Get the Contracts.

"I told him that I would acquaint the Mayor with his actions as soon as Mr. Hylan returned to the city. I didn't mention it to the Mayor, however. I never got those contracts, but I have had three other contracts since, amounting to about $2,000,000."

"Who wrote the bonds for those last three contracts?" Mr. Hirshfield asked.

"I do all my business through Lloyd Beecher," Mr. Egan replied.

"Then you knew the fellow was fibbing when he said that?" asked Mr. Hirshfield, referring to Duffy's alleged threat to take away contracts from Egan unless he gave his bonding business to Sinnott & Canty.

"I might say that I never did believe he had the power he professed, because, if I had, I'd have been interested in doing business with him," replied Mr. Egan.

Mr. Egan was one of the half dozen witnesses examined by Mr. Hirshfield at the first session of his open inquiry held at Mayor Hylan's direction to "let in the light" on the bonding situation caused by the charge of Deputy Controller Kerrigan, supported by testimony and records, that favoritism and pressure had been used to throw the bonding business on city contracts to Sinnott & Canty, the head of which is J. Paul Sinnott, brother of John Sinnott, Mayor Hylan's secretary and son-in-law.

Mr. Hirshfield was more successful in the examination of three other contractors, each of whom denied that he had ever ascribed the loss of a contract to failure to employ Sinnott & Canty as brokers. During the investigation, Mr. Hirshfield made frequent attacks on what he called the "Controller's secret, star-chamber inquiry," and to emphasize the openness of his investigation invited the newspaper reporters present to examine witnesses.

The only flurry during the hearing came when Joseph P. Tolins, attorney for Benjamin Levin of the Eastern Construction Company, attempted to produce a newspaper clipping containing a more complete account of his client's testimony before Mr. Kerrigan than that from which Mr. Hirshfield was questioning. In the argument that followed, Mr. Hirshfield ordered Mr. Tolins from the room.

Mayor Hylan, apparently pleased with the progress of Mr. Hirshfield's investigation, directed the latter to have a transcript of the testimony prepared as quickly as possible and broadcast from

LIQUOR SHIPS RETIRE SOUTHWARD, DOGGED BY THE DRY FLEET

SLIP AWAY IN THE FOG

DIRECTED LIKE A REAL WAR

Pins Representing Opposing Craft Are Moved on Huge Map at Washington as Radio Tells Positions.

Coast Guard officers said yesterday that they had broken up Rum Row, driving away the two steamers and four of the eight schooners which had been sighted south of Sandy Hook Sunday afternoon. Three Coast Guard picket boats which returned to the Staten Island base late yesterday reported that only four schooners were then visible.

Captain John Bryan, commanding the Staten Island base, said he believed that the missing liquor carriers had sailed south during the fog, which was so thick between midnight Sunday and 8 o'clock yesterday morning that the wet fleet could not be seen by the dry navy. The departure during the fog made it impossible for the patrol boats from Staten Island to follow the rum vessels. It is believed that the ships have moved south and will try to land their goods near Atlantic City or further south.

The dry navy has won a complete victory in the war with the wet fleet, according to the Coast Guard men. They said that they were convinced that not a single boatload of liquor had been smuggled ashore in the past twenty-four hours, despite the heavy fog. This statement was supported by the police, who have been cooperating with the Government by patrolling the harbor in the fast police boat Gypsy and by guarding the waterfront against landing parties. Failure of the rum-runners to get through the blockade in the fog and rain of the last two days—ideal bootlegging weather—was hailed by the Coast Guard as proof that they had the liquor smugglers beaten. Foggy weather at sea continued last night.

Relief to Set Sail Tonight.

Ten picket boats will leave Staten Island at 8 o'clock tonight to relieve ten of the vessels which have participated in the blockade.

Additional evidence of the Southern movement of the wet fleet came in reports from picket boats operating out of Atlantic City. Coast Guard officers there said the ships would be followed wherever they went.

Both in New York and Atlantic City Coast Guard officers made clear their intention to starve the rum crews out. The Coast Guard ships, it was said, intend to keep the liquor ships from taking on water, food or other supplies from shore until they are compelled to give up and return to their home ports. That some of the whisky ships already have given up was indicated yesterday, when the Associated Press received the following dispatch from Glace Bay, Nova Scotia:

"Two ships, their decks piled high with cases of liquor, made port today, presumably from Rum Row off the New York and New Jersey coasts, where the American dry navy is maintaining a blockade.

"The craft had not been here an hour before members of the crew were offering the cargoes for sale at prices far under the market. Rum was offered at $5 a gallon and whisky at $12 a case. Champagne also was offered at low prices.

"No business was transacted, however, for two Canadian revenue cutters kept a sharp vigil on the ships."

Strengthening the Blockade.

How the Coast Guard is strengthening its blockade along the Atlantic Coast was shown in the following Associated Press dispatch yesterday from New London, Conn.:

"At the height of a terrific thunderstorm, shortly before dawn this morning, a squadron of fourteen patrol boats, armed with one-pound rifles and machine guns, put to sea from this port to take part in the rum vessel blockade off Montauk Point and No Man's Land.

League Council to Get Data On Our World Court 'Actions'

GENEVA, May 11 (A. P.).—League of Nations officials today took steps to obtain detailed reports for the League Council of all governmental actions relating to the World Court.

The object is to keep the council informed of all activities, such as debates or decisions by the United States Congress on adhesion to the Court and regarding all other official discussions, in Washington or other capitals, on any angle of the League's work.

This information would supplement the already voluminous reports the Secretariat of the League is gathering all over the world.

Reports of this character concerning the program of the Non-Partisan American Association for the League, recommending American collaboration in the various League committees, as well as membership in the World Court, have aroused great interest here.

ARON SAYS HYLAN HIDES SUBWAY COST

WOULD NEED 10 CENT FARE

Old Route Adopted to Avoid Revealing Facts to Public, He Charges.

Speaking before the Republican organization of the Twenty-second Assembly District at its clubhouse, 1,723 Amsterdam Avenue, last night, Harold G. Aron, Chairman of the Publicity Committee of the Republican County Committee, declared that not a spadeful of dirt had been turned nor had a dollar been appropriated by the Hylan Administration for the construction of a subway line which had originated with or been begun by Mayor Hylan and the present Board of Estimate. Moreover, Mr. Aron said, not a single foot of subway planned by the present City Administration could be validated under the law unless Mayor Hylan, hitherto the self-proclaimed champion of the five-cent fare, should have the nerve to come out and admit that it will cost 10 cents to ride on subways originating with his Administration.

Mr. Aron also related that Mayor Hylan had sought to have the law paving the way for the creation of his new transportation board remedied at this year's session of the Legislature with a view to enabling him to begin work on subway lines of his own conception without making that painful confession.

Mr. Aron said that under that act the transportation board, before construction work on one of their new lines could be begun, were compelled to furnish the Board of Estimate, which body validates them, with an estimate showing, year by year for the first ten-year period of operation, what the annual operating cost would be. He added that on the new routes mapped out by the Board of Transportation no such figures have been submitted to the Board of Estimate, for the sole reason that if they were submitted they would become public and show that if these lines are built the subway fare will be ten cents. Lines on which work now is going on were validated before the new law went into effect.

In order to "save the face" of his Administration, Mr. Aron said, and create the illusion that dirt was flying on subway work planned by it, Mr. Hylan has appropriated Subway Route No. 78, which was authorized by the Transit Commission two years ago and construction of which had been blocked by Mayor Hylan until it suited his own purposes to begin work on this new line.

Tried to Have Provision Eliminated.

Before this was done, however, Mayor Hylan, according to Mr. Aron, sought to have the troublesome provision in the so-called "Home Rule Transportation act" eliminated at the recent session of the Legislature. This attempt failed. The legislative record shows that the Mayor's bill, introduced ostensibly to abolish the Transit Commission, was presented in the upper house at Albany on Feb. 19 by Senator Walker, the minority leader, and in the Assembly on the same day by Maurice Bloch, leader of the Democratic minority in that branch. Both bills were sent to the Committee on Public Service and were not reported, even in the face of motions made by the two Democratic lead-

DECISION TO BE APPEALED

Ruling Supports Views of Craig, Who Sees the End of Hylan's "Crafty Designs."

The right of the City of New York to operate motor buses under the power granted to the city in the Home Rule amendment was upheld yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Wagner, who handed down an opinion, after three months' deliberation, declaring valid the Home Rule law and the laws of the Municipal Legislature based upon it.

The decision is in accordance with the contention of Controller Craig, expressed in opposition to the views of Corporation Counsel Nicholson and the assertions of Mayor Hylan, and upholds the argument of former Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby and ex-Justice Frank C. Laughlin of the Appellate Division, who were engaged as special counsel for the city when the Corporation Counsel's expressed views removed him as pleader for the city.

Controller Craig quickly hailed the decision as "an emancipation proclamation for the people of the City of New York" and "the greatest step forward in home rule since the Civil War." He pointed out that the decision permits the municipal operation of buses in all sections of the city where such relief is needed, and said:

Calls Decision Blow to Hylan.

"With characteristic cunning, Mayor Hylan for a long time has sought to aggravate and inflame public opinion in relation to the lack of power in the municipal authorities to grant relief by the operation of municipal buses. For several months, however, Mayor Hylan has been the most insistent advocate of the granting of private 'recapturable' franchises for bus operation. The decision of Justice Wagner is a fatal blow to the crafty designs of Mayor Hylan and his family connections in relation to buses."

Mayor Hylan had no comment to make on the decision last night.

Justice Wagner heard two cases brought with the same object in view, to restrain the Board of Estimate from appropriating city funds in connection with the operation of buses, one by Stewart Browne, represented by Louis Marshall, and the other by William J. Schieffelin, head of the Citizens Union, whose attorney was Leonard M. Wallstein. Both sued as taxpayers on the ground that the appropriation of money by the Board of Estimate in connection with the operation of bus lines was illegal and accordingly a waste of city funds. They will take an appeal from the decision dismissing their complaints and will seek a review of the case by the Appellate Division as soon as possible.

Assembly Laws Attacked.

The attack was centred on the Municipal Assembly laws, Nos. 3, 4, 5 and 6, passed on Jan. 13 last, to carry into effect the powers asserted under the Home Rule act to institute a system of municipal buses, which were approved by the Mayor. Local law No. 3 gave the Board of Estimate the right to establish routes for the operation of buses; law No. 4 gave the Commissioner of Plant and Structures jurisdiction over municipal bus operation, in addition to the other duties conferred by the City Charter; law No. 5 prohibited the operation of any bus routes except those authorized by the Board of Estimate, and local law No. 6 amended the Transportation Corporation law by inserting a provision that the City of New York or any of its departments was not included within the meaning of the term "common carrier" and was not subject to the provision of the statutes applicable to "common carriers."

The first act of the Board of Estimate under the power conferred by these laws was to establish a municipal crosstown bus route in Eighty-sixth Street, Manhattan, from the North River to Avenue A, and to appropriate $135,000 for the purpose. The suits were brought to restrain both the operation of the buses and the spending of the money.

Sweeps Aside Contention.

Justice Wagner first swept away the contention of the plaintiffs that the Home Rule act was invalidly enacted because the concurrent resolution for the proposed amendment, although passed by both the Senate and Assembly, did not appear on the journals of both houses. Justice Wagner said it was conceded that the resolution appeared only by its number and title, and on this point the Court said:

"It seems to me that an entry on the journal which contains a record sufficient to identify a given resolution is a compliance with the constitutional mandate. Words must be interpreted and understood in their most natural and obvious meaning. A record describing and identifying the proposed amendment is an entry as popularly understood and intended."

Justice Wagner also held to be without merit a second contention that another Home Rule amendment resolution was pending at the time, which nullified the one enacted finally into a law, and stated "the pendency of a proposal is nowhere stated or inferred to constitute a bar to, or deprivation of, the right of the people of the State to vote upon one subsequently, and perhaps more imperatively, demanded."

The plaintiffs then went further and

Oversight Adds $6,000,000 to Dodge Sale Tax; Makes Total Levy $12,000,000, Collector Says

An oversight in business procedure on the part of the agents who negotiated the recent sale of the Dodge Brothers automotive property to a group of bankers headed by Dillon, Read & Co. will result in additional revenue of $6,000,000 in taxes to the Treasury Department, making a total of $12,000,000 in all on the sale of the property, according to Fred L. Woodworth, United States Internal Revenue Collector at Detroit, Mich. Mr. Woodworth is in New York City on a visit and made the statement when asked what the probable tax on the Dodge Brothers sale would be, the sale price having been $146,000,000.

Asked what oversight could have been made, Mr. Woodworth said that the agents handling the sale failed to consult their tax attorneys until negotiations had gone too far to enable the proceedings of the sale to be changed. The Board of Directors of Dodge Brothers should have called a meeting and carried a motion to divide the assets among the stockholders and discontinue the corporation, Mr. Woodworth said. Then the stockholders could have negotiated the sale of the property themselves, a non-taxable proceeding, leaving the only tax that could have been levied that on the hold.

"This was not done," Mr. Woodworth said, "and the corporation sold the assets. The corporation will now have to pay a tax as a corporation and the Dodge heirs will have to pay an equal sum as tax, the amount being divided pro rata between them. The total tax will be about $12,000,000. The tax attorneys were not aware of the nature of the negotiations for the sale until it was too late to make any change and as a result the Treasury Department will be $6,000,000 the richer.

"The oversight probably occurred because of an effort to keep the entire transaction a secret, no one being consulted until matters had gone so far that they became more or less public property. The nature of the oversight known to those negotiating the sale then, but it was too late for them to do anything about it."

Officials of Dillon, Read & Co., who purchased the Dodge property, would not comment on the tax phase of the deal. They said that the tax problem had been settled at the time of the purchase, and that it involved the old Dodge corporation and the Dodge heirs, rather than the new corporation.

Mrs. John T. Pratt Is Boomed for Alderman To Succeed Falconer in Silk Stocking District

A movement has been started among Republicans in the Fifteenth Assembly District to nominate Mrs. John T. Pratt for Alderman of the Seventeenth Aldermanic District this Fall, to succeed Bruce M. Falconer. Mrs. Pratt, who is associate leader of the Fifteenth District with Frank J. Coleman Jr., has long taken an active part in the politics of the district.

Mrs. Pratt joined forces with Mr. Coleman last Spring in the fight for control of the district which was waged between Coleman and former State Senator Schuyler M. Meyer. Coleman's decisive victory many Republicans declared, was due in no small measure to the effective manner in which Mrs. Pratt lined up the women voters for her candidate. With Coleman's election Mrs. Pratt was elected associate leader. Containing more prominent and wealthy Republicans than any other in the city, the territory has long been called the "silk-stocking district."

Mrs. Pratt has long been prominent in New York society. In the Fifteenth District fight she conducted her political rallies at her home, at 7 East Sixty-first Street, which were attended by all classes in the district. Her husband, John Teele Pratt, is a director in the New York, New Haven & Hartford and other railroads and a trustee of Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, which his father, the late Charles Pratt, founded.

Mr. Coleman admitted yesterday that a movement had been started in his district to make Mrs. Pratt Alderman, but said the idea had not advanced beyond a mere suggestion. The suggestion, he said, first came from district workers who thought that Mrs. Pratt not only deserved to be honored for her work in the district, but that she would be an ornament to the city's legislative body.

The present Alderman, Bruce M. Falconer, has served for eight and a half years. His term expires this Fall.

"As soon as the suggestion was made to me that Mrs. Pratt be nominated for Alderman this Fall, I thought well of it and immediately began to feel out the sentiment in the district," said Mr. Coleman. "Everywhere there was instant and affirmative response. I have prepared a letter to all the workers in the district asking for their opinion. Early in June the District Committee will meet, and we will probably learn just how popular the suggestion has become. If it meets with the same response it already has called forth, I believe there will be no doubt about Mrs. Pratt's selection."

asserted that even if the 1924 Home Rule amendment were valid, the local laws of the Municipal Assembly were a violation of the State Constitution inhibition against spending city moneys for other than city purposes. Justice Wagner said that the rights of the city were derived from the Home Rule amendment, and that "all subsequent authorizations are but necessary means toward its full exercise." The powers of the Legislature to enact general laws, and of the city to pass local ones, are definitely set forth, and the point where encroachment upon each takes place is made theoretically certain," Justice Wagner pointed out.

"The Legislature may act with reference to the property, affairs or government of the city only by general law applicable to all cities of the State alike. As to matters enumerated in Section 3 of the article and Section 11 of the act, each city may itself exercise a specified local power relative to its affairs. Each city may, by local law, supersede a State legislative provision relating to it which does not apply alike to all cities, except that no local law may supersede a legislative act whether or not it applies in terms and effect to all the cities if such State legislation relates to matters other than city affairs and the validity of local laws enacted on the city equally hinges on the question whether or not their subject-matter concerns its affairs."

Justice Wagner quoted opinions upholding the existence of such power, and said:

"The same process of interpretation now exacts an understanding of the popular will when this amendment was adopted. It requires appropriate legislation to convey its powers. That legislation, expressly and clearly as words can convey by its title and caption, disclosed the intention that it was contemplated to confer the broadest right of local self-government. If that is so, this power is but placed in its original seat. Before the State was created and the city became its creature the power of self-government existed locally. We have now reached the point of departure. That power once delegated has by consent been regained.

"The reasons for this resumption are numerous and of such common knowledge that courts may properly take judicial notice of them. The cry against continued retention by the State of control over and management of purely local affairs had become widespread and insistent. Acts general in form but intended to be applied to but a single locality frequently displaced the popular will and were foisted upon unwilling recipients in the guise of the legislative representative and elected officials.

"Even the infrequent grants made by a State Legislature were but ostensibly so in time with the State's will. Subject to revocation or change, they possessed neither stability nor permanency. The charter contract could be varied whenever State interference desired to stifle or embarrass local authority, and administration of details rightly belonging to local rather than general policy. Whenever a municipality desired to assume a new governmental function purely local in character it required the seal to the State Legislature. Its grant or denial rested upon the decision of representatives far removed from the city and uniformed as to its needs. The decision to grant or withhold the power sought frequently depended upon whether the constituency affected was politically in sympathy with the majority of the Legislature rather than upon the merits of the proposal.

"An examination of the session laws are replete with instances of local laws manifestly imposed upon the people affected against their will. The conditions appeared to them as interference and aversse public feeling to the extent of a defined movement toward the right of self-determination evinced by gradual statutory changes, and reaching its peak in the adoption of the amendment under consideration."

The Court said that in the State Constitution of 1894 cities were subdivided into classes, and special laws affecting them called for the approval of the Mayor or other local authority.

"While serving as a check to some extent on State intrusion, it entirely failed to vest the cities with power," says Justice Wagner, for it is said by Professor Bain in his work on "The Law and Practice of Municipal Home Rule" that during the first nineteen years after its adoption 149 special acts relating to cities were passed over the heads of the cities affected. Justice Wagner said that "the extent of the domination manifested itself in the fact that the act which consolidated New York City became a law with the approval of the Mayor of the cities involved, that the charter of the city took effect without such approval, and that the Public Service Commission's law was actually vetoed by the Mayor."

Refers to Earlier Law.

The Court said that "equally unworkable" was the successor of this law, a so-called Home Rule act passed in 1913, which proved inadequate because the limitations of the Constitution intervened.

"It was said, and correctly," stated Justice Wagner, "that only a constitutional amendment could remove them." The Court traces the subsequent history of home-rule legislation in New York State, and says that "success was thought to have been obtained by the adoption of the amendment at the election of 1923 and the enactment of the Home Rule act in the succeeding session."

Turning to the transit conditions in the city, Justice Wagner said:

"Mainly and specifically as the basis of this agitation, and one of the chief sources of complaint, was the inadequacy of existing facilities to accommodate and means for the transportation of persons within cities. We as courts are not bound to close our eyes to what all men we know. As early as 1860 the Legislature began to grant perpetual franchises for the use of city streets. When the belated amendment of 1874 (Article 3, Section 18) took effect, total invasion had already occurred. Witnessing the presence of popular demand still continuing under the later amendment (Article 3, Section 10), rapid transit was recognized as one of the purposes for which the City of New York was permitted to incur indebtedness for any amount within its borrowing capacity. This resulted in the present municipal ownership of the subways and the city's admitted right to operate them.

"Even this relief was partial. The affording of complete facilities for travel was still hampered. Other obstacles and hindrances were strewn in the way. Various boards of railroad, transit and public service commissioners existed, not the offsprings of the locality. Their consent to solution was imperative. Differences of opinion on questions of policy and advisability with consequent delay were the natural result and unnatural consequence.

"Dissatisfied with this dual control of matters pertaining exclusively to local transportation and recognizing the Home Rule amendment as a corrective, the people by the overwhelming vote adopted the same."

Upholds Local Laws.

In upholding the four local laws which put municipal buses into operation, Justice Wagner said:

"These bills make inherent and primary what were before secondary and derivative rights. Without awaiting the determination of a private franchise they empower the city to do immediately what heretofore could have been done only after termination. The right it possesses today is unhampered by external supervisory or discretionary conditions. Empowered to act, it now needs no further grant. The possession of the right would be qualified rather than absolute were it necessary to go through a ceremony of grant of franchise. The rights here vested are upon the city as a municipality, not as a corporation or private common carrier. The grant is direct, through the Constitution and the Home Rule act rather than by means of, or through, the Public Service Commission law."

Justice Wagner rules that it is not necessary for the city to obtain a certificate of convenience or necessity from the Transit Commission, as required in the Transportation Corporation law, and, in concluding his opinion, said:

"I am not called upon to set the boundaries of power conferred by the amendment and Enabling act. That they are expressive of a long continuously voiced and deliberate demand admits of no contradiction. That they represent the progressive thought of governmental policy cannot be questioned. Likewise whether the proposed city venture is wise or should be confined to individual enterprise are questions of political and governmental policy. These questions must be determined by the elected officials to whom the people of the municipality have entrusted the administration of their affairs.

"It seems, therefore, that the people by express constitutional warrant and the representatives of the people by direct legislative authorization have empowered the city to do the very thing the defendants seek to enjoin. The intent of both the people and the Legislature clearly appears. In both instances it is an intent influenced and dictated by history, controversy, experiment, litigation, struggle, defeat."

Controller Craig's statement on Justice Wagner's decision also referred to Mayor Hylan's attitude toward the municipal transit bills and the Mayor's fight against the municipal ten bills "with every device within his power."

PUTS HYLAN TUNNEL COST AT $100,000,000

Author of Holladter Bill Says Injunctions Will Be Used to Halt Such a Plan.

The Narrows tunnel projected by Mayor Hylan for both freight and passenger transportation would cost $100,000,000, according to Assemblyman Samuel H. Hofstadter, author of the amended Narrows Tunnel bill, which was signed by Governor Smith. Assemblyman Hofstadter added $40,000,000 to the Mayor's estimate of $60,000,000 last night when he explained the details of his amended bill to about thirty members of the United Real Estate Owners' Association at their regular monthly meeting at the Hotel Astor.

Injunctions will be employed if necessary to block the Mayor's freight-passenger tunnel, according to Mr. Hofstadter. Furthermore, the Port of New York Authority, operating under laws enacted by the Legislatures of both the States of New York and New Jersey, as well as under a Congressional act, has already projected a freight tunnel from Greenville, N. J., to the Port Hamilton section of Brooklyn. The Port Authority will not permit the City of New York to build a competitive tunnel.

According to Mr. Hofstadter, the tunnel which Mayor Hylan proposes to build and link up with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad line on Staten Island and the New Jersey shore would be so much longer than the direct tunnel freight route from Greenville to Brooklyn that it would represent annually an expense of $100,000,000 over the direct route in ton mileage alone.

Stewart Browne, presiding at the meeting, stated that Mayor Hylan's proposal to build a freight and passenger tunnel was merely a gesture before election time, that the Mayor would not dare build the tunnel in the face of the opposition of the Port Authority and that the taxpayers would find the cost of such an undertaking saddled upon themselves if the Mayor actually did try to build it.

He defended the Mayor, however, in the Sinnott & Canty bonding disclosures, and asserted that some of the newspapers were not "fighting" the Mayor fairly in their treatment of the testimony and statements given out by Deputy Controller Charles F. Kerrigan.

HYLAN SEES TAX PLOT BY PORT AUTHORITY

Gets Estimate Board's Backing to Fight Any Legislation to Exempt Its Property.

Mayor Hylan, supported by the Board of Estimate, embarked yesterday on a new phase of his fight against the Port of New York Authority, of which Governor Alfred E. Smith is a former member and with which the Governor always has been in warm sympathy.

The Mayor endeavored to check what, he said, was a studied attempt by the Port Authority to win from the next session of the New York and New Jersey Legislatures such broad powers in exempting from taxation whatever property the Port Authority may acquire, whether in New York City alone such exemptions might deprive the city of about $9,000,000 in annual taxes.

It was further suggested by the Mayor that the Port Authority should be endowed with such powers it might even take over the railroads, freight terminal facilities and warehouses, assessed at many millions of dollars valuation, and then lease them back again to their present owners for rentals.

At the Mayor's suggestion, the Board of Estimate, which was sitting in Committee of the Whole, adopted resolutions directing the Mayor to enlist in the opposing movement the support of other municipalities in the port district. The resolutions also fixed May 22, at 2:30 P. M., as the time for a public hearing on the matter.

The board also directed, without a dissenting vote, that 2,000 copies of a report prepared by Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson and Chief Engineer Arthur S. Tuttle of the Board of Estimate, who had studied taxation in relation to the Port Authority, and "wherein the ever-increasing magnitude of the powers claimed by Julius Henry Cohen, counsel for the Port Authority, is discussed," be printed. The board directed also that copies of this report be sent to the President of the United States, the Secretary of War, members of Congress, Governor Smith and the Governor of New Jersey and the members of the State Legislative Committee on Taxation of Port Authority Property, the last named committee will hold its final hearing on May 26 at 11 Broadway, the headquarters of the Port Authority, and the taxpayers' demonstration sponsored by the Mayor and the Board of Estimate is to be three days in advance at the City Hall.

HYLAN READY TO DEBAR A SCHOOL CONTRACTOR

Mayor Bids Board of Education Let Him Know When Brennan Is Low Bidder.

Mayor Hylan, presiding over the Board of Estimate in Committee of the Whole yesterday, threatened to debar P. J. Brennan, one of the most extensive school building contractors in the city, from any further construction of public schools.

The Mayor's threat was voiced in discussion of a dispute that had arisen between Mr. Brennan and the Board of Education over ceilings which are alleged to be defective in Public School No. 186, in Coney Island. The Board of Education is now replacing them. Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson has begun litigation against the contractor.

"Let us know when Brennan is the low bidder on any school job again," said Mayor Hylan, "and we shall take care of that fellow. We will see that he doesn't build any more schools."

A Board of Education representative who was present pointed out to the Mayor that it was difficult to bar a contractor and said it would have to be proved he was not responsible.

"Well, let us know when he is the lowest bidder," said Borough President Julius Miller of Manhattan, echoing the Mayor, as the incident was closed.

Mr. Brennan's office is at 624 Madison Avenue.

Coroner's Jury Finds That He Was Temporarily Insane.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, May 11 (A. P.).—The Coroner's jury today returned a verdict that the Hon. Francis John Lascelles, who was found dead at his home on Saturday, committed suicide while temporarily insane.

The deceased was a half-brother of the Earl of Harewood, who is the father-in-law of Princess Mary.

Albany Bride Attempts Suicide.

ALBANY, May 11.—Mrs. Thomas J. McEnaney, who returned from a honeymoon trip of a week last night, today leaped into the Hudson River at the foot of Bassett Street, but was rescued by a man who leaped in after her. Mrs. McEnaney was formerly secretary to Dr. George Wiley, Assistant State Commissioner of Education. Her husband is secretary of the Albany Underwriters' Association and a life insurance salesman.

WOMEN BACK SMITH IN FIGHT ON HYLAN

DESIRE NOVEMBER VICTORY

Mayor's Name Not Formally Mentioned, but Nomination of "Acceptable" Candidates Is Urged.

The Women's Democratic Union, Inc., at its annual meeting yesterday at the Biltmore, Sixty-seventh Street and Park Avenue, adopted resolutions pledging its readiness to follow the "inimitable leadership" of Governor Smith and urging the nomination of candidates on the Mayoralty ticket this year acceptable to independents as well as Democrats.

Mayor Hylan's name was not mentioned in the second resolution nor did this contain a word of censure of the present city administration. The two resolutions read together, however, were accepted as meaning only one thing—that, like the Governor, the Democratic women of the organization are opposed to the renomination of Mayor Hylan for a third term and will go the limit in supporting the Governor in any fight on Hylan.

Leaders of the Women's Democratic Union, Inc., made it plain after the meeting and a luncheon following it that they agreed most heartily with Governor Smith in his belief that, even if renominated by the Democrats Mayor Hylan could not be re-elected. In the resolution relating to the coming city election this line appeared:

"As loyal Democrats we earnestly desire a complete Democratic victory in the New York City elections in November."

The resolutions were adopted at a meeting which was held behind closed doors. It was stated after the gathering that action had been unanimous and that there had been no debate on either resolution.

At the luncheon about 150 women, some of them not members, were in attendance. Representative John J. O'Connor of the Sixteenth Congressional District (in Manhattan) and Senator James J. Walker, leader of the Democratic minority in the upper house at Albany, were the speakers.

Senator Walker launched upon a eulogy of the leadership of Governor Smith which was warmly applauded. Both refrained from any reference to the coming Mayoralty campaign.

Congressman O'Connor told of the tribulations of himself and his colleagues in the House of Representatives as a result of the persistent and continuous attempts by constituents to coerce members of Congress into voting for measures which individually they might not approve. He spoke of this situation as an indication that representative government was passing and a pure democracy taking its place and urged that Representatives should be left to follow the dictates of their own minds and consciences in their action on measures pending before Congress.

"We are gratified to note the splendid record of the party in Congress and in the State Legislature," said the first resolution adopted. "We are proud to know that every Democratic member of the State Legislature stood by the party platform and did all in his power to enact it into law. Especially we congratulate the broken pledges of the opposition party. More than all, we are proud of the achievements of our great leader, Governor Alfred E. Smith, in overcoming hostile legislatures, giving us progressive and furthering a progressive, constructive program of State government. We congratulate him on his distinguished record of public service and commend him and our party to his inimitable leadership and our readiness to follow it."

The other resolution read:

"As loyal Democrats we earnestly desire a complete Democratic victory, which will be a signal to the country that the Democracy of this State is united and triumphant under harmonious leadership. We therefore urge the nomination of men and women who will thus unite the party and will give assurance of the best type of municipal government. We call for candidates selected from Republican, Democratic and Independents alike will be glad to follow them to victory."

In 1922, when William R. Hearst was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, the Women's Democratic Union, Inc., as its first official act, adopted a resolution denouncing the candidacy of the editor-politician. They followed this up by hard work, which resulted in a complete defeat borne in upon Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy that the nomination of Mr. Hearst would mean the practically unanimous opposition of the Democratic women in the State to any ticket on which it is a matter of political history that Hearst lost and Alfred E. Smith won the nomination in that year.

In 1923 the anti-Hearst resolution was adopted at a luncheon similar to that given yesterday. The departure from that program this year and the plan to adopt the anti-Hylan resolution at the meeting preceding the luncheon was said to have been taken out of consideration for Congressman O'Connor and Senator Walker, in the belief that they might not be ready to take sides and that it might have embarrassed them. The two speakers were assured upon their arrival at the Sulgrave that there was nothing in the resolution adopted to cause them any embarrassment. Both waived all explanations and told the women that they had accepted an invitation to speak at the luncheon, would be glad to go through with their part of the program and were not at all concerned with what had occurred before the luncheon.

While none of the women were willing to discuss the resolutions or their purport for publication, in informal discussion they plainly evidenced their belief that Mayor Hylan would be found unavailable by the time nominations were to be made. They made it clear that they were willing to take the field against him as a candidate for a third term. As far as could be learned, they are not committed to any particular candidate as yet.

Both resolutions were prepared by the Executive Committee of the Women's Democratic Union and were presented by Mrs. Anne O'Hagan Shinn, Secretary of the organization. She was directed to forward copies of the Mayoralty resolution to the five Democratic County Committees and the Executive Committees. The women hope that the resolution will be accepted by these functionaries as their ultimatum against the renomination of Mayor Hylan.

Mrs. O'Hagan Shinn, a member of the Democratic National Committee, Mrs. Royal S. Copeland, Mrs. John W. Davis, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mrs. James J. Walker, Mrs. Julius Miller and Miss Annie Mathews, Register of New York County, had been invited as guests of honor. The only woman to speak at the luncheon was Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who briefly surveyed the work of the Women's Division of the Democratic State Committee and announced the forthcoming publication of The Women's Democratic News, which will be the official organ of the Democratic women in this State. Mrs. John Blair, who had been re-elected Chairman of the Women's Democratic Union, acted as toastmaster.

The following officers were elected at the annual meeting of the Democratic women: Chairman, Mrs. John Blair; Secretary, Mrs. Anne O'Hagan Shinn; Treasurer, Mrs. Abram I. Elkus; Vice Chairmen, Mrs. James G. Gerosa, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Mrs. Montgomery Hare, Mrs. David F. Houston and Mrs. Henry Moskowitz; Directors, Miss Amey Aldrich, Mrs. Norman de Davis, Mrs. Pierre Jay, Miss Elizabeth G. Feree, Miss Virginia Potter, Mrs. Alfred Rose, Mrs. Vanderbilt Webb and Miss Carrie Wiley. All were re-elected with the exception of Mrs. Rose, who takes the place of Miss Ethel Stebbins.

Among women who attended the luncheon were Mrs. Francis Barlow, Mrs. William Balfour, Mrs. Richard Billings, Mrs. Louis J. Bishop, Mrs. John C. Breckenridge, Miss Mina M. Bruere, Mrs. George R. Childs, Mrs. Arthur C. Cheate, Miss Nancy Cook, Mrs. Frederick C. Cranford, Miss Mary Drier, Mrs. Greenville Fane, Miss Pauline Goldmark, Mrs. William Good, Mrs. Earl Harding, Mrs. J. Haskell, Mrs. Raymond T. Ingersoll, Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Mrs. Michael Mooney, Mrs. Robert Moses, City Magistrate Jean Norris, Mrs. Frank Hunter Potter, Mrs. Joseph Proskauer, Mrs. Lorenso Semple, Miss Dorothy Straus, Mrs. Jesse Straus, Mrs. John A. Stutphen, Miss J. C. Verplanck, Miss Claire Wiley and Miss Belle Wiley.

Grand Jury Picked for Oil Indictments; Judge Warns Against Unauthorized Persons

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Taking official notice of the fact that the presence of unauthorized persons before a Grand Jury has been responsible for quashing indictments, Justice Frederick L. Siddons of Criminal Court 1, in selecting and obligating the new special Federal Grand Jury today, warned the jurors that the question of the right of any person to appear before them must be determined before such person appears, and not afterward.

This Grand Jury, as finally completed today, will investigate the alleged criminal phases of the oil lease cases, which involve charges against Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior; Edward L. Doheny and Edward L. Doheny Jr., and Harry F. Sinclair, and the leases between the Government and these defendants by which the latter took over the Elk Hills, Cal., and Teapot Dome, Wyo., naval oil reserves.

"You must not permit any persons in the Grand Jury room except those authorized under the law governing these proceedings," the Court said, with emphasis. "If at any time an application to appear before you should be made by some person who is not officially under the law authorized to appear, it is better for you to submit such application to the Court and then let it be determined whether this or that person has a lawful right before the Grand Jury."

Justice Siddons also warned the jurors of the necessity for secrecy concerning the cases to be presented for investigation. The Court selected Harry C. Stewart, cashier of the National Capital Bank, as foreman.

Assistant Attorney General Oliver E. Pagan appeared before the first Special Grand Jury which investigated the oil lease cases. Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy quashed the indictments on the ground that Mr. Pagan's appearance was contrary to law. Only Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, special counsel in the oil lease cases, and District Attorney Peyton Gordon may lawfully appear before the new Grand Jury, according to Chief Justice McCoy's decision.

The Grand Jury will begin its work tomorrow.

2 BRONX HOSPITALS TO BE BUILT BY CITY

Estimate Board Approves Plans for 322-Bed Institution to Cost $3,450,000.

OTHER WILL COST $1,200,000

Will Replace Lincoln Hospital in the Southern Part of the Borough.

The City of New York is preparing to build two new and thoroughly modern hospitals, both in the Borough of the Bronx.

One, which is to be known as the Bronx General Hospital, is to be located in the western section of that borough and is to cost $3,450,000, and for which the Board of Estimate in Committee of the Whole yesterday approved the plans and specifications.

The other will be located in the southern section of the Bronx. It is to cost approximately $1,200,000 and is designed to serve the territory now covered by Lincoln Hospital, a private institution whose management, because of inability to meet current expenses and wipe out its deficit, has declared the intention to close its odors and liquidate its endowment and other assets between now and Dec. 31.

The Bronx General Hospital will occupy a site between Walton and Gerard Avenues, from 169th Street to Cedar. When the board of estimate yesterday recommended that the approval of the plans and the form of contract be formally voted at the Board meeting next Friday, Mayor Hylan declared that the institution "will be one of the most modern hospitals ever erected in any municipality."

As the result of a conference held at City Hall last Friday, Commissioner Bird S. Coler of the Department of Public Welfare will formally request the Board of Estimate on Friday next, for a site for the new hospital in the Bronx at an estimated cost of $1,200,000.

According to the plans the hospital will contain 100 beds and will occupy a site consisting of twenty-six city lots abutting on Cedar Avenue, Jessup Avenue between 147th and 145th Streets, backing on St. Mary's Park.

A plan has been put forward to increase the weekly fee for city patients in Lincoln Hospital from $15 to $20, to enable the hospital to carry on its work until the new South Bronx institution is ready.

The Bronx General Hospital, which has advanced to the stage where construction bids will soon be asked for, will be a nine-story structure containing 322 beds. The nurses' home and training school is to have 60 rooms and the dormitory for the help 116 rooms. The city already has appropriated $2,000,000 for the project.

Harvard Student Is Acquitted.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 11.—Cutler J. Coulson, Harvard law student and member of the Harvard Glee Club, was acquitted today when he was arraigned in East Cambridge Superior Court, charged with assault on Miss Edith Taylor, policewoman. Coulson proved that he was in Philadelphia with the Glee Club at the time Miss Taylor, the sole witness against him, alleged the assault occurred. Miss Taylor testified that when she saw a young man attempt to kiss a girl she endeavored to arrest him and that when she drew her revolver he seized her wrist and later escaped. She had identified Coulson as her assailant.

WESTCHESTER GETS SITE FOR NEW PARK

Thirty-four Acres in Mt. Vernon Will Also Be Used for a Boulevard.

SOLD BY JESSE WINBURN

His Plans for a Golf Course Only for Men Are Spoiled by the Transaction.

The Westchester County Park Commission, it was announced yesterday, has acquired thirty-four acres of the old Hunt estate in North Mount Vernon for a park and boulevard which will eventually be part of the proposed east-west highway to connect the Hudson River and Long Island Sound.

Announcement of the acquisition was made by Jesse Winburn of 527 Fifth Avenue, one of the owners of the property, who said several weeks ago that it was to be used as a golf course "for men only."

The property contains about 65 acres, and, Mr. Winburn said, the portion obtained by the Park Commission runs through the middle of the land. It runs from the north end of the property in a south-easterly direction to Grand Street, Mount Vernon.

The property brought $4,200 an acre, or a total of $142,800.

Mr. Winburn admitted the purchase spoils his plans for a man's golf course. "I'm sorry to lose the golf course," he said, "but I'm glad to see Mount Vernon get a park. Of course, I sold willingly, since the commission could have condemned the property and bought it that way. I did not want to obstruct any improvements.

"Still, I think the women of Mount Vernon who didn't like the idea of not getting to play golf on a course they had once when it was occupied by Sinwaney, Sunningdale and Mount Vernon clubs, suggested to the commission that this property be bought for park purposes. I think it's a fine idea to put it over."

Mr. Winburn said the remainder of the property will be sold as building sites.

MATCH BRINGS GAS BLASTS.

Three Adults Are Injured and Baby Suffers Immersion in Bath.

Angelo Scarandella, 41 years old, of 231 East Twenty-fourth Street, an ice man, making a delivery at the home of Mrs. Mary Brown on the third floor of 330 Third Avenue yesterday, was asked to see if he could locate a gas leak.

Scarandello struck a match.

In two explosions which followed, he and Mrs. Brown were burned and Mrs. Lucy Lousararian, who was bathing her child, Armand, on the floor above, was thrown to the floor, dropping the baby into the tub. Scarandella and Mrs. Brown were treated for burns. Mrs. Lousararian for gas inhalation and the baby for immersion.

$225,000 in Liquor Destroyed.

Liquor valued at $225,000 was destroyed at Pier 1, Brooklyn, yesterday, under orders from United States Marshal William C. Hecht of the Southern District of New York. Thirty-one drums of alcohol and 2,679 cases of whisky were drained into the bay. The stuff had been seized in raids. It could have been distributed among hospitals, but was found unfit for medicinal use.

ers to have them taken from committees and brought out on the floor for action. Mr. Aron declared that the Republicans would welcome Mr. Hylan as a candidate for a third term if he ran on the transit issue as he has proclaimed he would.

"The transit issue as presented by Mayor Hylan is and always has been a fake issue and the time has come to demonstrate that fact to the public," he said. "The fault will be ours, not the public's, if the Mayor fools them again."

He said that the 5-cent fare had been maintained only on the subway lines, and there because they were a matter of contract executed during the Gaynor Administration. On the surface lines, he said, there had been an increased fare. In Brooklyn 500,000,000 passengers who paid 7 cents to ride on surface cars in 1907 are paying an average of more than 7 cents now for the same amount of travel.

Construction Record.

Turning to the construction record, Mr. Aron said:

"The only subway construction begun in seven years of Mayor Hylan's administration was planned by the Transit Commission and the Mayor's Board of Transportation has had practically nothing to do with it. The facts go still further.

"In order to turn a spade of dirt for subway construction in New York City the present law requires that four distinct steps shall be taken. First, the route must be adopted by the Board of Transportation. The route so adopted must be approved by the Board of Estimate and the Mayor; consent of private owners must then be obtained.

"The Board of Transportation is then in a position properly detailed plans, advertise for bids and submit construction contracts to the Board of Estimate for the appropriation of necessary moneys. He then told of the requirements to submit an estimate of the prospective results of the operation over a term of ten years.

"Not a single foot of subway in New York City has been validated under this law," he continued. "Not a single estimate, as required by law, has been submitted to the Board of Estimate as to the prospective results of operation.

"The city Administration faced a dilemma. Under the law it had to start subway construction to appease an outraged public on the eve of election. It did not dare comply with the law passed at its own request to create its own Board of Transportation. When then was it to do it. If it complied with the law creating the Board of Transportation it would expose to the public the fact that Hylan had brought us to a 10-cent fare on the subways. If it did not comply with the law, its only course was to go back and start construction on the routes laid out by the Transit Commission and adopted two years ago. To escape that dilemma the Administration attempted another trick."

Mr. Aron told of the attempt to have the law amended and the failure which attended that attempt.

Route Validated Two Years Ago.

"The only thing left to the city, then, was to start work on the Transit Commission routes, because there was not a single foot of subway in New York City ready for construction except those routes worked out by the Transit Commission," Mr Aron went on. "The result is that the only actual dirt digging is on routes validated two years ago, which would have been 90 per cent. completed today if the city had done in 1923 what it has been forced to do in 1925.

"We stand faced tonight by a Hylan Board of Transportation costing the city at the rate of $1,000,000 a month—a half million a year with not a foot of subway construction validated or ready to be started, and it is not daring to make a move with the construction of new subways under the present condition, as it will mean a 10-cent fare.

"Meanwhile women and children and old men and old women and young girls are being herded into subway cars night and morning under conditions which the Federal Government would not permit in the transportation of cattle and sheep and this a condition which cannot be relieved for at least five years as the result of Mr. Hylan's tactics.

"This is a record of the Hylan Administration on the transit issue and if the Mayor chooses to take the offensive and make his third term fight on that issue the Republicans will welcome it and the public will take care of the result at the election."

MILLS ASSAILS HYLAN.

Says His Present Traction Program Is One He Discarded in 1923.

The Administration of Mayor Hylan was attacked by Congressman Ogden L. Mills in an address before the Men's and Women's Club of the Twenty-third Assembly District Republican Club at 60 Bennett Avenue last night.

Mr. Mills said the present Hylan traction program was the same as that proposed by the Board of Estimate during the Mayor's absence from the city in 1923 and discarded by the Mayor on his return. He pointed out that at the present time 22 per cent. of the total enrolment in the schools was on part time, as against only 14 per cent. during Mayor Mitchel's Administration in 1917. He also referred to the present budget of $400,000,000 and contrasted it with the 1917 budget of $206,000,000.

16 IN NEWARK SEEK 5 COMMISSION JOBS

Interest Centres in the Race of James R. Nugent, Democratic Leader of Essex.

ELECTION TO BE HELD TODAY

Lively Contests Reported in Other Parts of Jersey—Sea Isle City Mayor to Quit.

Political interest throughout New Jersey will be centred in Newark today when sixteen candidates, among them James R. Nugent, Democratic leader of Essex County, will seek election to the five offices on the City Commission.

Politicians in Essex County and other parts of the State are watching particularly for the fate of Nugent in the contest. It is believed that if he is elected it will mean the resurrection of the county's Democratic Party which has been torn into many factions in the past few years.

Among those running against Nugent are the present five Commissioners, Mayor Frederick Breidenbach, Commissioners John G. Rowe and Thomas L. Raymond, Republicans, and Commissioners William J. Brennan and Charles P. Gillen, independent Democrats and not affiliated with Nugent. It is almost a certainty that Commissioners Raymond and Brennan will return to office.

Police Judge John F. Murray Jr. is said to be the only other candidate besides Nugent who has a chance of being elected. Other candidates in the race are Timothy F. Hoyle and Louis Lewis, both bracketed with Nugent; John C. Campbell, Charles W. Beardsley and William H. Camfield, endorsed by the Federation of Protestant Churches; Rupert Mills, Republican; William C. Hanrahan, Noah G. Geiger and John T. Wherett.

Special to The New York Times.

COLLINGSWOOD, N. J., May 11.—It is expected that Thomas N. Cornbrooks, naval architect, will be elected as a Commissioner of the Borough of Collingswood tomorrow. His name is bracketed with two of the three present officeholders about whose re-election little uncertainty exists.

Because of the executive positions which Cornbrooks has held with the Bethlehem Steel and New York Shipbuilding corporations he probably will be placed in charge of the Department of Public Works to manage the municipally owned water and sewerage systems. He is a member of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers. At present he is manager of the Camden plant of the automobile concern.

Cornbrooks's only opponent is Hobart N. Stevens, a State examiner of building and loan associations. Other candidates are Alfred E. Roberts, present Commissioner of Revenue and Finance, and Philip G. Knebel, who probably will be chosen Mayor. Mayor Joseph W. Westcott declined to run for another term.

Special to The New York Times.

SEA ISLE CITY, May 11.—The 600 voters of this community will go to the polls tomorrow to elect three City Commissioners, who will choose one of their number as Mayor. The two others will act as Director of Finance and Director of Public Works.

The present city officials are Mayor Irving Fitch, Director of Finance H. C. Love and Director of Public Works M. M. Mofroney. Mayor Fitch is not a candidate for re-election, but the other Commissioners are. All are Republicans.

There is a sharp contest for the vacancy on the commission caused by Mayor Fitch's retirement between John La Maher, City Clerk, a Republican, and J. P. Delaney, former City Commissioner, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette, a Democrat.

The three men elected Commissioners will hold their organization meeting a week after election, when the three offices will be filled. The Mayor's salary is $700 per annum and that of the two others $600 per annum each.

Special to The New York Times.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., May 11.—Orson H. Brown, John C. Friedrich and Charles E. Woodward, the present City Commissioners of Bordentown, will seek re-election at the polls here tomorrow, but will be opposed by eight other candidates for the three places.

In addition to the incumbents those on the ballot are Robert E. Stevens, George P. Miller, Louis J. Kafer, Maurice J. Keating, Raymond L. Carty, Jacob Holzbaur, Andrew A. Wevat and Lang Myers.

There is lively interest in the contest and a heavy vote is anticipated.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMDEN, N. J., May 11.—Voters of Haddonfield and Audubon, with a combined population of 35,000, will elect three Commissioners each tomorrow. Eight candidates are contesting for three places in both Haddonfield and Audubon.

In Haddonfield the candidates are George Abel, Robert Bradshaw, Bernard T. Bunston, Morris R. Clark, William A. Griscom, Frederick T. Holloway, Joseph K. Lippincott Jr. and Joseph R. Shivers. Clark and Holloway are seeking re-election. Former Mayor Lippincott is linked with Clark and Holloway. Abel is a retired business man, and Bradshaw a former President of the Civic Association. Bunston and Griscom are Pennsylvania Railroad men, and Shivers is a real estate man. Griscom and Bunston have been endorsed by the Wirdwood Improvement Association, composed of recent residents in a new section. Bradshaw has the support of a large number of influential residents.

The Audubon candidates are Mayor Conway Bennett, Howard Callingham, Frank A. Fogel, Edward R. Fox, Louis C. Graupman, Frank J. Gray Sr., Lewis T. Pierce and John W. Zanger. Fogel and Zanger are seeking re-election with Mayor Bennett. Fox and Pierce are candidates of the Independent Civic League. Many combinations have been formed by the candidates and their friends, which have practically equalized the strength of the candidates.

$733,000 RAISED HERE FOR PALESTINE FUND

Campaign Ends With a Dinner—Untermyer Attacks Dean Inge for Statement on Jews.

It was reported last night at a dinner of the Palestine Foundation Fund at the Hotel Astor that $733,000 had been collected in New York. The dinner marked the conclusion of the campaign. Samuel Untermyer, President of the fund, was toastmaster. Other speakers were Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver of Cleveland, Emanuel Neumann, Honorary Secretary of the fund, and Morris Zeldin, director of the campaign in New York.

Mr. Untermyer said that Jewish purposes in Palestine were misrepresented. "We seek no Jewish State, no dictatorship or political power or advantage over our Arab neighbors," he added. "All we ask is equal rights of citizenship and protection under British rule."

Mr. Untermyer attacked Dean Inge for statements concerning Jews made on the eve of the Dean's departure from this country last Saturday. On this subject Mr. Untermyer said in part:

"To refute the Jew-baiting slanders of the Gloomy Dean, couched as they are in cheap cynical witticisms, would be to lend value to the petulant snarling of a medieval, uninformed mind and jaundiced temper. If the business of the banker is not as reputable as any other occupation (which I emphatically deny), if all the great money-lenders are shylocks, as he would seem to imply, does he not know that the great shylocks of the present age are now Christians and that we Jews play a very small role among the world financiers?

"In point of fact, in this present mad race for money and power I find little choice between the ambitions and methods of the men of different races and creeds.

"What hope is there for the world, racked by post-war hates and suspicions, torn by racial and national animosities, when preachers of religion, from whom we have a right to expect words of counsel, reason and reconciliation, take the lead in catering to the prejudices and fanning the flames of the mob?

"The courage, patriotism and self-sacrifice of the Jews are written in large on every page of our history and are so greatly out of proportion to their numbers that one often marvels at the strange combination of bigotry, ignorance and ingratitude that are manifesting themselves from time to time in the attacks upon our Americanism."

BANKER DIES UNDER TRAIN.

Engineer Says He Saw Danger, but Refused to Move.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, May 11.—Stepping in front of a fast Pennsylvania passenger train, John T. Ridgway, 42 years old, formerly manager of the City Hall branch of the Union Trust Company, was instantly killed at 9:30 this morning at Epworth Heights.

L. E. Daly, engineer, on his return tonight, said Ridgway saw the train coming and when he sounded the whistle shook his head.

He said the banker turned for a last look at the approaching train and then turned his back and waited for death.

Ridgway with his wife and two daughters moved to his summer home three weeks ago following his recovery from an attack of Amnesia, on March 7, when he walked out of the bank and was not seen until three days later when he appeared at a police station and asked to be identified. He was taken to a hospital for treatment and when he recovered was advised by physicians to rest. He resigned his banking connection on April 1.

Rescue Three in Long Island Sound.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., May 11.—Severa l members of the New York Athletic Club rescued Salvatore Somino, 43, of 253 Elizabeth Street, Bronx; his daughter Rosa and Joseph Cartramano of the same address today when their rowboat capsized in Long Island Sound near Huckleberry Island. Somino is in the hospital suffering from injuries inflicted on his head when he plunged upon a submerged rock. Somino overturned the boat in attempting to raise the anchor.

WILL ASK CONGRESS FOR 150,000 ARMY

Officials Say Hawaii and Other Outposts Demand Increase of 32,000 Men.

CANNOT ACT OTHERWISE

War Department Expects to Revise Oahu Defense Program as a Result of Manoeuvres.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—With a view to providing a more adequate defense of Hawaii and other overseas garrisons Congress will be asked at the coming session to increase the army to 150,000 men instead of the legal limit of 118,000 as at present.

With this increase of 32,000 men, army officials said, the land defenses of Oahu, the principal island in the Hawaii group, could be materially strengthened, but they declined to indicate just how large a garrison would be maintained there should Congress act.

In the course of a discussion of Hawaiian defenses today Acting Secretary Davis of the War Department made it plain that it would be impossible to enlarge the garrison in Hawaii with the army as it now stands. He stated that, lacking legislation, the department would be unable to add to the force of less than 15,000 troops now stationed in and around Honolulu and at other points in Hawaii.

"It is not possible under present conditions," Mr. Davis said, "to maintain any of our overseas garrisons at the strength they should have."

Expects to Increase Air Forces.

Acting Secretary Davis also said that while the army expects to increase the number of its airplanes during the next few years this did not necessarily mean that the air forces in Hawaii would be materially strengthened any more than those in the United States, the Philippines or Panama. He declared that national defense must be considered as a whole and the forces distributed accordingly, consideration being given to the coast line of Continental United States of approximately 10,000 miles, as well as to strategic locations in our island possessions.

Secretary Davis admitted that the question of fire control in Hawaii, discussed in Honolulu cable dispatches to THE NEW YORK TIMES, is a serious one. He indicated that this situation would be remedied if Congress would make adequate appropriations at the coming session. He again expressed the hope that the Military Committees of Congress would visit Hawaii in the near future in order that they might be made acquainted by first hand inquiry as to the status of the defenses at this outpost in the Pacific.

Military officials assert that the Hawaiian Islands would not be difficult to defend from the air, provided there are sufficient forces. The islands, they said, are relatively more difficult to defend from the sea, however, than a similar continental area or continental coast line, for the reason that they have to be defended from all points of the compass.

Will Act on the Umpire's Reports.

With our fleet based on Oahu, military officials say, it would be exceedingly difficult for an enemy to make a landing. With our fleet in the Atlantic, an entirely different situation would be presented. Under such conditions, military experts declare, a powerful enemy willing to stand initial losses could land and secure a temporary base. They say that it would be possible to make Hawaii the Gibraltar of the Pacific, but that it would not be worth the cost.

War and navy officials are awaiting the reports of the umpires in the war games in the Pacific. These will demonstrate just what is needed in the way of additional defenses in Hawaii, particularly Pearl Harbor, and probably will be made the basis of a revised project that will call for additional expenditures, military and naval, as well as for the enlargement of the air services of both arms in the Hawaiian group.

The report of Admiral Coontz, the navy umpire, has been mailed, according to advices received here, and is not expected at the Navy Department until on or about May 18. It will be made public in part at least, after it has been considered by the General Board and Secretary Wilbur.

Acting Secretary Davis said today that General Hines, Chief of Staff, who acted as the army umpire, will bring his report with him. He is now on his way to the United States, and on landing is expected to come direct to Washington.

WHOLE FLEET AT LAHAINA.

Sleepy Village Has a Sight Denied to All Other Ports.

ABOARD U. S. S. SEATTLE AT LAHAINA ROADS ANCHORAGE, May 11. (A. P.).—The sleepy little village of Old Lahaina, rich in Hawaiian tradition and historic incidents, today obtained a privilege denied to all other parts of the United States. For at sea before the former seat of the Hawaiian monarchy rode at anchor the largest number of American warships ever assembled at one place at one time in history.

There were acres of ships—ships of all classes and descriptions, from submarines to the destroyers, light cruisers, battleships and train vessels, the commissary and auxiliary section of the fleet. The Langley, the navy's one airplane carrier, was anchored away from the rest of the fleet on the extreme left flank.

The personnel settled down today for a week's sailing and the overhaul and brightening of ship after the manoeuvres, preliminary to the resumption of the exercise program on May 18. The light cruisers Detroit and Omaha, the submarine R-6 and thirty destroyers put to sea this morning for exercise and scouting manoeuvres.

A whaleboat from the destroyer Farquhar containing five petty officers capsized in Lahaina Harbor while sailing. There were no casualties.

The campaign to keep liquor from the personnel of the fleet resulted today in the arrest of two alleged bootleggers by Federal officers.

A series of conferences began today among the high command which may determine the lines on which the future naval policy of the country will be drawn. The entire manoeuvres from the departure from San Francisco, including the "battle" of Oahu and subsequent exercises, will be reviewed while the personnel of the fleet, which is held aboard by the fact that there is "nothing doing ashore," as the sailors express it, is receiving invaluable training.

FEARED THAT FRENCH WAS LOST IN HAWAII

But Searchers Find Sight-Seeing Idaho Congressman, Delayed on a Mountain Climb.

HALEAKALA, Maui, Hawaii, May 11 (A. P.).—Congressman Burton French of Idaho, who left the rest house on Haleakala Mountain at 3 o'clock this morning to watch the sunrise and for whom anxiety was felt when he had not returned at 7 o'clock, was found by searchers at 10 o'clock, about three miles from the rest house. He was not injured.

Mr. French said he had not been lost, but had been attracted to a higher point from which to get a view.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Representative Burton L. French is one of the most prominent figures on the Appropriations Committee of the House when it comes to consideration of estimates for the naval establishment. He is Chairman of the sub-committee which handles these appropriations and is known as a great friend of the navy, with which he has been familiar for years.

With the exception of two terms he has been a member of the House since 1903, being elected at the age of 27 years.

About the middle of March he left Washington for Moscow, Idaho, his home, where he left Mrs. French, and went on to join the fleet, with which he sailed from San Francisco in April.

$175 IS RECEIVED FOR NEEDY COUPLE

New Quarters Found, and Young Husband, Who Is Ailing, Gets Offers of Jobs.

THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday received several contributions for the relief of the young couple who had appealed on Saturday to the police of the East 104th Street Police Station for food. The police also received some contributions, Captain Joseph Loonam taking charge of them.

| | |
|---|---|
| A. C. L. | $5 |
| A. S. M. | 10 |
| I. S. R. | 10 |
| Ferriday, Mrs. H. M. | 50 |
| Miller, O. S. | 5 |
| Smith, Mrs. F. W. | 25 |
| Smitler, W. | 10 |
| Ziv, William | 3 |
| Received by police in anonymous contributions | 65 |
| Total | $175 |

The offer of positions were many, but most of them were not suitable, as the young man is in need of immediate medical attention. This item was cared for by a woman who refused to give her name, but who left a card with Captain Loonam, which she said would guarantee immediate attention at Mount Sinai Hospital, 100th Street and Fifth Avenue, close by the new quarters obtained by the police for the young couple.

The new living quarters, which consist of a large, airy room, with an alcove fitted with a gas stove, were discovered yesterday afternoon, and the removal in the rain was hastened by the volunteered assistance of several policemen.

A letter with an offer of a position and medical treatment was also received by Captain Loonam, who gave the young man a letter to the sender of the letter and an interview was arranged.

45 MORE INDICTMENTS IN JERSEY RUM CASE

New Batch Adds Other Charges Against Prosecutor Bolitho of Morris County.

Special to The New York Times.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., May 11.—The special Grand Jury investigating prohibition enforcement in Morris County handed up forty-five more indictments in court here yesterday in addition to the twenty-eight it returned last week. Twenty-nine of the new indictments named County Prosecutor James H. Bolitho, who was named in eighteen of the first batch. Bolitho is charged with malfeasance, acceptance of bribes and extortion in the new indictments.

One indictment charges malfeasance on thirty-four counts in that he is alleged to have failed to lay evidence before the Grand Jury in as many cases involving prohibition law violations. Another charges malfeasance in that he was alleged to have been intoxicated when he appeared with a search warrant with which to hunt liquor at the Arrowhead Inn at Dover on Dec. 7.

A third charges malfeasance in the release from custody of Joseph Q. Smith of Rockaway, after Madison police found bottles alleged to contain liquor in Smith's wrecked automobile on Oct. 18, 1925. It was charged that Mr. Bolitho falsely represented that Smith was in his employ, thereby obtaining possession of the bottles and also bringing about Smith's release from custody.

Indictments returned yesterday charge Mr. Bolitho with falsely certifying as to work purported to have been done on Mr. Bolitho's orders, with the result that persons obtained money to which they were not entitled from here Board of Freeholders. Other indictments charge the prosecutor with malfeasance in connection with the charges of extortion embodied in the indictments returned last week.

The other persons indicted yesterday were Fred Hubert, assistant county detective; Max Reidler, special constable; Patsy Mutarello, real estate dealer; Daniel A. Marino, lawyer; Justice of the Peace William Gardner, Justice of the Peace Henry H. Schroer, Peter Dolimpo, Jacob Fink, Joseph Regan, Joseph Canty, Harry Novick, John Hudock, Joseph Reese, Anthony Juliano, Angelo Grande and Carmine Ficca.

John A. Matthews, counsel for Prosecutor Bolitho, told Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker that he intended to attack the legality of the proceedings and move for the dismissal of all the charges. Judge Parker set May 22 for argument.

WILL SEEK WIFE'S SLAYER.

Sought by Police, Jersey Man Joins Hunt for Brother Accused of Crime.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N. J., May 11.—Andrew Richards, who has been sought by the police since early in February on a charge of attacking several Coast Guards who had arrested some alleged rum-runners, returned voluntarily from Canada today to help the police hunt for his brother, George, who is accused of killing Andrew's wife, Jennie, in her home here Sunday night.

Three men and a young woman who were in the Richards' home at the time of the shooting were held in $1,000 bail as material witnesses. Mrs. Julia Persell, 20 years old, of Leonardo, N. J., who said she saw the shooting, told the police that Mrs. Richards had gone automobiling with her brother-in-law and returned suddenly a few minutes later, whereupon, she continued, according to the police, George came into the house, shot her and fled in his machine.

De Pinedo Reaches Cocanada, India.

COCANADA, British India, May 11 (A. P.).—Commander de Pinedo, the Italian airman, arrived at this port, on the Bay of Bengal, today in continuance of his flight from Italy to Australia and Japan.

Coolidge Foregoes Choice Gift Cigars; Fears Spoiling Taste for 10-Cent Cheroots

A story that President Coolidge habitually smokes 10-cent cheroots, which he prefers to expensive cigars, was related last night by Charles D. Hilles, a close friend of the President, at a meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria of the Ohio Society, of which Mr. Hilles is President.

"Not long ago a friend of the President went into his study," said Mr. Hilles, "and found Mr. Coolidge smoking a 10-cent cigar—what he usually smokes—a non-alcoholic 10-cent cheroot. This friend thought that the President should have something better than that to smoke, so the next day he sent him a box of expensive cigars.

"About two weeks later this same friend again found the President smoking the same kind of cheroot in his study. The President noticed him looking at the cigar and, thinking he was hinting that he would like a smoke, took out a box of cigars and offered it to his visitor. The friend found that it was the same box that he had presented to the President, but that only three of the cigars had been used.

"He asked President Coolidge if he did not like the brand, and the President answered: 'No. I am very much like Jim Jackson of Westhampton. Jim once went to an ice-cream social given by the Congregational church, where 50 cents was charged for admission and everything was free. When Jim got inside a large plate of strawberry ice cream was put before him, but it was noticed that he did not touch it. Finally some one inquired about it and asked him why he didn't partake of the ice cream, as long as it had been paid for. "No," Jim replied, "I won't have any, thank you. I am afraid I might spoil my taste for prunes."'"

Major Gen. Charles P. Summerall, commander of the Second Army Corps Area, who returned last August from three years' service in Hawaii, explained the significance of the military and naval manoeuvres held in the last few weeks. He said that Hawaii was one of the most conspicuously strategic points in the world and showed how Pearl Harbor must be fortified and manned with troops for the protection of our fleet and the Pacific Coast. "The manoeuvres," he said, would serve an important purpose if they awakened our people to an appreciation of the value of the islands for our defense.

'P. D.' SIGN FIGURES IN COLLISION ROW

Letter With Repair Bill Said to Have Called Attention to Special License.

WRITER NO POLICEMAN

But His Wife, Whose Car Was Hit, Is Said to Be the Sister of a Police Surgeon.

Alexander Overcharek, owner of a small dry goods store at 12 Fifth Street, New Dorp, S. I., said last night that he had brought suit for damages to his automobile against Mrs. C. H. Bolles Jr. of 135 Prospect Park West, Brooklyn, as the result of a letter Overcharek had received several days ago from Mrs. Bolles's husband. Bolles, Overcharek said, demanded that Overcharek make good damages to Mrs. Bolles's automobile, received on May 5 last in Staten Island in a collision with the car driven by Overcharek.

Overcharek said that after demanding payment for a repair bill the letter from Bolles read: "You perhaps did not notice that Mrs. Bolles's car bears the Police Department license plate, and on hearing from you I will know what steps to take as to having your license revoked for careless driving."

"I can't see what difference it made that the car Mrs. Bolles was driving at the time had a 'P. D.' sign on it," Overcharek said last night. "I wasn't responsible for the accident, although Bolles seems to want to have it appear that I was. The fact that Mrs. Bolles has a 'P. D.' sign on the car doesn't mean anything to me."

Bolles, in his letter to Overcharek, said that Overcharek, through "absolute negligence and carelessness," drove his car into the rear of the Bolles's automobile at Tompkins and Simonson Avenues, "badly damaging the rear fender and rear of the car."

Overcharek said that the accident was due to the fact that when he had turned into Tompkins Avenue in front of a northbound bus Mrs. Bolles drove her car to the left from the rear of the bus and directly in the path of his automobile, so that his car struck the rear right mudguard of the woman's automobile. Overcharek said that while he took the name and address of Mrs. Bolles, he was so little interested in the "P. D." sign on her car that he didn't take the number under it.

Bolles is treasurer of the Meurer Steel Barrel Company, 23 West Forty-third Street. It was understood that a brother of his wife is a surgeon in the Police Department and this was the explanation advanced for the presence of the "P. D." sign on Mrs. Bolles's car.

COL. COOLIDGE FAINTS.

President's Father Does Not Remember It—Doctor Finds Him Well.

Special to The New York Times.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., May 11.—Colonel John C. Coolidge, father of the President, suffered a fainting spell this morning while posing for a news photograph and collapsed on the lawn in front of his home. He was assisted into his house on the arms of two camera men.

Dr. Albert W. Cram, the Colonel's personal physician, stated tonight, after a visit to the Coolidge homestead, that the Colonel could not recall having fainted, although those about him had assured him of his collapse. He said that he could not account for the Colonel's collapse because he had found his condition more satisfactory than in several weeks.

Dr. Cram had not been called by the Colonel himself, for, as he said, Colonel Coolidge has no recollection of his mishap. Miss Aurora Pierce, who was frightened when she saw the Colonel fall, was cheered by his rapid recovery, and thought the physician's services unnecessary.

Dr. Cram stated that in his opinion the Colonel's health is being menaced by the multitude of his visitors. Thousands of tourists motor to Plymouth every Sunday in the Summer. Many of them visit the Colonel and receive a warm personal greeting. He shakes the hand of all explaining in detail the ceremony in which he administered the oath of office to his son the morning of President Harding's death.

The Colonel often remains at his desk until long after midnight engaged upon his correspondence. Every letter of the scores that he receives daily are answered.

"I think it would be advisable if the public bothered him less," said Dr. Cram tonight.

15 ARE HELD AS WITNESSES

Hotel Doors and Windows Smashed in Rush for Safety When Shooting Begins.

Two men were shot to death late last night at a smoker of the Durant Social Club of East New York in the Village Inn, at 244 Cropsey Avenue, in the Ulmer Park section of Brooklyn, by three gangsters who, the police say, had been threatened by one man and who invaded their enemy's quarters to "get him first."

The dead men were Henry Ginsburg, known to the police as "Doggy," and Hyman Jacobson.

"Doggy" was seated at a table among 200 men in the dining hall of the inn waiting for a show to start when suddenly those about him heard him groan and saw him sink to the floor. He had been shot with a pistol equipped with a silencer.

Three men with pistols in their hands were walking along the wall keeping the crowd covered and moving toward "Doggy's" body. No one moved as they stooped over the form on the floor, and they kept still while the three men walked to the door and stepped outside.

Then Jacobson ran after them. The others in the room jumped as they heard several shots and the crash of broken window panes. Instantly a rush for the doors and windows started. Some one turned in a fire alarm and some one telephoned for the police.

Only fifteen men were in the inn when police reserves from the Bath Beach precinct, closely followed by the unnecessary fire department arrived. Jacobson was shot through the heart. "Doggy" had been killed by bullets in the left breast and in the head.

The fifteen men, Mrs. Lillian Lande, keeper of the inn and her son, Felix, 15 years old, were taken to the police station by Captain of Detectives John Archipoli for questioning.

Mrs. Lande said the inn had been rented last Saturday night for the smoker by a man she knew only as "Jim." She said she was in the cellar when she heard the shots outside and came up to find the room in disorder with men running out. She declared she knew nothing of the cause of the shooting.

Her son said he was on the stairs when "Doggy" fell and declared he had seen the three men with pistols take something from his pocket when they stooped over him.

In questioning the fifteen men the police said they learned "Doggy" and Jacobson had been implicated in the "wet wash war" among Brownsville laundrymen and that "Doggy" had threatened to "get" some men. The latter, the police declared, evidently had come to the smoker for the same purpose.

DIAMOND DEALER ROBBED.

Three Attack Man in Street—Get Away With $8,000 in Gems.

A few minutes after he had sold several pieces of jewelry at the First Avenue Jewelry Company, 1,405 First Avenue, near Seventy-sixth Street, yesterday about noon, Joseph Bellenson of the diamond firm of Louis Bellenson, 65 Nassau Street, was beaten by three men and robbed of diamonds valued at $8,000.

Bellenson was walking east on Seventy-seventh Street, near Third Avenue, with the gems in a case in his hand. As he passed No. 212 three men jumped out of the hallway and dragged him inside. One of the trio beat Bellenson on the head with a hammer while the others snatched his jewel case. The attackers ran in the direction of Third Avenue, followed by Bellenson shouting for assistance. A crowd quickly collected and Detectives Smith and Campau of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station took up the chase. The thieves had too much start, however, and escaped in the crowd in Third Avenue.

DETECTIVE'S HOME ROBBED

Jewelry Worth $2,000 Reported Stolen While Family is Away.

Burglars ransacked the home of Detective Jesse Joseph of the Clinton Street Police Station Sunday night and carried away jewelry valued at more than $2,000.

Detective Joseph and his wife left their home at 1,041 Bushwick Parkway, Sunday night at 8 o'clock, and when they returned shortly after midnight they found the contents of the bureau drawers strewn about the floor.

Among the articles stolen were two women's rings, a diamond studded watch and chain and some silk underwear.

The Josephs occupy an apartment on the ground floor. The burglars gained entrance by cutting a hole through a screen. The home is about three blocks from Mayor Hylan's house.

WOMEN URGE STUDY OF HOME IN COLLEGE

FOR STUDY OF THE LEAGUE

Delegates Want Juveniles Taught Its Aims in Member Nations—Americans Withhold Vote.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Resolutions concerning national minorities, illegitimate children and the further inclusion of the teaching of domestic science in universities featured the meetings of the International Council of Women today. In all cases passage of these resolutions was preceded by spirited discussion.

The domestic science resolution was opposed by some on the ground that it should have no place in universities, which, in most countries, are co-educational, because it was peculiarly a woman's subject and therefore should be taught in separate schools. Dr. Carrie Derick, professor at McGill University, Canada, and Mrs. Frances E. Burns of St. Louis, Mich., strongly supported the resolution along with many others.

Dr. Derick deprecated the apparent tendency in the discussion to relegate woman's sphere again "to merely the home" and she, as well as Mrs. Burns, insisted that men should take up their task of "aiding in bettering the home."

The resolution urged: "That all national councils be urged to demand in their own countries the scientific study and investigation of conditions and practice in the whole field of domestic science and of home making in all branches which concern the family, and that the result of such investigations be made available for the use of every home, and that research and teaching in this field taken in the widest sense should be added to the already existing departments of the universities."

Controversy arose over the phrase "Illegitimate children," and remedial measures were recommended to be investigated.

Consider National Minorities.

Despite the statement by Lady Aberdeen, International President, that the questions of application involved in the minorities resolution was a matter to be solved by each national council concerned, there was excited discussion by the representatives of certain countries as to the difficulties in making the resolution practical. The issue in the minds of some seemed to be confused with the question of immigration.

However, the resolution passed was as follows:

"The International Council of Women expresses the hope that in the countries where minorities exist the women of those countries will endeavor to use all their influence to bring about a good understanding between their respective governments and the minorities living in their midst."

The League of Nations received recognition again in the resolutions urging that "the children and youth in the countries that are League members be given instruction in the aims of the League and the terms of the Covenant, if such instruction is not already being given," and approving the "reconstruction schemes put into effect by the League and urging that similar help be given other nations needing it."

The American delegation, in accordance with the agreement with the National Council before the congress, refrained from voting on the resolutions mentioning the League of Nations.

A public meeting was held this evening in the Auditorium, at which Mrs. Ogilvie Gordon of England presided. The main topic discussed by several speakers was "Recent Developments in Citizenship."

Mrs. John D. Sherman, National President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, told of the needs and methods of recreation in making a healthy child. Dr. Ingegard Palmen explained the recent Swedish law making the woman copartner with the man in every economic aspect of theim marriage relation.

Deny Move Against D. A. R.

Other speakers were Dr. Carrie Derick of Canada, whose subject was "Education and the International Spirit"; Mme. Plaminkova of Czechoslovakia, Miss Knight-Bruce of England and Mrs. Yonkin of South Africa.

The Congress was disturbed today by a reported statement that action was planned by the council against the Daughters of the American Revolution as a result of a broken contract by the latter in not allowing the council the use of the Memorial Continental Hall for their meetings. In this reported statement authority was given to the rumors of two or three months ago that the D. A. R., fearing "pacifistic" teachings by the I. C. W., refused to "make good" their written word.

Mrs. Nathaniel B. Harris of Bradford, Pa., to whom is attributed the information about the friction between the national and international bodies, denied tonight that she had made any statement that action might be taken by the I. C. W. of which she is a member. Nor, she added, did she mean "to imply" such a thing.

CONDEMNS COUNCIL MINORITY.

Mrs. Coe Asks Women to Join Committee Against Pacifists.

Mrs. Henry Clarke Coe, Chairman of the Club Women's Protective Committee, who sent a letter to Lady Aberdeen as presiding officer of the quinquennial convention of the International Council of Women in Washington, protesting against pro-League of Nations propaganda at the convention, made public yesterday a letter she had sent to Mrs. Philip North Moore, President of the council.

Commenting on reports that some of the constituent organizations planned to withdraw from the council, Mrs. Coe urged them to remain members. In part her letter read:

"The press announced Saturday that several of the patriotic organizations which are constituent members of the National Council of Women have decided, at the behest of the D. A. R., to withdraw from the National Council. This announcement, if true, gives grave concern to the members of the Club Women's Protective Committee. While we share with these patriotic organizations their fear of the pacifist-Socialist influence within the National Council of Women, we do not agree as to the best method of checking this influence within the women's organizations of the United States or of the world. We believe that all patriotic organizations should retain their membership in the Council and urge other patriotic organizations to join, to the end that this pacifist-Socialist control be destroyed or enlightened from within.

"The Club Women's Protective Committee hereby extends an invitation to all members of the National Council of Women of the United States desirous of overcoming the influence of the subversive minority within that body to become members of the Club Women's Protective Committee. We desire to help you make the National Council of Women what it should be. We are instructed to pledge the assistance of our committee to you in your efforts to keep the National Council of Women from criticism and ultimate disruption. To do this it is only necessary to restore democratic methods of organization in management, which for some time past have been abrogated in the affairs of the National Council of Women."

New Yorker Is Denied Wet Appeal.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—John F. Steele today was denied a hearing by the Supreme Court on the recent decision sustaining the validity of the search warrant under which a quantity of liquor belonging to him was seized by Izzy Einstein and Moe Smith at 611 West Forty-sixth Street, New York City. Steele contended that under the prohibition act a search warrant could only be issued when the property sought had been used in the commission of a felony.

LONDON, May 11.—An amusing reminiscence of the Cuban revolution in which he was once involved was corroborated today by Lord Birkenhead while he was the principal guest of the Cuban Chargé d'Affaires at the tobacco exhibition here.

"When I was a young man I traveled across Cuba with three other young men," said Lord Birkenhead, "and, incidentally, a revolution was in progress.

"It was an extremely gentlemanly revolution. Somewhere in the centre of the island the train was stopped by a very heavy discharge of musketry. I happened to be playing bridge in those days—perhaps it was whist, I cannot say. The conductor of the train was an American, and when the first rifles went off he rushed in and said, 'Duck, you fools!'

"Well, though I claim no special powers of observation, it did not escape me if rifles were fired at about twenty yards from the train it was extremely probable that there would be no glass broken and no glass was broken. [Laughter.]

"It seemed, therefore, to me to be an injustice to the excellent revolutionaries and your beautiful island to suggest that their rifles were loaded, and it occurred to me that there was an opportunity for inexpensive heroism. [Laughter.] And we, therefore, continued our game, merely observing to the American guard: 'England dies, but it does not duck.'"

MRS. ROOSEVELT HERE ON THE CONTE VERDE

Widow of President Met at Pier by Children—Senator Reed Arrives From Italy.

United States Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, who returned yesterday on the Lloyd Sabaudo liner Conte Verde from a six months' stay in Italy with his wife and daughter Rosamond, said Premier Mussolini was recovering slowly from his severe illness, but is far from being in good health. He said France seemed encouraged by the better financial conditions in Great Britain, and he believed the repayment of the war debts was being seriously considered now by the French.

Another prominent passenger was Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, the widow of the late President of the United States, who returned from a visit to her sister, Miss Emily Carow, at her villa in the suburbs of Genoa.

Mrs. Roosevelt was welcomed at the pier by her son Archibald, her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt, and Mrs. Richard Derby, her daughter, who was Ethel Roosevelt. Mrs. Derby informed her mother that a radio message had been received Sunday from Theodore and Kermit announcing their arrival at Bombay. The Conte Verde brought 2,028 passengers, the majority of them pilgrims returning from Rome.

LONDON, May 11.—George Bernard Shaw has not written a play about Christ after all, as was reported in the London papers. It appears that John Masefield is the author of the piece called the "Trial of Jesus," which was performed privately at the poet's house, near Oxford.

Mr. Shaw said today:

"You may take it once and for all that I am not writing a play. I have not written a play since 'Saint Joan' and have no plans for writing another play.

"All this talk about 'Saint Theresa' is just talk, and at the present moment I am writing a book on Socialism. It is much more important. They are always talking about me, but actually there is so very little to be said that people are constantly inventing things about me. That is my confirmed opinion."

When asked his opinion concerning Masefield's new play, Mr. Shaw said:

"Now, that is a ticklish question, but I will write an article on Masefield's play for a small fee. I suggest £500."

LIQUOR RETRIAL DATE SET.

Case Against 12 Accused in Weehawken Plot to Begin June 15.

George T. Vickers, special prosecutor in the Weehawken rum running case, announced yesterday that the twelve men indicted on the charge of conspiring to violate the New Jersey prohibition act would be tried a second time beginning June 15. The jury disagreed at the first trial last January.

The date for the second trial was fixed, Mr. Vickers said, in order that the Rev. George F. Bennett, pastor of St. Lawrence Roman Catholic Church in Weehawken, could attend. Father Bennett, who testified in the first trial regarding the landing of liquor at Weehawken, intends to sail late next month on a six months' vacation.

The defendants are William Griffin, an insurance broker, who had offices in the First National Bank Building in Jersey City; Harry J. Stearns, chairman of the Weehawken Township Police Committee; Captain Charles D. McNamee of the Hudson Boulevard Police, Lieutenants Philip McNulty and Charles Kelling of the Weehawken police, and Patrolmen Louis Gruenwald, Frederick Vollmer, John Fisher, Joseph Daly, John McMahon, Joseph Hennessey and Edward Lewis of the Weehawken police.

LONDON, May 11.—A questionnaire issued by the League of Nations with regard to proposed reforms in the calendar has been considered by the British railway companies, officials of which they have announced unanimously in favor of the adoption of a year of thirteen twenty-eight-day months with Yeardav and Leapyear separate.

It is felt that the alternative suggestion of a twelve-month year of thirty, thirty-three-day months for each quarter year would not give nearly such valuable results.

SOFIA, May 11.—The court-martial which has been trying persons accused of complicity in the Sofia cathedral bomb outrage passed sentence on the accused this evening. Marco Feldmann, a lawyer, and Georgi Koeff were condemned to death by public execution, and Peter Zadgorsky, sacristan of the cathedral, to death by ordinary execution.

Daskaloff was sentenced to six and Kambaureff to three years' imprisonment.

Heavy fines also were imposed on the accused. Five persons, Petrini, Kossorsky, Grancharoff, Abadjieff and Dimitroff, all of whom are still at large, were sentenced to death by public execution.

The prisoners received their sentences calmly.

SOFIA, May 12.—The courtroom was packed when the court-martial which heard the Sveti Kral Cathedral outrage case passed sentence today.

Zadgorsky, as sacristan of the cathedral, was charged with having accepted $100 to permit the plotters to have access to the roof of the cathedral, there to place their explosives.

Friedmann admitted during the trial that he was a Communist and a member of an organization which was endeavoring to introduce communism in Bulgaria. He denied connection with the bomb plot.

Koeff was charged with harboring after the explosion Captain Ninkoff, who planned the outrage. Daskaloff and Kambaueroff were charged with hiding Zadgorsky after the explosion.

MANILA, May 11 (A. P.)—Lieutenant John D. Barrigar was burned to death when his airplane crashed and took fire near Del Carmen, Pampanga Province, yesterday. Private John Tabor, his mechanic, escaped with slight injuries. Barrigar was searching for three artillery soldiers lost in the mountains.

Barrigar was flying low when the plane struck a tree. Tabor was thrown clear of the plane and landed in a river uninjured, but was seriously burned in attempting to free Barrigar.

The lieutenant, a native of Denmark, enlisted as a private in the United States Army and was commissioned and transferred to the air service after the war. His father is a resident of Portland, Ore.

MONARCHIST ROARS GREET HINDENBURG

By T. R. YBARRA.

ing to enter the Reichstag tomorrow to rigorous questioning before giving them the desired permission. Special admission cards have been issued for the oath-taking ceremony to a limited number of journalists and others.

It was a few minutes before 6 o'clock when the express train from Hanover, to which a parlor car carrying Hindenburg was coupled, pulled into the Heerstrasse Station. As the President-elect alighted he was welcomed by Chancellor Luther and the rest of the Governmental Reception Committee, including Defense Minister Gessler, Interior Minister Schiele, General von Seeckt, Commander of the Reichswehr, and Admiral Zenker, commanding what is left of the German Navy. Another present was Herr Meissner, Secretary to the late President Ebert, who will act in the same capacity under Hindenburg.

One of the first to greet the veteran warrior was Trautchen Luther, the 10-year-old tow-headed daughter of the Chancellor. Stepping up courageously to the forbidding looking man she made a little courtesy, recited a little verse and then boldly handed him a little bouquet. Hindenburg received it with a delighted smile.

As he emerged from the station and stood revealed to the crowd outside they roared a welcome to him.

No time was lost in getting under way toward the Chancellery. Hindenburg took a seat in a motor car, with Chancellor Luther beside him. On the front seat were a chauffeur and a police official. As the car and the other three carrying the escort leaped forward a squad of police on motorcycles shot ahead or fell in behind.

By a strange—and to some ominous—coincidence the supposedly peaceful President-elect of the German Republic today entered the capital of that republic along streets named after the army—Heerstrasse—and after two men who least represent the republican ideal—the Kaiser and Bismarck.

Fleeting Glimpse For the Crowd.

As the Presidental car shot along the Kaiserdamm and Bismarckstrasse, roars of welcome leaped from one section of the huge crowd to another, as each caught sight of Hindenburg's granite face. Thousands craned their necks and pushed forward, risking getting run over by the speeding cars, in order to get a glimpse of him. The speed of the cars and eagerness of the onlookers to get as good a look as possible rather diminished the volume of the cheering. But it was big enough at that.

The enthusiasm reached its climax as Hindenburg dashed past the fronts of the monarchistic organizations drawn up principally around the "Knie" in the heart of the Charlottenburg residential quarter. There was a wild burst of cheering, too, from the student corps drawn up on Berlinerstrasse. Decked out in medieval splendor of purple, green, blue and gold with braided caps and high boots, they stood beneath gorgeous rainbow-hued banners and went wild as Hindenburg passed.

When his car reached the Tiergarten an escort of mounted police fell before and behind it. Amid the clatter of hoofs, the chug of police motorcycles and the roars of the crowd, Hindenburg passed through the central arch of the Brandenburg gate—sacred to the Kaiser in the old days and passed since then only by the late President Ebert's funeral cortège two months ago.

On the Pariserplatz at the other side of the gate and all along Unter den Linden and Wilhelmstrasse to the Chancellery, police in their gala blue uniforms stood in two long rigid lines. Looking solemnly to right and left, holding before him his high hat, ununiformed, undecorated and unsmiling, Hindenburg flashed past the cheering onlookers.

Shortly after 6 o'clock, only fifteen minutes after the start at Heerstrasse, he alighted at the Chancellery and those responsible for his safety breathed a deep sigh of relief and turned their minds to the problem of protecting him tomorrow when he goes to the Reichstag to take the oath of office.

Police Report Not One Arrest.

Police quarters tonight were elated because not a single disturbance marked the triumphant entrance of Hindenburg into Berlin. Not one single arrest was made on account of the demonstration. Despite threats of Communists and Left organizations to break up the great day of the Rights, no concerted action could be arranged.

Communists held two consolation demonstrations, but the usual boisterous tones characterizing Red speakers were subdued. More than 50 per cent. of the demonstrators were Communist youths, and it was boys just arrived at the age of changing voice instead of rugged workers who exhorted their followers. "Down with Hindenburg! Give us cheaper bread!" in recited speeches. The Communistic Party, which has suffered appalling losses in the past year and recognizes that its only hope is winning workers from other parties, abandoned its protest strike plans. A few Communists bravely carried red flags through the working quarter streets.

One of the things which dampened the ardor of thousands who came to welcome the arriving President was the absence of music. It was announced that organizations would be allowed to bring their bands, but this was countermanded at the last minute. Without the stirring march "Fridericus Rex," which was announced as the official air for the reception, crowds tired from hours of waiting were unable to get up the enthusiasm hoped for by the victorious Rights.

First aid stations report that sixty persons fainted in the crowds. One old man who boasted the honor of cheering three Kaisers in Berlin streets dropped dead when the Presidential car sped by.

Police precautions for tomorrow when the President takes the oath of office are as painstakingly planned as today. All public buildings are heavily guarded and visitors are not permitted. One ambitious artist who entered the Reichstag and attempted to make preliminary sketches was immediately arrested.

Hanover turned out en masse to bid farewell to Hindenburg this noon. An hour later his villa was quiet and forsaken except for a few men packing up Hindenburg's piano, pictures and desk, which are being sent to the Wilhelmstrasse palace.

Enthusiasm Surpasses War Days.

BERLIN, May 11 (A. P.).—Even the enthusiasm of mobilization days in August, 1914, did not approximate in volume the popular acclaim which today poured into the path of Marshal von Hindenburg, the nation's new Executive, and although the proverbial Hohenzollern weather was denied him, numerous manifestations of pre-war sentiments and yearnings greeted him all along the route.

Whether von Hindenburg received a correct picture of the attitude of Berlin's populace remains an open question, as the route chosen carried him through a section of the fashionable West End, which nominally rolls up Conservative majorities. The Socialist organs remind the incoming President that he is now living in a city which gave Dr. Marx, his opponent in the recent elections, a majority of 400,000.

The American Embassy was among the first to hoist its national colors in honor of the Field Marshal's arrival, and at noon all the foreign missions had followed suit.

Among all the papers commenting on von Hindenburg's inauguration, Dr. Marx's organ Germania is the only paper of the Left which thus far has come out editorially. It says:

"Foreign countries are to know that the political split in Germany is not concerned with the authority readily conceded to the new President, even by the opponents of his candidacy. From today the President belongs to all Germany. The elections are dead; long live the new President! . . . Von Hindenburg has become the first representative of Germany and the Republic; he has therefore become inviolable to every republican."

Die Zeit, the organ of Gustav Stresemann, the Foreign Minister, emphasizes that "the world realized that the election would not influence Germany's foreign policy one iota, and therefore views coming events without concern.

"If Germans have not yet learned," continues the paper, "they will now learn to stand united in domestic and foreign affairs behind the man elected to the highest post, von Hindenburg."

The Tägliche Rundschau, an old conservative paper, avoids all party emphasis in this connection, merely saying: "We greet von Hindenburg as a German and a man only. It is his character that counts for the post. We need a character that is clean and firm. If the German people are brought to this realization much has been gained."

The Kreuz-Zeitung, the Monarchists' standby, also refrains from all party commentary, and dwells on the value of personality. It says:

"With von Hindenburg, of unimpeachable character, forceful energy and devotion to the Fatherland, duty and honor were raised on a shield. Today all party strife is silenced, for today it is Germany making her triumphal entry into Berlin. Let us forget and bury all that disunited us. Let us assume as a watchword the will to live ourselves that all may be united, who think German."

Send-off at Hanover.

HANOVER, May 11 (A. P.).—As the people of his home town cheered and sang the "Deutschland Lied" and "Die Wacht am Rhein," Field Marshal von Hindenburg left Hanover at 1:38 o'clock this afternoon on a special train for Berlin, where tomorrow he will be inaugurated President of Germany.

As the train pulled out of the station the General, holding himself very erect, exclaimed with a vigorous voice, "For Deutschland, hurrah! hurrah! hurrah!"

Just before he left Hanover, as he was saying good-bye to Gustav Noske, President of the Province of Hanover, von Hindenburg said:

"The time has come when the German people more than ever must be united. With unity, unity and again unity, I hope to succeed in leading the German people to a brighter future."

Upon his arrival at the Hanover station the President-elect was greeted by President Noske, who remarked that "this is the second time von Hindenburg has departed from Hanover to help the German people in a time of their need.

"In its way," continued President Noske, "this occasion is just as significant as the first time, for today the people require help as much for internal as for foreign affairs. We all hope confidently that this time the President will succeed in conciliating all internal as well as foreign opponents."

During President Noske's farewell, von Hindenburg nodded repeatedly in solemn approval. He then shook hands with those upon the station platform, mounted the steps of his private coach and remained standing, hat in hand, as the train departed.

Special precautions were taken for the safe transport of the President-elect. The engineer, fireman and conductor of the train are veterans in the railway service and higher officials of the railway administration accompanied the train and formed a part of the reception committee at the Heerstrasse station in Berlin.

The car in which von Hindenburg rode today was the one used by former President Ebert and Acting President Simons on their trips.

General von Hindenburg was accompanied by his son, who wore the uniform of Major of the Reichswehr. Major von Hindenburg's wife was dressed in a white suit, wore a blue hat and carried a bouquet of red roses.

As the President-elect stepped from his automobile to enter the station, comments were made on his fresh and healthy appearance. Although he walked slowly, he seemed to have lost the tired expression which formerly characterized him. With the exception of the General's son, all the male members of his party were in formal civilian dress.

ALLIES IN ACCORD ON SECURITY BASIS

British Yield on Evacuation of Rhineland, French on Germany's Entry Into League.

NOTE IS READY FOR BERLIN

Compromise Revives Negotiations—Briand and Chamberlain May Confer at Next League Meeting.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 11.—A double compromise by London and Paris, confirmed today during a visit by the British Ambassador to the Quai d'Orsay, has greatly improved the prospect for early negotiations toward the proposed allied-German guarantee compact. The French reply to the German proposals of last February will be read to the Cabinet tomorrow by Foreign Minister Briand and after approval will be submitted to the British Government, before being forwarded to Berlin as constituting the allied answer. It is expected the reply will be in Berlin by Friday. The compromises which remove the barriers which heretofore have blocked progress are important because of their political bearing. It has been the attitude of French Governments that Germany must join the League before the beginning of negotiations with her. This did not please the British, and the Germans, seeing their entry into the League was desired, naturally wished to use their consent for bargaining purposes and took the stand that their joining the Geneva organization and assuming its obligations should be part of a general bargain rather than a prior condition.

At the same time the British have been insisting that evacuation of Cologne, which practically entails evacuation of the Ruhr by the French and Belgians, was not part of the general security problem, but simply a juridical question, meaning British troops would be taken out of the northern bridgehead when Germany had satisfied the Allies on certain failures to carry out completely the disarmament clauses of the Treaty of Versailles. The French contend that the occupation of the Rhineland is the best allied weapon for obtaining security and that this weapon should be kept in hand until security is had.

Now both Great Britain and France have somewhat receded from their respective positions to reach a common position. The French have agreed to discuss security with Germany before she joins the League, it being always understood the proposed compact would not come into effect until Germany was a member of the League. On their side the British have agreed that evacuation of Cologne shall be considered not as an independent issue but as part of the general problem security, thus the assuring Allies holding not only the northern bridgehead but the Ruhr during negotiations with Germany, which goes a long way toward reassuring French opinion.

Thus it comes about that the negotiations will at one and the same time deal with the German-allied security compact, evacuation of Cologne and the Ruhr, of German disarmament and Germany's entry into the League with acceptance of continued international control of her military equipment—a control, however, in which she will have part.

Of course, this does not mean many important issues do not remain to be adjusted, but it does appear to mean the security discussion which has been dormant since last February will now be awakened, and it is to be expected that the distaste of French Nationalists for an arrangement by which the security of France will be guaranteed by a Government headed by Marshal von Hindenburg will be at least partly compensated by the fact that the proposed agreement will contain a section reaffirming on the part of both the Allies and Germany the permanent demilitarization of a strip along the Rhine as provided in Articles XLII, XLIII, XLIV of the Treaty of Versailles, and a restatement, witnessed by the Reich, that violation of this zone by German troops advancing toward France will constitute a hostile act against all the Allies.

M. Briand has told friends here the intended treaty if made must be under the aegis of the League of Nations and being entirely among League members would become one of the regional compacts of security of the general League plan.

With respect to France's allies, M. Briand proposes to exact from Germany, in return for advantages to be given her, a promise to make a guarantee treaty for the benefit of Poland and Czechoslovakia, also to be a part of the general security plan. While arbitration of international differences would be the basic part of any League treaties, it is said at the Quai d'Orsay that it will be specified that terms of the peace treaties will not be subject to arbitration except by mutual consent or except by unanimous approval of the Council of the League as provided in Article XIX of the Covenant.

While there is a possibility that M. Briand will go to London for conversations with Mr. Chamberlain, it is more probable both Foreign Ministers will attend the June meeting of the League Council at Geneva which is to put the finishing touches on the plan for the League military control of Germany, after which it is likely the time will be judged right to begin conversations with Berlin.

SOCIALISTS FOR SECURITY.

International Committee Urges the Adoption of Geneva Compact.

PARIS, May 11 (A. P.)—Strong action everywhere to secure ratification of the Geneva security compact is one of the recommendations of the International Socialist Executive Committee, which finished its conference here today.

The committee also decided to associate women more closely with Socialist party activities, and called an international conference of Socialist women for Aug. 21 at a place hereafter to be chosen.

It was decided to refer to Socialist organizations in various countries the question, raised by French Socialists as to whether it is possible for Socialists to participate in a Government under a capitalist regime.

COUNTESS GETS 8 YEARS.

Sentenced by French Court for Slaying of Kerninon, Her Husband.

SAINT-BRIEUC, France, May 11 (A. P.).—Countess Louise de Kerninon, who was a cabaret singer in Northern Africa when the Count met her as a young army officer thirty-five years ago, faces a term of eight years' imprisonment for shooting her husband, the twentieth to bear the title and the last of his line.

She was convicted after a trial which attracted great attention throughout France, and sentence was passed yesterday. She plans an appeal.

While the defendant contended that the shooting, last August, was accidental, evidence was submitted to show that there had been quarrels, and the lawyer intervening for the Count's relatives said the tragedy ended "a drama of money—money for her and for her son by an earlier marriage." The Countess alleged that her husband had been dissipating his patrimony with a young woman.

Unless she is successful in her appeal and is finally declared innocent, the Countess loses all claim to her husband's fortune, under the French law.

INVESTIGATE DU PUIS DEATH

Connecticut Authorities Seek Clues to $40,000 Declared Missing.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 11.—Springfield detectives today began an investigation of the mysterious death of Alexander Du Puis and the disappearance of $40,000 which his nephew, Hercules Du Puis of Holyoke, says he has proof was in his uncle's possession two days before he died.

The visiting detectives have not communicated with the New Haven police, who say that bootleggers were seen at the Du Puis restaurant on Quinnipiac Avenue frequently the past few weeks. It is believed the local police hold the theory that "hijackers" are concerned in the disappearance of the money.

The Springfield detectives have indicated by their questioning of neighbors of Du Puis that they do not believe the bootlegging theory, but are searching for the housekeeper of Du Puis, who disappeared the day before the Massachusettes heirs of Du Puis came here.

The probate hearing on the case has been set for Friday.

HERRICK RECEIVES DEBT INSTRUCTIONS

tions that M. Caillaux is following the policy of recognizing that France owes her debt in full. However, his friends say, M. Caillaux stands pat on the position that payments to America and England must depend on German payments to France.

It would not be a surprise if it were soon announced that France and England had reached a debt settlement on the basis of a two-thirds reduction of France's debt to Britain, with London's agreement to accept a share of France's reparation payments, plus a small annual independent payment of perhaps $5,000,000 or £6,000,000.

Under M. Caillaux's plan to set aside one-third of France's annual expectations from Germany of 1,200,000,000 gold marks, this would leave about $100,000,000 annually to be paid toward liquidating France's obligation to the United States.

Washington Cold to Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—That informal intermittent exchanges with the French Government over an adjustment of that Government's war indebtedness to the United States had been in progress since "conversations" were initiated last November by Jules Jusserand, then French Ambassador in Washington, was admitted at the State Department today, but the impression given by the officials was that nothing in the nature of a formal request for a debt settlement had gone forward to Paris recently.

When the attention of a State Department official was called today to the information contained in a Paris special to THE NEW YORK TIMES that Finance Minister Caillaux had suggested to Ambassador Herrick an adjustment of the debt question on the basis of payments out of reparations annuities received by France from Germany, the information was given that this Government had consistently stated that it could not consent to any such arrangement and that its attitude had not changed.

This Government feels that it cannot enter into any adjustment of that character or of any character that differs so materially from its agreement with Great Britain for the settlement of British indebtedness to the United States.

It has been made clear, however, that considerable sentiment exists in the American Debt Commission toward giving consideration to the settlement of the French debt problem on the basis of low interest rates and a moratorium or possibly not more than ten years, provided Congress would agree to suggestions along that line. What appears to have been lost sight of by many interested in the matter is that the hands of this Government and its Debt Commission are tied by an act of Congress, and to give terms such as the French Government would desire would necessitate amending that act.

Abd-el-Krim Proclaims Holy War Against France—Sharp Fighting to Relieve Outposts.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 11.—International complications incident to the Riff campaign are quickly developing. Though the French have not yet been able to eject the invading Riffians from their side of the frontier line, they are already faced with the problem of dealing with the enemy and at the same time abstaining from infringing on the Spanish zone.

From the headquarters of General de Chambrun to Chechaouan, where Abd-el-Krim has assembled his strongest forces, is only thirty minutes' flight, and with the bombing planes at their disposal the French could do effective work in dispersing the tribesmen and checking the rising at its source. But Chechaouan is within the Spanish zone, and unless prepared to break the treaty with Spain or to obtain permission to do so the French cannot fly across that frontier.

The difficulty of the position is of a most exasperating character. The Riffians can invade French territory without fear of reprisals, but the French may not put a foot or send an airplane across the frontier of the Riff without infringing the treaty with Spain. Abd-el-Krim, therefore, is perfectly secure. He can conduct war without danger and practice without fear of any serious retaliation his old tactics of sending across the frontier lines bands with the mission of stirring up the local tribes.

Though his success has been only partial and Morocco as a whole has not answered his call to arms yet, the fact that the French have been unable after eleven days' occupation of their territory and blockade of their outpost line by the Riffians to clear out the invaders is considered certain sooner or later to have a definitely damaging effect on their prestige in the whole country.

Could Marshal Lyautey send his bombers into the Riff country, he could change the whole character of the campaign and make an effective offensive. Even should General de Chambrun, who is directing the outpost relief operations, succeed in clearing the invaders back to the frontier line, he will not be in position to conclude his campaign satisfactorily, for the Riffians will remain immune from punishment and be able at any moment to recommence their infiltration tactics.

When the Riff zone was ceded to Spain it was under an agreement that the Spanish should preserve order therein. That agreement has not been kept, for peace has never existed in the Riff zone till now, when the Spaniards have been all but expelled. The Madrid Government, however, is still jealous of its rights. To soundings made semi-officially by Paris the reply is made that the Riff zone is perfectly quiet now, for Madrid refuses to admit the obvious situation that its quietness is the source of France's troubles south of the frontier line.

So long as Madrid will not admit the situation and give the French permission to cross the frontier line the French must be prepared to keep a very large army along that line, and even then they will have no guarantee against constant attack. For the French commanders on the spot the temptation to send bombing planes across the line and argue the matter with the Spaniards afterward is very strong. They know exactly where Abd-el-Krim has made his big concentrations. With their planes they would be able to establish places where raids were imminent and crush them.

But the order from Paris is still firm that the treaty line must be respected. How long it will be possible to maintain that order it is difficult to foresee. From the military point of view the situation is intolerable. But the political point of view has just now the final say-so.

During the last nine years, ever since under military pressure Germany tore up the treaty of Belgian neutrality, France has constituted herself the defender of the sanctity of treaties. She cannot now easily deny her position by infringing the treaty with Spain, even though technically the Spanish have not kept their side of the bargain and maintained order within their zone.

During the past two months the French have obtained proof that traffic in arms is being conducted vigorously along the seaboard of the Spanish zone from which the Spanish have been expelled, but under the same treaty which prevents them sending their planes across the line they are unprovided from blockading these ports.

During the last two days important detachments of Colonial troops who were garrisoned at Toulon and other centres in the South of France have been embarked for North Africa. They for the present are taking the place of the Algerian garrisons who have been sent to Morocco. Though some artillery units are being sent direct to the Riff front.

French Forces Pushing Forward.

PARIS, May 11 (A. P.).—Native Moroccan troops under the command of French officers participated successfully today in operations in establishing a solid barrier along the front where Abd-el-Krim's Riffian forces are concentrated. Official reports say the French forces advanced to their objective point without an engagement, which is interpreted as meaning that they were able with their knowledge of the country and their familiarity with the style of fighting employed by their adversaries to accomplish their task with a minimum of difficulty.

Hardy Moroccan horsemen, who are familiar with mountain skirmishing, were used on the left of the French line, where indications were observed by French air scouts that the Riffians intended to outflank the French column. In the centre of the front, the Riffians put up stout opposition to Colonel Freydenberg's advancing column which was moving to supply the surrounded outpost of Bab Wender. The official report omits to say whether the outpost was recovered, but the column got near enough to supply food and water to the besieged garrison.

The reinforcements for which Marshal Lyautey has been waiting before making a vigorous drive to clear the French zone entirely of invaders are gradually approaching the scene of action. Some are coming from Algerian garrisons, others from France, while a contingent of Senegalese riflemen is on its way with French colonial troops from Algiers. Heavy artillery with which to reduce the defensive positions in which the Riffians have established themselves on the hills north of Weroba also is on the way.

Raises Cry of Holy War.

RABAT, Morocco, May 11 (A. P.).—Information has reached here that Abd-el-Krim has declared a holy war, and sent his brother Ahmud to the region of Xauen to raise troops among the Djebal tribes.

These reports have had little effect on the tribes in the French zone, which, it is stated, have been assured of protection by the arrival of reinforcements for General Count de Chambrun's army.

Lively fighting occurred again today in the central sector of the Riffian front when Colonel Freydenberg's column went to the relief of an outpost at Bab Ouender. The French succeeded in getting much-needed food and water to the surrounded garrison.

In the western sector the French native troops under Colonel Nogues advanced almost without opposition northeast of Fesselbali, cleaned that district of enemy tribesmen and established a solid line to oppose the Riffians who are massed against that sector.

Britain Will Not Interfere.

LONDON, May 11 (A. P.).—Great Britain will not interfere in the French-Moroccan situation, Foreign Secretary Chamberlain told the House of Commons today in reply to a question.

He said Britain sympathizes with France, but the affair was purely a domestic concern of that country.

BRITISH SILK DUTY PASSES, 328 TO 168

Churchill Tells Commons Adjustments Will Relieve Local Industry.

LIBERAL DENOUNCES TAX

Declares It Means £4,500,000 Export Loss—Gold Standard Bill Advanced by Lords.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 11.—After several amendments had been defeated the Finance bill was read for the first time in the House of Commons tonight. A resolution imposing an excise duty on silk and artificial silk which has probably excited more criticism, both within and without the Conservative Party, than any other provision of Chancellor Churchill's budget, was carried by 328 votes to 168, a majority of 160.

Six Conservatives voted against the Government on the silk duties, while Captain Guest, a Liberal, supported it. A Liberal motion for the repetition of the Finance bill has been prepared.

Before the vote was taken, however, Mr. Churchill thought it advisable to explain that the Government was willing to adjust the detail of the tax so as to relieve local industry.

Mr. Runciman, Liberal, delivered a most weighty Opposition criticism of the tax on artificial silk, which was worked on 30,000 looms. He described the article as part of the ordinary attire of women and certainly not a luxury. The cost of the tax, both to industry and the country generally, would be appalling, he said, adding that £4,500,000 of export trade would certainly go, because foreign silk would be sent straight to its final destination.

Mr. Churchill began by reassuring the House that he wanted only a vote on the principle of the scheme. He was ready to make all adjustments later after consultation with representatives of the industries concerned, who he expected to talk business and not politics, for the scheme was such that it would remain a permanent revenue duty on the so-called luxury trades to raise £7,000,000 from the home consumer without disturbing the home or export trade.

Artificial and natural silk, said the Chancellor, were the same industry. Producing from his dispatch box some brightly colored silk handkerchiefs and ladies' stockings to give point to his remarks, Mr. Churchill waved them at Ramsay MacDonald as an invitation to succeed where a jury of ladies had failed in distinguishing which were real and which were artificial.

In conclusion, he warned the House that he was on the watch for other luxury articles to tax for the relief of the direct taxpayer.

Despite Mr. Churchill's explanations, approval was not universal even among his own party, and three Unionist members in turn protested against burdening one of the new vital industries of the country.

Lords Advance Gold Standard Bill.

The House of Lords today gave the second reading to the bill to re-establish the gold standard. Only one voice was raised in dissent, that of Lord Arnold, who, on behalf of the Labor Party, said that the return to gold would bind Britain hand and foot to American price levels.

It was being carried out with undue precipitancy, he said, and he alleged that the rise in exchange to a point near parity had been achieved by artificial means rather than by an improvement in the balance of trade.

This charge was denied by the Earl of Clarendon, who stated that the rise in exchange was in no way due to Government manipulation.

Lord Bradbury, former Secretary to the Treasury, said that if and when another and more suitable standard of international exchange and standard of value was resolved, Great Britain would have to march with the other nations, and that, meanwhile, for the country whose international trade bears a much larger proportion to the United States's total industrial and commercial activities than any other country, any policy that would cut it off from its supplies and customers might prove fatal. He pointed out that in case of any withdrawal of foreign balances brought out as exchange, such speculation would probably be largely offset by the return to London of those balances.

The Government's arrangement for large credits in United States dollars was a very wise precaution, he added, for which the insurance premium of £350,000 should not be pledged, but he strongly hoped, he said, that these credits would not be allowed to become a temptation. The only way of maintaining the value of the currency of the country was by establishing an international balance of trade and finance, Lord Bradbury concluded.

PRINCE OF WALES RIDES IN FIRST HUNT OF TOUR

Lame Wrist Forces Him to Quit Big Game for Birds—Young Loyalists Unite Against Reds.

COLESBURG, Union of South Africa, May 11 (A. P.).—The Prince of Wales, for the first time since he has been in Africa, deviated from the usual program of receptions and other social functions and went hunting today.

At first he essayed shooting the springbok or African gazelle, but he found this too strenuous for his still bandaged right wrist, which was strained some time ago during handshaking ceremonies. He then went off bird shooting, while the members of his suite continued after springbok, bagging thirty-four of them.

During the hunt today the Prince showed his usual originality of attire. He wore a large red handkerchief under his soft hat. The handkerchief hung down over his neck, giving him the appearance of a young Bedouin chief.

Another welcome change for the Prince today was the decision of photographers to abstain from taking pictures. Throughout his tour thousands of amateur photographers have crowded all public functions, but the Prince has never voiced any resentment to their attentions. Today, however, he admitted he welcomed the absence of the clicking shutters.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

JOHANNESBURG, May 11.—As a result of persistent hostile references by local Communists to the tour of the Prince of Wales, a movement has been started here resembling that of the British Fascisti.

Young Loyalists have formed a "White South Africa League," and have decided to break up all Communist meetings. Communist speakers last night were assailed with showers of rotten eggs and tomatoes and chased to the Trades Hall, where they disappeared.

PUNISH MUTINY LEADERS.

Heavy Sentances Inflicted on Eight Spanish Soldiers.

MADRID, May 11 (A. P.).—The Supreme War Council today passed sentence upon the leaders of the mutiny among the Spanish troops at Malaga in 1923. The men mutinied just as they were about to depart for Morocco to fight against the Moors.

Corporal Blasco was sentenced to twenty years' solitary confinement and four soldiers to seventeen years, and three other soldiers to twelve years' imprisonment.

The defendants, in addition, were ordered to pay 10,000 pesetas to the family of a noncommissioned officer killed during the mutiny and also the costs of the trial.

WORLD COURT ENTRY LINKS US TO LEAGUE

to try to state what I believe to be the real issues involved in this controversy.

What are the differences of view which lead to this discussion? The advocates of this Court are fond of saying that it is a question of "a court" or "no court." That is not the question as I understand it. The question is, shall we have an independent, judicial tribunal governed by international law or a dependent tribunal governed by international politics? That is the question—some of us support the first proposition. There are not many people, in my opinion, opposed to an international court, using that word in the sense in which it is understood by all Americans, that is, a tribunal the sole function of which is to decide controversies under established law. But there are some who are opposed to a tribunal endowed with administrative, advisory, legislative and judicial power, and under the machinery proposed, to be dominated at last by the politics of Foreign Offices of the different Governments. This is the question for debate, not that of "a court" or "no court."

Ground for Objections.

It is claimed also that we are prejudiced against this tribunal and oppose it because the League created it. Speaking for myself, I have no objection to it because the League created it. I do not care about the fact that the League created it, if the League will give it its independence after it is created. It is the court as it is to function that I am interested in and not in its parentage. I think it is in the interest of peace, in the interest of order and law in international affairs, that this court function under a body of international law and absolutely free from the domination or direction of international political institutions.

It is wholly immaterial to me from what source the court comes, if it meets in any sense the the test of a Court. Mr. Kellogg, our able Secretary of State, in his address in Washington a few days ago, said:

"No political question is every submitted to any court."

In this respect he spoke as the distinguished lawyer that he is. We want a court which meets that test and also the test that no court should be controlled or dominated through political influences.

It is also claimed that we are asking the nations which have adhered to this court, accepted it, to discard it entirely and assume the task of building a wholly new court. We are doing nothing of the kind. We are asking for certain changes in the statute, changes which can easily be brought about if an independent judicial tribunal is wanted. We are asking for less, when considered as an exertion of legislative power or of treaty-making power, when Mr. Balfour asked for his committee.

He did not think a certain section of the statute was well for the British Empire, and without leave of or concern about what the United States would do he took it out, or caused it to be taken out. He was far too shrewd and, may I say without offense, far too faithful to his country to be content with a reservation, a reservation which he perfectly understood the court itself would construe.

How loyal, how devoted, is the English statesman at all times and under all circumstances to his country! What a power his vision, his loyalty, and his courage, from Burleigh to Baldwin, he has made of that little island! No reservation would be accepted to protect the vital interests of Great Britain. The change had to be changed and the most important section of the statute was eliminated.

Opposed to League Relations.

The fundamental objection to this court, is it now exists, is the right or authority which the League of Nations is given to call upon the court for advice or counsel and to treat it in a large measure as a Department of Justice of the League. It is commonly asserted that such advice or counsel as the League may call for can relate only and alone to legal questions. If this were true the objections would still be controlling, as I shall undertake to show later.

But I maintain that this is not true. The language of the Covenant of the League is not that of an advisory opinion upon a legal question but the language is to the effect that the council or assembly of the League may refer to the court for its opinion "any dispute or question." This provision in the Covenant of the League has been incorporated in effect as the court itself has determined in the statute creating the court. It is now regarded as a part of the statute under which the court operates.

Under this language any dispute or any question, legal, political or mixed, may be urged upon the court and upon it the court may be asked for advice or counsel. If you go over the questions already referred to the court you will see that some of them are far more political than legal. I want to say here that I think the court thus far has done well in resisting some of the questions put up to it. But another court may seize them for consideration. It is the nature of courts, as all other governmental institutions, to reach for jurisdiction and power.

And secondly, no court should be called upon to resist such pressure. No political body should be permitted for a single instant to be in a position to call for such action upon the part of the court. It distinctly makes the court a part of the League. It will in time become in practice a legal department of the League. Indeed, it has already to a marked extent become so. The best way perhaps to test the ultimate effect of such a provision is to note the tendency which it creates—the advantage which a political body will take of such provision to increase and add to the duties and responsibilities of the court.

Holds Court Is Subordinate.

Since the League of Nations Covenant was adopted it has been found quite unsatisfactory to the members of the League. It didn't seem to work. So they have proposed drastic amendments to the League of Nations Covenant. These amendments have already been accepted by forty-odd nations. The amendments may, or may not, become permanently a part of the League Covenant. But whether they do or not, they disclose plainly how the members of the League regard this court and what they think of its duties and functions. They regard it as distinctly a department of the League, to be changed, added to and overhauled at their discretion. It never seemingly occurs to them that this is an independent judicial body exempt from political views and opinions and authorized to pass only and alone upon controversies arising under the law.

Among other things provided for in these amendments is that the Council of the League may call upon this court to advise each Arbitration Committee which may be organized, and the amendment expressly provides that when the Council calls upon the court, if it is not in session, it "shall meet with the utmost possible dispatch. This is the tribunal which they say is not a League court.

Here is a supposedly great, independent, dignified, international court, subject to the call of a political Council, to advise a temporary Arbitration Committee, and if the Arbitration Committee sees fit to do so, it may wholly reject the advice. These committees may be arbitrating about any possible question of dispute, political or otherwise, arising in Europe. It does seem to me that it is a little bit extraordinary that a permanent Court of International Justice shall be required to counsel and advise with a temporary Arbitration Committee.

Again, under these amendments, the court may be requested to give advice, or an opinion, as to whether or not a particular question is a domestic question. Now, this same proposition upon which the court is called to give advice may also be determined by the Council of the League. The political body, the Council of the League, and the judicial body have coordinate jurisdiction in regard to this subject, except that the political council may over-ride the judicial council.

I assert that the Court here becomes nothing but an attorney and subordinated to political power. Its opinions are merely taken for what they are worth, to be rejected either by the temporary Arbitration Committee or the Council.

These amendments also provide that any question as to the power of the League shall be determined by the Court of International Justice.

Sees Us in War Councils.

I ask you in all candor: What is the difference between our sitting upon the Council of the League of Nations, advising and counseling with reference to these matters which come up before the arbitration committees and as to the power of the League under the Covenant, and our sitting upon the Court and advising these arbitration committees and counseling with reference to the powers of the League under the Covenant? We have said we did not want to be a member of the Council of the League. We are now asked through the court to become the adviser of the League and the adviser of every temporary arbitration committee dealing with all the affairs of Europe.

Now, my friends, I want to go a little further to show what kind of an institution this court is called upon to advise and what our position would be with reference to European matters if we adhered to a court engaged in such work.

If these amendments are accepted and become a permanent part of the League then ten men, constituting the Council of the League, are given the authority and right to determine absolutely the question of peace or war. This tremendous power of peace or war is delegated to ten men. These ten men as the Council may declare what war is a righteous war and what war is unrighteous, what war is a war of aggression and what war is not a war of aggression. They may even go so far as to excuse and exempt aggressors.

When they do determine upon the question of war, they have a right to call upon all members of the League for military support. And every member of the League is obligated to support the cause. But more surprising still is the authority given to these men to continue the war. The war once begun, under the authority of the League, cannot end until these same ten men declare that it may end. Let me quote you the language:

"The Council shall alone be competent to declare that the application of sanction shall cease and moral conditions be re-established."

This is the most ambitious effort to create a military autocracy of which I have any knowledge.

But this is the institution and this is the organization which the court is, at the request of the organization, to counsel and advise and which we would be counseling and advising as members of the court. It would bring us thoroughly and as effectively into all the affairs of Europe and make us as much a part of their turmoil and their strife as if we were members of the League. Indeed, if we are to be the advisers and counselors of the League I would prefer to be a member in the hope that we might exercise some influence at the source.

Holds Reservations Useless.

If it be contended that these amendments to the League have not yet been adopted and may never be I simply remind you that it is now contended by the League advocates that these amendments are not necessary; that they never had any other purpose than that of clarifying the terms of the League Covenant. M. Briand lately declared:

"The protocol is simply a development of all the ideas contained in the Covenant. It imposes no fresh obligations on the States which signed the Covenant. It has simply fixed the conditions for their application."

It is claimed that this power is now provided for in the League Covenant to do everything that was proposed by the amendment. I entertain no doubt that that construction will ultimately be placed upon the League if amendments are not forthcoming. Indeed, I do not know of any power which the League might wish to exercise which it might not acquire by construction.

It is contended that the entrance into the court can be made safe by reservations. The reservations which have been proposed do not deal with the objections which I have been discussing. The reservations do not purport to deal with the subject of the power of counseling and advising the League. If we should become a member of the court with the reservations now proposed the court would still stand in the same relation to the League with reference to being its counselor and adviser that it now holds. In fact, these reservations do not touch the matters of real moment. In other words, these reservations leave the court in its relationship in this respect to the League unchanged.

If this takes place, it must take place by reason of a change in the statute of the court. That is the only safe way. Is it not a sound and safe policy to seek to bring about such changes in the statute of the court that when we once become a member of the court we can go into it without misgivings or without hesitation or without apology and throw our whole strength into making it a powerful international instrument for peace?

A reservation says in effect that the court is dangerous as it stands; that it would be unsafe for us to enter it as it is, but the danger may be avoided by reservations.

Reservations to political treaties are utterly worthless. Had we gone into the League with those reservations we would today be as effectively tied up and tied down in European politics as though we had gone in without them. After a high official of the English Government had visited our capital and returned, he declared that once the United States joined the League the reservations would make no difference; therefore, there should be no objection to her coming in with reservations. He was eminently correct. Reservations always seemed to me like a bit of political expediency—an apology of those who think that it is perhaps unwise to go in and perhaps impolitic to stay out.

My friends, we are engaged in building a great international judicial tribunal which we hope will be of great service in the cause of peace. Why should we hesitate to insist upon those things which will make it effective? Why should we attach conditions and reservations? It must be that we are doing so because we think as the court now stands it would be unsafe for this country to become a member of it. Let's make it safe, build upon sound principles, so we can go in without any misgivings and give to it our whole-hearted support.

Vote for Preaching Campaign.

BOSTON, May 11. (A. P.)—Resolutions favoring an aggressive preaching campaign of Unitarianism throughout the country have been approved by the Unitarian Ministerial Union, it became known today when the result of a mail ballot on various resolutions was made public at the annual meeting of the organization here.

A resolution that the union take active measures through its directors to have all Unitarian conferences arrange for preaching missions in the Autumn of 1926 was adopted, 237 to 17. A motion that the American Unitarian Association be invited to cooperate in the movement was carried, 142 to 9.

A resolution favoring the appointment of a committee, which upon request of a member, would investigate and pass judgment upon the justice of the treatment of the said member by his church or its officials was adopted, 109 to 51.

Less than half of the membership voted on a resolution urging that the United States decline to receive German reparations and cancel allied debts. It was defeated, 71 to 70.

The Rev. James C. Duncan of Clinton was reelected President of the union in a mail ballot. Other officers elected were: Vice Presidents, Dr. Augustus M. Lord of Providence, R. I., the Rev. Alson H. Robinson of Plainfield, N. J., the Rev. Frank A. Powell of Dallas, Texas; Dr. Frank S. C. Wicks of Indianapolis; the Rev. Ernest C. Smith of Rochester; Col. the Rev. Robert F. Leavens of Berkeley, Cal., and Dr. Sydney B. Snow of Montreal (reelected). The Rev. Houghton Page of Higham was selected Secretary-Treasurer.

J. M. BECK RETIRES; HANDLED 1,000 CASES

TAFT EXPRESSES REGRET

He Will Resume Law Practice Here After a Vacation In Europe.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—James M. Beck of Philadelphia and New York retired today as Solicitor General of the United States. The present session of the Supreme Court marked his last appearance in office, although several of his cases remain to be argued in June. Mr. Beck expressed to the Court his deep appreciation of the unfailing consideration shown him and Chief Justice Taft voiced the regret of the Court over his retirement.

Mr. Beck will sail on Saturday for Europe for a long vacation. On his return he will resume the practice of law in New York and Washington.

Indications are that his successor will not be named until President Coolidge has had sufficient time to thoroughly investigate the standing of those whose names have been proposed.

In his four years of service Mr. Beck has had charge of nearly 1,000 Government cases. The Government won, it was said today, in 78 per cent. of these cases. The Solicitor-General personally argued ninety-four of the more difficult and important ones. Of these, eighty-eight cases have been decided and the Government's contention prevailed in 84 per cent. of the cases argued by the Solicitor-General.

As Solicitor General, Mr. Beck was the first American advocate to handle a cause before the Privy Council of Great Britain.

Among the leading cases which Mr. Beck argued were the validity of the women's suffrage amendment and of the prohibition amendment, and the application of the prohibition amendment to many novel questions, such as the rights of foreign and American ships. He argued the Maternity law case and the application of the recapture clause of the Transportation act upon railroad rates wholly within a State. He successfully maintained the constitutionality of the Packers and Stockyards act and the Grain Futures act.

He argued many important causes under the Anti-Trust act, including the trade associations cases and the legality of the United Shoe Machinery Company's leases, and the action against the Southern Pacific Company to divest it of control of the Central Pacific Railroad Company. Among the very important cases were those which interpreted the rights of Japanese and Hindoos to be naturalized, and other issues involving the rights of the Government to rescind war contracts. He argued many important cases under the Income Tax law, in which decisions were secured involving many hundreds of millions of dollars.

PLANS FOR DEFENSE DAY PUT UP TO COOLIDGE

Proposal for Holding Tests on Armistice Day Involves No Federal Expenditures.

WASHINGTON, May 11 (A. P.).—War Department plans for establishing Defense Day as an annual event on each Armistice Day are in President Coolidge's hands, awaiting his action.

Acting Secretary Davis was among the President's callers today, and while no announcement was made as to the purpose of his visit either at the White House or at the War Department, there is reason to believe that he laid before Mr. Coolidge the project worked out by the General Staff as a result of its study of the results of the first defense test, Sept. 12, 1924.

Aside from the fact that the plan is based on holding the nation-wide muster of all three branches of the army of the United States—the regulars, National Guard and organized reserves—on Nov. 11 as suitable both for practical reasons and because of the patriotic significance of that day, nothing is known of the details of the staff project except that it does not involve any additional expense for the Federal Government.

As was the case in the first test, the contribution to the annual stock taking made by State and city officials and reserve officers and others is to be entirely voluntary.

The decision not to attempt any elaboration in the way of heavy Federal expenditures relieves the President of the necessity of viewing the Defense Day proposal with an eye on the budget. The decision will be reached, presumably, solely upon the value demonstrated by the test last year as an agency for informing the nation about the new decentralized military policy written into the National Defense act of 1920.

ASKS CITY TO ACQUIRE REST OF HART'S ISLAND

Broadway Association Acts to Prevent Amusement Resort Close to City Prison.

Directors of the Broadway Association decided yesterday to petition the city to acquire by condemnation four acres on Hart's Island which has been in private hands. The acquisition was favored so as to stop construction of a beach resort which is scheduled to open July 4. City officials say such a resort on Hart's Island would destroy the discipline of the city reformatory prison there. Over 800 prisoners are on the island.

Leon C. Weinstock, Vice President of the State Commission of Prisons, and Commissioner of Correction Frederick A. Wallis are both members of the Board of Directors of the Broadway Association. At the meeting yesterday their exposition of conditions on Hart's Island led to the action.

They said that while it was generally supposed the city owned the whole of Hart's Island, there always has been a plot at its southern end in private hands and this has grown by accretion to four acres. Recently the owners began to build amusement devices, and the proprietor announced the place would be a resort for colored people. It was said that improvements worth $75,000 already have been installed there.

The prison officials said anything that brought the public in large numbers to Hart's Island would seriously interfere with conducting the reformatory there. Commissioner Wallis said the place was so constructed that proper supervision of the prisoners was difficult under the best conditions. He could not get any more guards than there are there now, he said, and if the public had free access to the island and could mingle with the prisoners it would create a serious situation.

In addition to the reformatory prison, Hart's Island is used as a Potter's Field. There are 250,000 unidentified dead buried there.

EXPLOSION OF STILL KILLS ONE, BURNS 4

SHE DIES IN HOSPITAL

Her Husband, Also Confined There, Is a Prisoner Charged With Violating Prohibition Act.

Explosion of a fifteen-gallon still on the kitchen stove in the home of Israel Barkin, 53 years old, on the third floor of a tenement house at 1,517 Washington Avenue, late yesterday afternoon, resulted in the death of Mrs. Barkin and serious burns to himself, while Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Krauss and their daughter Rose, neighbors of the Barkins, were also burned in their efforts to extinguish the flames. The Barkin apartment was wrecked.

Barkin was a prisoner in the Fordham Hospital, charged with violating the national probation act. His wife Jennie, 57 years old, died several hours after they were taken there.

Barkin was bending over the stove endeavoring to clear the worm of the still, which had become clogged, when the fifteen-gallon boiler blew up. Mrs. Barkin rushed to his aid and her clothing caught on fire. The couple ran screaming into the hallway, while the flames from the still swept through the apartment.

Next door to the Barkin apartment live Krauss, 65 years old; his wife, Jennie, 60 years old, and their daughter, Rose, 25 years old, a trained nurse. They heard the cries of the injured pair and ran to their assistance. By this time the draught through the hallway had caused the flames on Mrs. Barkin's dress to spread and she was enveloped from head to foot by the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Krauss and Rose caught up coats and other articles of clothing and endeavored to smother the flames. In doing so they were severely burned about the face and hands themselves.

Other neighbors turned in a fire alarm and police and firemen smothered the flames on Mr. and Mrs. Barkin. Though suffering herself, Miss Krauss gave temporary aid to the couple until the arrival of an ambulance surgeon from the Fordham Hospital. Then her own and her parents' burns were treated.

Firemen found scraps of the exploded still blown from the kitchen into the dining room. The fire for a time threatened to sweep the whole house. A charge was made against Barkin by the police and he was booked at the hospital as a prisoner.

REPENTING THIEF SET FREE

Victim Offers a Job to Ex-Employe at First Opportunity.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 11.—Steve De Luca of Mount Vernon was placed on probation today for three years by County Judge William F. Bleakley after David Selsky of Daly Avenue, the Bronx, by whom he was employed when he stole a $520 payroll last Oct. 22, expressed his faith in the defendant, and promised to give him a job as soon as one was open.

De Luca, who was indicted for first degree grand larceny, pleaded guilty in the second degree. Selsky, head of a store on South Fourth Avenue, Mount Vernon, told the Court De Luca had been one of his most trusted employes, and had been entrusted with amounts up to $3,000.

A singer employed in a Yonkers cabaret was blamed by J. Edward Quinn, the defendant's attorney, for his client's troubles. He said that although De Luca was earning $87 a week when he met the girl, he rapidly went into debt in trying to satisfy her whims.

POLICE OFFICER ACQUITTED.

Anti-Saloon League Loses in Attack on Captain Troy of Roseville.

Captain Patrick T. Troy of the Fifth Police Precinct of Newark was acquitted yesterday by Director of Public Safety William J. Brennan on charges of nonfeasance and malfeasance, brought against him by the Anti-Saloon League and citizens of the Roseville section, which is in his district.

Director Brennan made no comment in handing down his decision, but announced he would file a written decision in a few days. Troy was accused by a delegation of more than 100 Roseville church members with having failed to enforce the prohibition laws and with indifference to his duties. He denied all charges. More than fifty witnesses, many of them policemen, testified to efforts against bootleggers made under Captain Troy's direction.

DELMAGE SAYS NOT GUILTY.

Ex-Trooper and Comrades in Montauk Shooting Appear in Court.

William Delmage, ex-State trooper, Frank and Thomas Smith, brothers, and William Shaber pleaded not guilty to a charge of burglary in the first degree in the Suffolk County Court in Riverhead, L. I., yesterday. Delmage pleaded not guilty also to agreeing to accept a bribe from Jerry O'Keefe, another ex-trooper, who is a fugitive from justice.

The case is an outgrowth of the recent "hijacking" raid near Montauk, where Delmage was shot in an alleged attempt to extort liquor that had been stored on a Benson estate by bootleggers. The date of the trial was not fixed.

SUES TO BREAK A WILL AIDING MANY CHARITIES

Niece Says Mrs. Richardson Was of Unsound Mind and Unduly Influenced.

A contest of the will of Mrs. Kate S. Richardson, who left the bulk of an estate of more than $1,000,000 to charities, was set yesterday for trial next Monday before Surrogate Foley and a jury. The suit is brought by Mrs. Edith Baxter Watson of 200 West Fifty-eighth Street, niece of Mrs. Richardson, said to be the nearest of kin. The will gave Mrs. Watson $5,000. Mrs. Watson's daughter, Gertrude Schultz Watson, received $25,000.

The contest was brought on the ground that when the will was executed, on Dec. 9, 1922, Mrs. Richardson was not of sound mind and undue influence was brought to bear on her. Mrs. Richardson, who was the widow of Edward W. Richardson, named Burton Mansfield of 205 Whitney Avenue, New Haven, Conn., as executor, and gave $10,000 and numerous personal effects to Mrs. Mansfield.

Ten cousins received $5,000 each, $10,000 went to David O. Decker of Ridgewood, N. J., for the education of his son Edward, and $5,000 was left to Katherine I. Van Benschoten, who lived with Mrs. Richardson.

The chief beneficiaries were the New York Hospital, which got two-thirds of the residuary estate, and the United Hospital Fund, which received one-third. Gifts of $200,000 each were left to New York Hospital and the Henry Street Settlement, in memory of the decedent's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Smith Schultz. Peabody Museum of Salem, Mass., got $100,000 to maintain its Marine Room, in memory of Mrs. Richardson's husband. The United Hospital Fund received $100,000 outright and $50,000 each went to the Seamen's Church Institute and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

Other gifts were $30,000 each to the Five Points House of Industry, the Association for the Aid of Crippled Children, the National Child Welfare Association, the New York Kindergarten Association, and the Salvation Army.

$150,000 RUM SEIZURE ON LOWER WEST SIDE

Agents Say Manufacture of Synthetic 'Rye' Was Going at Full Blast.

Prohibition agents seized $100,000 worth of a liquid said to be synthetic rye whisky and $50,000 worth of redistilling machinery yesterday in a raid on a four-story building at 19 Vestry Street, on the lower west side. The officers said the building was the source of much of the "rye" sold on Broadway.

The plant was in operation at the time of the raid, according to the agents. They said they found seven mixing tanks, each 20 feet high, extending from the first floor through the second, with barrels, cases of empty bottles, labels, and Government stamps in the basement and elsewhere over the building. One hundred cases of "rye," according to the agents, were in the shipping room, ready to be taken away.

An office and laboratory fitted out for manufacture and testing of coloring substances and syrups were found on the first floor, the agents said. They declared there was a 150-gallon still on the fourth floor for removing denaturing substances from medicated alcohol, while the third floor contained refining tanks. The tanks opening on the second floor contained redistilled alcohol, coloring substances, and syrups to make the liquor taste like rye.

The office, according to the agents, contained memoranda showing a large trade with liquor selling places in the Broadway districts and with some out-of-town places. Stationery bearing the name of a realty corporation on Broadway was found in the office.

Alexander and Dennis Caruso, brothers, of 163 Lenox Avenue, were arrested.

DAVIS VENIREMAN CHOSEN.

12 of the 21 Will Be Ex-Governor's Jury in Kansas Bribery Case.

TOPEKA, Kan., May 11 (A. P.).—The twenty-one veniremen, of whom twelve will try Jonathan M. Davis, former Governor of Kansas, were chosen late today. Nine will be stricken off the list on peremptory challenges, the defense having six and the State three.

Mr. Davis is accused of conspiring, while in office, with his Bank Commissioner, Carl J. Peterson, to obtain a bribe in exchange for a pardon.

The former Governor went to trial alone. Peterson, named jointly with Davis on the warrant, is to be tried later.

Seeks $584,606 Back Income Taxes.

PHILADELPHIA, May 11 (A. P.).—Collector of Internal Revenue McCaughn today filed a lien against John Friedrich Sr. for the payment of $584,606.19 additional income taxes, which, it is alleged, Friedrich should have paid for the six years from 1918 to 1923 inclusive. The lien papers contain no details of the claim. Friedrich is proprietor of a restaurant and a former liquor dealer.

Sentenced as Counterfeiters.

After a plea of guilty to possessing plates and materials for counterfeiting $1 and $5 bills, Michael Stineirt and George Brandik were sentenced yesterday by Federal Judge A. N. Hand to eighteen months each in the Atlanta Penitentiary. Stineirt is a German and Brandik an Austrian. They came to this country in 1913.

LIQUOR SHIPS RETIRE DOGGED BY DRY FLEET

dicated that the thirty vessels comprising the rum fleets off the coasts of Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts were separating, some heading seaward, and the rest cruising up and down the line to shake off the grap Coast Guard craft which have been clinging to each unit of the rum fleet.

"Under cover of the fog that yesterday blanketed Long Island Sound and the waters 'outside,' several of the more daring runners operating from this port set out for the rum fleet. They returned to port today, however, unable to get further than the off-shore or 'inner' patrol.

"It was stated at Coast Guard quarters here today that a number of patrol boats from the Great Lakes stations and from Southern ports were expected here within a few days to take part in the blockade."

Another Associated Press dispatch from Washington yesterday described plans of the high officials of the Coast Guard for guarding the entire coast:

"Borrowing from the plan worked out by the army in the World War coast guard headquarters, the G. H. Q. of the war on rum smugglers, has laid out a gigantic map showing the position of rum ships on the Atlantic coast. Ships are designed by blackheaded pins, which are moved as radio dispatches tell of their movement.

"It is Admiral Billard's plan to send a coast guard patrol as an escort when a rum ship departs from the row, and the patrols have orders to stay with the enemy until it passes into the territory of the next coast guard station or returns to its old position in the rum fleet."

"Ultimate consumers" of imported liquor in New York quoted their bootleggers yesterday as saying that the price of real Scotch whisky would go up from $7 a bottle to $10 or $12 unless the situation changed shortly. The report in bootlegging circles was that only two boatloads of liquor had been landed from Rum Row since the blockade began. Retail liquor sellers, it is understood, find real, unmixt Scotch almost impossible to obtain, although synthetic or doctored whisky, both Scotch and rye, is plentiful.

It was predicted in some quarters lately that if the Coast Guard maintains its blockade at the present efficiency, rum-running activities will be diverted to the Canadian border again. Recently virtually all the Scotch imported to America has come by sea, while Canadian ale has been the favorite cargo of the border smugglers.

The bootleggers, however, are praying for foggy weather to continue, in the hope that some of the fast motor boats used by the rum-runners and steered by skippers who know the harbor with their eyes closed can get through the blockade. Such boats are being watched by the police, especially the Cigarette, which has been caught twice, and was released by the Government last Saturday for lack of evidence.

Captain Charles Johnson and two members of the crew of the Cigarette—Edward Tracy and Joseph Berger—pleaded guilty in the Richmond County Court yesterday to a charge of violating the navigation law by sailing without lights. They had been indicted for assault, but the charge was changed when they agreed to plead guilty to the lesser charge. They were remanded to the county jail for sentence on Friday. On Nov. 22 last the Cigarette collided with the police boat Gypsy, throwing Police Sergeant Patrick Lee into the water. Lee died of pneumonia a few days later.

WILL INVESTIGATE PRINCETON SCHOOL

FOUR NEW DIRECTORS

Bryan Not Elected—Factional Controversy Likely to Go to General Assembly.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 11.—After a session lasting several hours this afternoon the Board of Directors of the Princeton Theological Seminary was unable to come to any agreement on the controversy between the Fundamentalist faction headed by Dr. Clarence Macartney of Philadelphia and Professor J. Gresham Machen and the friends of Dr. Charles R. Erdman, which has been disturbing the seminary for the last month. The board decided to appoint a committee of seven to investigate the internal workings of the seminary and instructed it to make a complete report to a meeting of the board on June 15.

At the same time no decision was reached on filling the Stuart Chair of Apologetics and Christian Ethics, for which Dr. Macartney was known to be a candidate. The committee appointed to recommend a successor to the Rev. William Brenton Greene, the present incumbent, reported that it had failed to come to an agreement and asked for more time. The Board of Directors voted to ask Dr. Greene to continue in office for the present.

The list of new members of the Board of Directors does not include William Jennings Bryan, and members of the board refused to say after the meeting whether or not his name had been advanced. It was rumored that the extreme Fundamentalist party desired to have him named but that four vacancies on the board were filled without his name appearing. Those elected were Harvey D. Heinman of Binghamton, N. Y.; Dr. Edward B. Hodge of Philadelphia, the Rev. Stuart Y. Hutchison of Pittsburgh and the Rev. Samuel Craig of Princeton.

In effect the failure of the board to take any action on the questions at issue puts the matter up to the General Assembly at Columbus later this month, in the opinion of those closely connected with the controversy. Dr. Erdman is known to be the candidate for the Moderatorship of the conservative party, which desires to treat the Modernists in a conciliatory manner, while Drs. Macartney and Machen are said to desire the election of William Jennings Bryan.

Today's meeting apparently was stormy, although the members of the board refused to give any details as to the actual happenings. The meeting lasted for nearly five hours and at one time Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, President of the seminary, withdrew with a group of the leaders into another room for a conference.

Dr. John B. Laird, Vice President of the board, who presided, made public only the announcement of the elections and the appointment of the investigating committee. He refused to comment on the meaning of the action. The names of the committee were not made public and Dr. Laird refused to give them on the grounds that they would be besieged by persons desiring to influence them.

This evening the annual reunion dinners of the various clubs were held.

MAGISTRATES TO SIFT PEDDLERS' CHARGES

McAdoo Complies With Hylan's Request by Naming Men to Conduct Inquiry.

Mayor Hylan, characterizing newspaper reports of complaints of pushcart peddlers that they are being oppressed and intimated as "misrepresenting actual conditions" and as "magnifying trivial things for partisan political purposes," addressed a letter yesterday to Chief City Magistrate McAdoo in which the Mayor urged that Mr. McAdoo make special assignments of Magistrates, "one in Manhattan and another in Brooklyn, to hear all complaints of pushcart men and other charges of alleged impropriety."

Chief Magistrate McAdoo, acting upon the Mayor's request, said later in the day: "The Mayor has requested that a thorough, impartial and painstaking magisterial investigation be made as to the charges put forth yesterday at a meeting of the Jewish Centre that pushcart men are subjected to graft and extortion.

"To the end that if such facts show infraction of the law on the part of any one the facts may be made known I have designated Magistrate Simpson for the Borough of Manhattan and Magistrate Dale for the Borough of Brooklyn to conduct such inquiries."

In his letter Mayor Hylan said in part: "This Administration has been in entire sympathy with the pushcart peddler, not alone because he makes an honest living for himself and his family but also because he has helped in our program to reduce the cost of living for the great masses of the people in the poorer sections of the city. Any attempts to oppress these deserving men should meet with stern repression. If any wrongdoing has been perpetrated it should be stamped out at once.

"The efforts of the Commissioner of Accounts to investigate complaints of various kinds have been blocked in some instances by legal delays resorted to by those who are determined to prevent us from stopping their exploitation of the people.

"I am sure that the Magistrates assigned to this particular work will soon uncover any evidence of rascality and that the punishment will fit the wrongdoing where such wrongdoing is found to exist."

TO TRY JERSEY MAYOR.

Hackensack Official to Face Fraud Charge in Court Today.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., May 11.—Mayor N. Demarest Campbell of Hackensack, former Secretary of the Industrial Building and Loan Association of Bergen County, is scheduled to go to trial tomorrow in Oyer and Terminer Court here before Judge William M. Seufert.

The indictment against Mayor Campbell charges that on July 10, 1924, as Secretary of the association, he made a false report of the condition of the association, as of June 30, 1924, to Herbert D. Newton, State Examiner. Also, it is charged that he swore the report included every asset and liability of the association and was in all respects true, knowing, the State contends, that the statement was false.

Special Deputy Attorney General William J. Morrison, a Bergen County lawyer, will prosecute for the State. Ward & McGinnis of Paterson will be trial counsel for the defense.

HOOVER ADVOCATES LESS REGULATION

AND RELIEVE GOVERNMENT

Commerce Secretary Stresses Rise of Ethics and Economic Utility of Advertising.

HOUSTON, Texas, May 11 (A. P.)—Advertising as a means to world progress, the theme before the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World at its convention here, was outlined by speakers at today's sessions.

Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, developed the topic in an address on the influence of advertising in distribution; L. W. Baldwin, President of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, touched upon it in a discussion of advertising and public opinion; Henick W. Dunlap, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, brought in the farmer as the cornerstone in the world's physical well-being and H. W. Wayne, director of several London (England) firms, pleaded for truth in international publicity.

The keynote had been developed at a previous meeting by Representative C. A. Eaton of New Jersey.

"While we are selling things of a material kind," he declared, "we must also sell the imperishable things of the spirit. Thus only can the art of advertising continue to be the handmaiden of human progress, leading the weary feet of all nations forward along convergent paths until by and by we shall reach the sunlit land of human understanding, complete cooperation, friendship and peace, which will mean the dawning of the Kingdom of God upon earth."

Along with a message from President Coolidge, messages were delivered by persons from other countries. Sir William Veno of Manchester spoke for Great Britain, Arturo Elias for Mexico and Samuel Tolon for Cuba. Norman S. H. Catto brought greetings from Sydney. Kuang Pei Lui of Mukden is the only Chinese delegate. Peru and Switzerland have representatives, and a message from an official of the Japanese Government hoped the convention would further world peace.

Hoover Sees New Economic Force.

Advertising, in becoming a most vital force in economic life and an integral part of the foundations of civilization, has laid upon its practitioners new duties and new responsibilities, Secretary Hoover said in his address.

"Advertising was not always looked upon as a vital part of our economic system," he continued. "There was a time when advertising had about the same economic and moral status as the barker outside the circus tent. But it has found itself a most serious purpose.

"The older economists taught the essential influences of 'wish,' 'want' and 'desire' as motive forces in economic progress. You have taken over the job of creating desire. You have still another job—creating good-will in order to make desire stand hitched. • • •

"No matter how fine an addition to human comfort or pleasure a given article or service may be, unless there is a diffusion of knowledge and information with respect to it will not itself become quickly accepted and incorporated into our standards of living. Our standards of living are much higher today than they would have been were it not for the part played advertising. • • •

"One profound economic effect of advertising is oftimes overlooked—its influence upon production. The general knowledge and rapid distribution of an article, which can only be accomplished through advertising, creates large production, and thus lower costs and prices. Modern advertising is the handmaiden of mass production. • • •

"There is still another phase of advertising that has always interested me, and that is the impulse advertising has given to the distribution of news, information, good cheer and educational material to our people.

"Obviously, were it not for the vast extension of national advertising, we should never have had the fine development of our periodical magazines, and were it not for the growth of local newspaper advertising, our publishers would not be able to produce the great journals which are of such incalculable value. • • •

Establishment of Group Ethics.

"The notion that advertising in its broad sense is an economic waste has been long since abandoned. • • • It is an economical form of distribution. • • • But there are some economic wastes which can be eliminated by the advertising managers. One of these you are already attacking through your development of research activities. • • • You have already gone a long way in this direction. • • •

"It is not too much to say that from all the many inventions and the multitude of ideas that are poured forth daily in the preparation of advertising there is emerging a science and a profession. It is becoming a science in its search for method and a profession in its skill of management. • • •

"But the milestone which will mark the passage from a trade to a profession is the establishment of group ethics. • • • The group characteristic of law and medicine and engineering is not alone the training of skill required, it is the elevated code of relations with fellow men, the incorporation of responsibility to the community into the daily task, the insistence upon a high sense of service given, that marks their distinction.

"The use of the slogan 'truth in advertising' and the vigilance agencies which you have set up to protect the consumer are themselves the finest proof that this business is evolving toward highly ethical standards. • • •

"And just so far as those ethical principles are embodied in practice, just that far will the public grow in confidence in advertising and just that far have you progressed into a profession. • • •

Would Avoid Government Intrusion.

"We are confronted with the daily demand to extend government in order to cure some abuse or other. The arm of government is a poor cure for abuse, for it becomes at once a restraint of liberty. • • • The safeguard against the invasion of government into the lives and liberties of our people is that we shall cure abuse outside the Government. • • •

"The war drove us to great centralization of government and to great dependence upon the action of central government. The continuance of this mobilization of all effort would have destroyed the initiative of our people and destroyed the very impulses to progress. But from it came the illusion that most humanills could be cured by governmental regulation. • • •

"We need to have the public mind turned off of the National Government as the remedy for all ills. We need to get Washington off of the front page at least part of the time. If we can decentralize thought onto State and municipal government, and above all to such efforts as yours to cure abuses from within, we shall automatically stop the growth of Federal encroachment.

"American business needs a lifting purpose greater than the struggle of materialism. Nor can it lie in some evanescent, emotional, dramatic crusade. It lies in the higher pitch of economic life, in a finer regard for the rights of others, a stronger devotion to obligations of citizenship that will assure an improved leadership in every community and in the nation.

"It lies in the organization of the forces of our economic life so that we may strengthen the home and may produce happier individual life, more secure in employment and comfort, wider in the possibilities of enjoyment of nature, larger in its opportunities of intellectual life. The ferment of organization for more definite accomplishment of these things in the practical day-to-day progress of business is alive in our business world.

"The Government can best contribute through stimulation of cooperation with voluntary forces in our national life; for we thus preserve the foundations upon which we have progressed so far—the initiative of our people.

"With vision and devotion these voluntary forces can accomplish more for America than any spread of the hand of Government. Your Association is contributing to these ends."

SOUTHERNERS OPEN THEIR EXPOSITION

GOVERNOR McLEOD SPEAKER

Says Contentment and Good Conditions Mark the Lot of Workers in the South.

The Southern Exposition, displaying colorful exhibits of fourteen Southern States, was opened yesterday afternoon at the Grand Central Palace following a luncheon to a group of Southern leaders at the Hotel Astor tendered by the Merchants' Association of New York.

The exposition was opened by W. G. Sirrine, President and Treasurer of the organization, who was accompanied to the Grand Central Palace by Governor Thomas G. McLeod of South Carolina and other distinguished Southerners. A message from Mayor Hylan, broadcast last night over WNYC by William Wirt Mills, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, welcomed the exposition warmly.

"Few people know, perhaps, the true story of the South as the South is today," said Mayor Hylan's message. "Few realize that the South's wealth is more than $72,000,000,000, which was 82 per cent. of the wealth of the United States in 1900.

"The South spends $316,000,000 for educational purposes annually. Its agricultural products have an annual value of $6,350,000,000 and its manufactured products in a year are worth more than $9,500,000,000. Its mineral production amounts to $1,645,000,000 and the South's aggregate banking resources amount to $5,983,445,000.

"Few people know that per capita production of hydro-electric energy in the South is greater than that of all the rest of the country or that the standard of living of its wage earners is the highest in the United States. The South has suffered from reports of illiteracy among its population, of poverty among its people, of backwardness in business. Such things are no longer true.

"A new South has been in the building for some time and this exposition is a progressive step, a busines-like presentation of the new South, to tell the rest of the country some of the facts about Southern progress and prosperity."

At the Merchants' Association luncheon the leaders of the enterprise were welcomed on behalf of the State by Secretary of State Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp. Lucius R. Eastman, President of the merchants' body, extended the felicitations of New York's business men. John E. Edgerton, President of the National Association of Manufacturers, spoke briefly. Governor McLeod responded for the South.

Corrects Misconceptions.

In his speech Governor McLeod undertook to correct some misconceptions which he felt prevailed in some communities concerning the South.

"You may have an idea that the workers in our cotton mills live in huts and hovels," he said, "that they work through the hours of the day and night and that children who ought to be toying with dolls are working at spindles. It is not true. I wish you could see the way in which they live. I wish you could see the ruddy glow that is in their faces and see their living conditions and observe that all of them are very happy."

The guests at the luncheon visited the exposition, which occupies three floors of the Grand Central Palace. The exhibits are a complete miniature reproduction of the industry and resources of the Southern States. Some of the States have large displays of agricultural products, cotton, grain, corn and rice. Power developments and model industrial enterprises are prominently displayed. Educational institutions have attractive booths.

An outstanding feature of the main floor is the display of contemporary Southern art, arranged under the direction of Herndon Smith, with a committee of other artists. Paintings, drawings and statuary, the work of more than fifty Southern artists, are shown in this exhibit.

Stone Mountain Replica.

An exhibit which attracted considerable attention yesterday was the miniature replica of the Stone Mountain memorial to the Confederacy, showing the carving as it appears today. The reproduction is twelve feet long and five feet high.

The Louisiana exhibit, with its display of fifteen miniatures of floats used in the New Orleans Mardi Gras celebration, brought complimentary remarks from the visitors. A large model of the Port of New Orleans, showing the entire city, its port facilities, public buildings, transportation lines and other landmarks, won praise for its fidelity to the original. The model was painted in several colors.

Running through the assembly of exhibits was their motif of cotton, which was displayed in all its forms, from the boll to the bale and the manufactured product. An interesting educational exhibit was that of the Alabama Woman's College, of which Dr. Thomas W. Palmer is President. The progress of the institution and its achievements are indicated.

Exhibit From Florida.

Coral Gables, the suburb development of Miami, Fla., was represented by a five-room house of pure Spanish architecture. The rooms were tastefully decorated and visitors were entertained by the Coral Gables Orchestra, brought from Florida to play during the two weeks of the exposition.

Alabama coal and steel are shown in attractive displays. The Ensley Works in Alabama, whose steel is shipped to various parts of the world, are depicted in forty-two paintings by Roderick D. Mackenzie, a Southern artist.

The Georgia Railway and Power Company's display gives the story of Georgia's industrial awakening, her resources and the abundance of power that has been made available for manufacturers seeking plant sites within her gates.

Today will be Maryland Day at the exposition. Governor Albert C. Ritchie will be the guest of honor of the Maryland Society of New York and the United Daughters of the Confederacy. He will make an address at 4 o'clock. The Mayor of Baltimore and other leading citizens of Maryland will be in the Governor's party.

The Honorary President of the exposition is Governor E. Lee Trinkle of Virginia. W. G. Sirrine is President and Treasurer and Colonel Holmes E. Springs is Secretary. The exposition will be open daily from noon to 10:30 P. M., except Sunday, until May 23.

TEARLES LOSE IN SUIT OF BOY FOR DOG BITES

$20,000 Verdict Against Actor and His Wife for Accident Four Years Ago.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 11.—Conway Tearle, the actor, and his wife, Adele Rowland Tearle, were assessed $20,000 damages in a sealed verdict returned today by a jury in Justice Morschauser's part of the Supreme Court. The findings were in favor of Jacques Weinberg, 7 years old, and his father, Max Weinberg.

Of the total verdict, $15,000 went to the boy, who nearly four years ago was twice bitten by a bulldog on the Tearle estate, and $5,000 went to Weinberg for medical attention and loss of his son's services.

According to ex-Judge Sydney A. Syme of Mount Vernon, who appeared for the plaintiffs, the attack of Happy, a white bull dog owned by Mrs. Tearle, occurred on a roadway on the Tearle country estate at Chappaqua on Dec. 10, 1921. Mrs. Tearle was sued because she owned the dog, and her husband was made a co-defendant because he owned the estate.

The Weinbergs live not far from the Tearle country place, and according to the testimony, a Japanese servant, who has since committed hara-kiri, invited the Weinberg boy and several of his young friends to the Tearle lawn, where he gave them cake and candy.

As the boys were walking down the roadway, the dog, it was alleged, jumped on Jacques, tore open his scalp and bit him on the cheek. The boy was confined to a hospital from December to March, 1922. His father spent $8,081 for hospital and doctor's bills.

Ex-District Attorney Lee Parsons Davis, who appeared for the Tearles, announced, after Justice Morschauser denied his motion to set aside the verdict, that he would take the case to the Appellate Division. Mrs. Tearle left today for Hollywood to join her husband.

THREAD WORKERS STAY OUT

Only 12 of 2,200 Return When American Company Reopens Mills.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., May 11.—The American Thread Company threw open its plant gates today for those of its 2,200 striking employes who cared to resume work, but it was declared by pickets of the Textile Workers' Union that only twelve persons went into the mills.

The strike, which has existed since March 10, was brought about by a 10 per cent. cut in wages, effective on Jan. 12 last.

The effort to reopen the plant was greeted in a festive way by the strikers. At 6 o'clock the former employes gathered outside a local theatre. When the first whistle sounded at 6:30 o'clock the strikers started a parade, headed by Ollie Rock, a war veteran, with a large silk flag and a color guard. About the same time twenty-five State officers under Superintendent Robert Hurley, with several city officers under Chief of Police McArthur, took positions at the nine mill gates. The strikers marched by, cheering the 7 o'clock whistle, and then attended a mass meeting.

State Senator John Powers of Pawtucket, R. I., active in textile circles, who has spoken to the strikers several times, will be among those who will address the daily mass meetings.

LECTURE FOR ST. JOHN FUND

Carl Akeley to Illustrate Talk With Motion Picture of Gorilla.

Carl Akeley, African explorer and scientist, will deliver a lecture on the evolution of man as part of the program to be given tomorrow night in Town Hall for the benefit of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine Building Fund. Mr. Akeley's address will be illustrated with what are reputed to be the only existing motion pictures portraying the gorilla in his natural haunts.

The lecturer has made an exhaustive study of this animal and, with the American Ambassador to France, influenced King Albert of Belgium to reserve a portion of the Belgian Congo where the rapidly vanishing gorilla could be observed advantageously.

Following the lecture the first film version of "The Beggar on Horseback" to be released will be shown. Tickets for the affair are being sold at the Town Hall box office, 113 West Forty-third Street.

INVESTIGATE STORY BABY WAS SLAIN

would not reply to the grave charges of the District Attorney until his own investigation had been completed. Two additional attorneys joined the defense yesterday.

Mr. Neustaedter defended his client's management of the institution. He asserted she had lost only 17 out of 100 infants in 1924 and all the children had been sickly and near death when brought to her. He denied that no physician attended the infantorium, saying a "Dr. Ludlow" and a "Dr. Brown" had been called in when babies were seriously sick. He did not know their first names or addresses.

The Rev. George F. Schmidt, pastor of Immanuel Lutheran Church, Lexington Avenue and Eighty-eighth Street, joined in defending his communicant. He said Mrs. Geisen-Volk had the good of her charges on her mind all the time, sometimes rushing out in the middle of services because she wished to supervise the feeding of the infants herself. He said he had statements from mothers commending the attention Mrs. Geisen-Volk gave their offspring.

"A nurse, who was herself a mother," said Mr. Ryan, "told me the Toohey child had been hurled against a wall—she had placed her child in the institution and had then gone there to nurse it herself. She said she remained there ten weeks since the first of the year, in which time nine children died.

"This nurse told me Mrs. Volk designated the hospitals to which children were sent, and never sent them to the same hospital in too rapid succession for fear the hospital authorities might become suspicious. From the information I already have, I believe we shall ask indictments for some degree of homicide."

Mr. Ryan began his intensive investigation by scanning the records of ten hospitals. Special attention was paid to the death records of the Toohey and Winters infants. Mr. Ryan said he would have Dr. Schultze perform an autopsy on the bodies. He said he had learned that the body of the Toohey child was held at the infantorium until the parents settled their indebedness to Mrs. Geisen-Volk. The body was buried in Mrs. Geisen-Volk's private plot in St. Michael's Cemetery, Astoria, Queens. This morning at 10 o'clock he will talk to the mother, Mrs. Margaret Toohey, of 2,002 Webster Avenue, the Bronx.

Charges that Mrs. Geisen-Volk had been cruel to her charges, especially when the weekly payments of $8 or $10 were delayed, were made to Mr. Ryan by Miss May Abel Letender, Riverside Drive and 102d Street. She said she entered the employ of the baby farmer on April 10, and left the same day, "because of conditions."

Miss Letender told the Assistant District Attorney, he said, that the infantorium was full of evidences of "appalling neglect," no attempt at sterilization being made, and utensils being mixed indiscriminately.

Detective Harry Somers of the East 104th Street Station told the Deputy Prosecutor that the baby farmer twice had brought a child to the station house. She claimed they had been abandoned on her doorstep. Mr. Ryan said he would investigate to see if the children were put out because their fathers or mothers had refused to continue the weekly payments. Policewoman Catherine May Donor took care of the infants until they could be placed in institutions.

Miss Rose T. Donnelly, social worker at the Babies' Hospital, Lexington Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, and Henry Riedenger, auditor of the Lenox Hill Hospital, brought records of their institutions to the District Attorney's office telling of two babies who died. They were undernourished.

Defending his client, Mr. Neustaedter denied that Joseph Abramowitz, 2 years old, who died in Bellevue Hospital on Saturday, had ever been at the infantorium. He said the death of Robert Snyder, 4 months old, who expired in Metropolitan Hospital Friday morning, was due to the absence of his client's special formula of milk.

He said that the nurse who had made the charges against Mrs. Geisen-Volk had tried to induce his client to take her into partnership. They parted hostile, he added. He reported his client as hysterical in prison, and as utterly destitute.

WORK SEES MENACE TO RECLAMATION

Declares Settlers Are Leaving Projects, While Farmers Fail to Replace Them.

SEEKS AID OF GOVERNORS

Secretary, Following Inspection Trip, Says Future Developments Depend on Success of First.

WASHINGTON, May 11 (A. P.).—Completion of settlement and acceleration of agricultural development are the outstanding needs of many Federal reclamation projects, Secretary Work asserted today, in a statement summarizing the result of his recent inspection tours.

The Secretary said the discovery that "settlers are leaving projects and farmers are failing to take their places" was a cause for "real anxiety" to those who had the cause of reclamation at heart.

"The money to repay project costs comes from the farm and is repaid to the Government by the farmers," he said. "Unless settlers can be attracted to the projects and are able to remain, there will be no one benefited by building them and the Government will not be reimbursed for their cost.

"Of the dozen projects we visited, we were primarily interested in the success of the older ones as an assurance that the development of new ones may be reasonably expected. It is a cause for anxiety, therefore, when it is found that settlers are leaving and farmers fail to come to take their place. To avert this, we are trying to discover some new land settlement programs and have been holding conferences with railway emigration agents, and Governors, trying to enlist their assistance. Upon it rests not only the success of the projects already built but of the projects to be constructed in the future."

The Administration was "committed to development of all feasible reclamation projects," Secretary Work went on, but "no new project is feasible unless it can be settled and no old project from which the settlers are leaving and to which new farmers cannot be attracted will ultimately survive."

"The reclamation service can build irrigation works," he added, "but it cannot draft settlers. We hope States, railroads and Chambers of Commerce will cooperate with us to this end. Local towns and States will be the first beneficiaries from new projects, the Government will be the last. The first intention of reclamation was to build homes. We want to insure the ownership of these homes to those who make them."

Congress had been extremely generous in permitting the deferment of payment in cases where settlers found themselves in financial difficulty, but "there have been requests for wholesale relief in which entire irrigation districts composed of hundreds of farmers have asked that their charges be jointly suspended."

"We cannot accede to requests for blanket relief," the statement said. "In many of these districts there are farm lands and others who are prosperous. It would be manifestly unjust to their neighbors who cannot pay and to the Government to permit them to escape paying the charges due to the Government under the contract when able to do so. The Government must keep its contract with the settler and he in turn with the Government.

"This does not mean that relief to individual farmers is being denied. Every application is receiving fair and equitable consideration. Any settler on any project who presents reasonable proof of his inability financially to meet his payments is being granted an extension of time expecting that he will eventually pay his obligations to the Government as provided by Congress."

LUCIANO IS INDICTED.

Perjury Charged in Testimony in Diamond Murder Trial.

Nicholas Luciano, who recanted his testimony in the West End Bank murder cases, disappeared and failed to appear as a witness at the trial of Anthony J. Pantano, was indicted yesterday by the Grand Jury in Kings County on the charge of perjury on two counts. The first count is based on the recantation affidavit as presented to Justice Mitchell May in the Supreme Court on April 15 for a new trial for John Farina. The second relates to the same affidavit, used in the motion for a new trial for Morris Diamond.

The Grand Jury stated in the indictment that the testimony by Luciano at the trials of Morris and Joseph Diamond, John Farina and Pantano was true and was not the result of fear or of coercion by the police or the District Attorney's Office.

A plea of not guilty was made by Luciano when he was taken from the Raymond Street Jail and arraigned before County Judge Reuben Haskell. He was held without bail at the request of Assistant District Attorney J. I. Cuff.

While Luciano was a fugitive the Diamond brothers and Farina were executed, and Pantano was again convicted as their accomplice.

AIDS HARVARD EXTENSION.

C. C. Stillman Buys Site Where Hotel Would Block Plan.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 11.—The building of the proposed Roosevelt Hotel in the midst of the dormitory district in the Harvard University development program has been forestalled, it was announced today, by the purchase of the site by Chauncey C. Stillman of New York, a member of the class of 1908.

Mr. Stillman recently acquired Beck Hall in the same vicinity, when it was learned that it was likely to be replaced by an apartment house. He has announced his intention of consulting with college authorities regarding disposition of the property.

The property was acquired through Moodna Farms, Inc., in a manner similar to the Beck Hall deal. It consists of the former site of St. Paul's Catholic Church and rectory. The erection of the hotel, it was said, would have been a serious obstacle in the Harvard plan for development from the "yard" to the Charles River.

Shepherd awaits trial next Monday on the charge that he murdered young McClintock by typhoid inoculations.

TRIES HUNGER STRIKE, FEARING U. S. SAVAGERY

German Seaman Faints After Sentence to Atlanta for Smuggling an Alien.

Walter Fahloh, a seaman on the Orizaba of the Ward Line, was arrested in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., three days ago, and was brought here to answer a charge of attempting to smuggle an alien, Sandor Tarca, into this country. He was locked up in the Tombs, where he began a hunger strike. He is a German citizen and said that he had heard stories of the "great savagery" of the American people.

When arraigned before Federal Judge A. N. Hand yesterday Fahloh pleaded guilty and was sentenced to one year and one day in the Federal prison at Atlanta. That he had not eaten food for three days was not known until he fainted in the pen of the Federal Building. When he recovered under the first aid treatment of the Deputy Marshals, he said that he was starving and intended to kill himself. He protested against being sent to prison and asked to be deported. When assured that he would be deported as soon as he had served the prison term, he revived.

After he grew calmer he said that he stowed Tarca on the Orizaba at Cuba on Feb. 20 in order to earn some money for his wife and widowed mother, who, he said, were starving in Germany. He went to Pennsylvania to work in a coal mine. His arrest, he said, was a shock, and he resolved to die.

Other prisoners waiting in the pen with Fahloh took up a collection for him and promised to get more money and send it to his mother. Fahloh's sentence was said by United States Attorney Buchner to be the longest ever given in the Federal Court on a plea of guilty to violating the immigration law.

Tarca, the stowaway, is a Hungarian. He told an interpreter that he had made several attempts to get into the United States under the quota and had failed each time. Then he concluded to try it as a stowaway. He worked his way to Cuba and there he met Fahloh and paid him $100 for his passage.

FERNEKES IS ARRAIGNED.

Alleged Bandit Pleads Not Guilty—New York Charges Also Entered.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 11.—Handcuffed and guarded by a squad of policemen who overshadowed him, Harry J. Fernekes, alleged bandit, who is wanted in Pearl River, N. Y., for alleged robbery and murder, and who was indicted by the Cook County Grand Jury on one murder and four robbery charges, today was arraigned before Chief Justice Hopkins of the Criminal Court.

The striking contrast between the size of this "shrimp-like" bank suspect and that of his captors caused a ripple of amusement in the courtroom, and the humor of the situation was not unappreciated by the tiny man himself, who smiled as he was led up to the bar.

Fernekes entered a plea of not guilty. He said he had retained counsel, and an Assistant State's Attorney, Michael Romano, asked that a date be set for the trial.

Judge Hopkins announced that on May 19 a date would be designated.

Since his arrest several weeks ago in the John Crerar Library, Fernekes has been held at the Detective Bureau in the hope of obtaining a confession from him. He was about to be surrendered to the New York authorities, who had guaranteed to send him to the electric chair, when he was identified as the alleged slayer of Michael Swiontiowski, Treasurer for a South Side building and loan association, who was shot by a gang of five bandits and robbed of $12,000. On these charges Fernekes was held for the Grand Jury.

The two murder charges and twenty-three allegations of robbery against Fernekes, submitted for Rockland County, N. Y., were also entered here today.

TO TEST ARCTIC PLANES.

Navy Machines for MacMillan Expedition Will Be Tried Out Friday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—A test flight of the airplanes to be used by the naval aviation detail on the MacMillan Arctic expedition will be made at the plant of the builders, the Loening Aircraft Corporation, in New York, next Friday. The machines then will be flown to the naval aircraft factory in Philadelphia, where the aviation section of the expedition will outfit.

The test of the planes will be carried out by the navy personnel who will operate them in the Far North this Summer. One plane will be manned by Lieut. Commander R. H. Byrd, Lieutenant M. A. Schur and Chief Machinist's Mate Floyd Bennett. The other will be flown by Boatswain R. E. Rober and Chief Machinist's Mate A. C. Nold. It is expected that Donald P. MacMillan, who will lead the expedition under the auspices of the National Geographic Society, will be present during the tests.

The first delivery of a new type of naval observation plane known as the Loening shipboard seaplane has been made to the naval air station in Washington. Further tests will be carried on by the Navy Department to determine the performance of the plane under service conditions.

The Loening plane is an amphibian type of the same general design as those which will be used with the MacMillan expedition. It is equipped for landing on the decks of aircraft carriers or on the water, and may be catapulted from ships, moored at sea, landed in fields and run up on beaches under its own power.

The type has been designated the OL-1. Fully loaded, the plane weighs 8,200 pounds. It carries a crew of four men, radio equipment and machine guns, and is practically of all metal construction. In the acceptance trials the plane attained an altitude of 18,000 feet, made a high speed of 125 miles an hour, and climbed in altitude more than 5,000 feet in ten minutes.

ORDERS PLANE 'DETECTORS'

War Department Wants New Ones for Anti-Aircraft Gun Tests.

WASHINGTON, May 11 (A. P.).—Rush orders have been issued by the War Department to Frankford Arsenal for the manufacture before June 1 of eighteen sets of a new type of sound-locating device intended for detection of aircraft at considerable distances.

The order is in connection with the army program for extensive special target firing this Summer at aerial targets to get accurate information as to the effectiveness of anti-aircraft guns of all types. The test firing is already in progress at posts in New York State and will be conducted also at San Francisco, Honolulu and the Panama Canal Zone.

The new sound-locating device is known as the "exponential horn," and preliminary experiments indicate that it will have a range of eight miles in daytime. Present locating devices are technically styled "telesitometers," which employ a different principle for spotting the distant rumble of aircraft motors. The new device is expected to show greater accuracy as well as greater range than the present equipment.

Vote to Continue Federal Stores.

At a meeting of the creditors of the Federal Food Stores, Inc., of 38 Ross Street, Brooklyn, held yesterday afternoon in the United States District Court, it was decided to continue the operation of the business for another sixty days, or for such further time as the Court may consider wise. The meeting was attended by more than 200 persons. The decision of the creditors is subject to the approval of the United States District Court.

Supreme Court Recesses June 8.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The present term of the Supreme Court will end on June 8, under a schedule announced today. The court will convene on May 26 for the delivery of opinions and receipt of motions, but no motions for writs of certiorari will be accepted after May 25 and no motions for admission to practice will be received after June 1.

More Electrical Outlets
—Brighter, Happier Homes

Energy and convenience are two essentials in modern housekeeping. Electricity furnishes the energy and outlets furnish the convenience.

In this way, the burdensome tasks of the household are lessened. Power and heat are made instantly available for all purposes at points where they are actually needed without the sacrifice of a single lamp from the lighting fixtures.

Adequate electric wiring is an investment, not an expense. It enhances the value of property in proportion to the completeness with which it is installed. Spring is the time to improve your home. Put in additional wiring when you paint or otherwise renovate. And plan for plenty of Convenience Outlets—they make housework easy.

Any metal lighting fixture is attractive when you buy it. But most metals, even though plated, cannot escape corrosion.

THEATRE OWNERS OPEN WAR ON HAYS

Leaders at Milwaukee, Assailing Domination of "Big Three," Predict Ousting of "Dictator."

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 11.—Denouncing Will H. Hays as a "film czar" promoting interests of the motion-picture "trusts," and predicting that he would be forced to resign or lose his position before his recently signed four-year contract had terminated, members of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America and the Independent Producers' Association today united here in a declaration of war on what they termed a common enemy—the "film trusts."

The convention of the two organizations is expected to precipitate a fight which may affect the future of the motion-picture industry in America.

The two leaders in the fight against the motion-picture "trust" are Sydney Cohen of New York, past President of the Theatre Owners, and I. E. Chadwick of Hollywood, President of the Independent Producers.

Conferences were held between leaders in both organizations today preparatory to the opening of the joint convention tomorrow. More than 1,500 motion picture owners of the United States and Canada are expected to attend the session.

The so-called "film trust" is alleged to include the Metro-Goldwyn, Associated First National and Famous Players-Lasky Corporations. According to claims of the independents and theatre owners, the "Big Three," as they are called, are trying to dominate the motion-picture industry.

Sees Fight to Save Independents.

"This is the crisis of the motion-picture industry, and upon this convention hinges whether the small theatre owner and independent producer is to exist," said Michael J. O'Toole, President of the Theatre Owners. "The combine is not content with producing and distribution, but now wants a complete monopoly by entering the exhibitor's field.

"The combine is not content to let the small theatre owners enjoy the business that they have taken years to build up, but now it wants everything. They may not realize it, but they are killing the goose that lays the golden egg."

Arthur James, editor of Today, the official publication of the Independent Producers and Distributors, declared that Mr. Hays does not represent the motion picture industry as a whole, as is generally believed, but rather is the mouthpiece for the "Big Three."

"In other words, Mr. Hays is—and with a certain propriety—working for his employers first, last and all the time," said Mr. James. "We do not criticise him for his course, but we do deplore the collapse of our expectancy that he would be the superman he was heralded as being.

"There is absolutely no reason why Mr. Hays should hold the position that he does. The trouble is that he is fundamentally a politician, and politics and public amusement do not mix well together."

It was Mr. James's prediction that Mr. Hays would be forced to resign before the termination of his present contract.

Harry G. Kosh, a New York lawyer, declared that the purpose of the Independents at the convention was a business one. "But over and above that," he added, "we are vitally interested in keeping the screen free and independent in its progress and development. Monopoly has progressed so far that it is with great difficulty that independent ability and capital can produce pictures and find a sufficient number of theatres in which to exhibit them.

"If initiative is to be stifled, if creative brain is to be degraded to the factory level, the motion picture, in my judgment, is doomed.

"We are seriously concerned for the future of our business, because we are convinced that an outraged American public will rise up and destroy the monopoly.

"However, before this can happen the monopoly will have destroyed the independent producer, exhibitor and distributer. At the same time it will destroy the motion picture as an institution."

DEAD HUSBAND'S BRAIN EXAMINED, WIFE SAYS

Story of Unusual Procedure Told to Surrogate in R. H. Lawrence Will Contest.

A charge that a post-mortem examination of the brain of Richard H. Lawrence, a retired official of the American Tobacco Company, to determine his mental capacity when he added a codicil to his will five days prior to his death on Feb. 8 was submitted to the Surrogate's Court in Kings County yesterday in relation to the contest of the will by the widow, Mrs. Katherine L. Lawrence. In his will Lawrence had excluded his wife from any share in his estate on the grounds, he stated, that she had obtained some of his property without his consent, which had reduced the total amount of the estate from $100,000 to $80,000. The codicil provided an income to Mrs. Lawrence from a trust fund of $10,000.

Her attorney, Charles F. Barbier, told the Court he believed the mental test that was sought by means of the post-mortem examination, which Mrs. Lawrence had not been asked to permit, had been made for the purpose of showing that Lawrence lacked testamentary capacity at the time he wrote the codicil. Barbier said it was his belief that the examination of Lawrence's brain was directed by William R. Hopkins, a cousin, and the executor of the estate of Lawrence.

The result of the examination and its legal bearing on the case, if any, were not disclosed. Barbier said he would reserve the right to further discussion of it at the jury trial of the case on June 8.

A peculiar feature of the case, it was said, was the fact that all of the estate of Lawrence goes to a boy whom Mrs. Lawrence took from an orphan asylum at Boston ten years ago and placed in her home as an informally adopted son. This beneficiary named in the will is Nathan E. Pettengill, now 16 years old, of 343 East Seventeenth Street, Manhattan. Mrs. Lawrence said her husband had first objected to taking the boy into their family, but later had accepted him as a son, though the boy was never legally adopted.

The Lawrences had been married 26 years. Mrs. Lawrence declared that she was practically, without means of support, and that she had been compelled to obtain work, her present position being with the Department of Health at Newark, N. J.

$500,000 LIBEL SUIT ENDED BY AN APOLOGY

Suggestion of Justice Hatting Followed by Attorneys in Action Against British Firm.

Through the efforts of Supreme Court Justice Hatting, a suit which would have required more than a week to try was settled yesterday after a few hours had been consumed in the presentation of the case, and another action which was connected with it was discontinued. The action on trial was the $500,000 libel suit brought by Fried, Mendelson & Co., New York cotton converters, against Edmund Halstead, Ltd., a manufacturing concern of Manchester, England, because of statements concerning the New York firm in a letter sent by the English concern to its New York manager.

The suit had been carried to the Appellate Division on an application by the defendant to dismiss the action on the ground that no cause of action was stated, and the Appellate Division held that the complaint stated an action which should be tried by a jury. When the case went to trial late last Friday afternoon, I. Gainsburg, attorney for the plaintiff, stated that the jury would be asked to find a verdict for heavy damages under the English libel laws which are more strict than those in this country, because the letter was alleged to have been published in England, through being dictated to the stenographer employed by the general manager of the concern, and through being discussed with other British manufacturers.

Joseph H. Choate, attorney for the defendant, stated that the defense would be based on the American libel laws and that under the laws of this country the dictating of a letter to an employe does not constitute the publishing of a libel. Before the testimony began, Justice Hatting conferred with both attorneys in an effort to induce them to come to an agreement which would save the time of the Court and jury, not only in the action on trial, but in another suit in which the English concern was suing Fried, Mendelson & Co. for $45,000 damages for failure to accept merchandise.

When court opened Mr. Choate announced that his client was prepared to make a "formal and public offer of apology" stating that the letter of Jan. 19, 1921, was written when many cancelations of orders were being sent in, and stated that the defendant based its letter concerning Fried, Mendelson & Co. in the belief that its cancellation was not meritorious.

Mr. Gainsburg announced that his client would accept the formal apology and asked to have the case marked as "settled." Mr. Gainsburg said that in the $45,000 suit of the English concern against his client for refusal to accept merchandise, "a very substantial allowance" had been made.

INSISTS ON FORD SUIT.

Mississippi Revenue Agent Declares Law Forces Him to Act.

JACKSON, Miss., May 11 (A. P.).—W. J. Miller, State Revenue Agent, who filed a $12,000,000 suit against the Ford Motor Company last week, announced today he would not file any similar suits until the Legislature has had an opportunity to change or repeal the State anti-Trust Law.

This statement followed one issued last night by Governor Henry L. Whitfield, deprecating the filing of the suit and declaring it was "fraught with most unfortunate consequences," and that it did not reflect "the attitude of the people of Mississippi toward legitimate business."

Mr. Miller declared it was necessary that he uphold his oath of office and added:

"The Ford suit has been brought as an instance of violation of the existing statute and my office will carry the suit to a conclusion. I believe I am acting in accord with my duty and I therefore shall take orders of no one save the courts of the State."

In his application Mr. Bernhard told Vice Chancellor Joseph Backes that he would file suit against the former Senator for $105,000 for alleged failure to keep an agreement to purchase $125,000 stock in the publishing company.

The Vice Chancellor appointed Cecil H. MacMahon counsel. Counsel for Mr. Frelinghuysen alleges that his client is not liable on account of an agreement entered into with Joseph J. Fiske, former President of the company.

In THREE WEEKS the Largest Savings Bank in the United States —with the Strength of 75 Years— will open its Grand Central Branch

43d STREET Lexington Avenue across the Street from Grand Central Terminal

To Extend a Great Work

Now that the laws of this state permit a savings bank to open one—and only one—branch, we are commemorating the seventy-fifth year since the organization of this bank by opening a branch in the heart of the Grand Central Zone.

This enables us to extend the great work we have been endeavoring to accomplish for three quarters of a century, and to bring to the heart of New York's newest business center and greatest residential section the constructive service of the country's largest savings institution.

There are many reasons for the unusual growth of the Emigrant Bank—the distinguished character of its board of trustees, its staunch conservatism, the personal interest it has taken in every one of its thousands of depositors—but in no way has it more completely served the community than through its very liberal interest policy

A LIBERAL INTEREST POLICY

This is the only savings bank in New York City to pay interest on monthly balances. Your money draws interest for every calendar month it is on deposit in this bank.

Still more recently, the Emigrant Bank has sponsored the plan of Living Insurance—the simplest means yet devised to enable the breadwinner of the family to build up a fund that will protect the living security and the happiness of his or her home.

MOST radio stores carry a great variety of sets—all of which appear to be carefully made of the best materials. How is one to choose?

The average radio buyer is not an expert. He must necessarily be influenced by the advice of those whom he considers more expert than himself in radio matters.

The POPULAR SCIENCE INSTITUTE OF STANDARDS—established a year and a half ago by POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY—has solved the uncertainties of thousands of radio buyers.

Its purpose is to make possible a guarantee of quality on all apparatus offered through advertising to readers of POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY.

The Institute distributes on request a list of tested merchandise, which can safely be used as a radio buying guide. Every article listed is guaranteed by POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY to be as represented by its manufacturer. This guarantee is backed by the approval of the Institute after practical and scientific tests.

The POPULAR SCIENCE INSTITUTE OF STANDARDS is today organized so as to be able to advise you in the choice of a radio set. It is under the direction of Professor Collins P. Bliss, Head of the Mechanical Engineering Department of New York University and Director of the Sage Research Testing Laboratories. He is assisted by such electrical engineering experts as Professor H. G. Tyler, Professor Sampson K. Barrett and Alexander Senauke.

The facilities of the Institute, both as to personnel and equipment, are such as to assure tests of the very highest order—in many cases more complete and careful than would be possible in the plants or laboratories of radio manufacturers. Material submitted to the Institute of Standards for approval is not only submitted to scientific tests—often of an entirely original nature—but is run through an exhaustive set of practical try-outs which determine very accurately just how the set or part in question may be expected to work in the hands of the average user. This procedure insures that any radio set or part approved by the POPULAR SCIENCE INSTITUTE OF STANDARDS may be definitely guaranteed.

COAL MEN OPPOSE CONTROL BY PUBLIC

FORESEE NO PRICE RISE

Advise Consumers, However, to Buy Winter Supplies Now—Denounce Profiteers.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 11.—Opposition to the project of Governmental control of the coal industry and belief that the industry can be lifted from its present "chaotic condition" only by the united effort of all coal men, were expressed in official statements today by the National Retail Coal Merchants' Association, holding its eighth annual convention in the Hotel Traymore. Merchants who profiteer in seasons of great demand were assailed in a statement as acting "contrary to public interest."

Although it is not likely that there will be an advance in the price of coal to the homes of the nation, according to delegates, the public was advised to purchase Winter supplies now, it was pointed out that in the anthracite fields the present wage agreement expires Aug. 31. The coal men believe the miners will ask for a renewal of the present scale and not ask an increase and that the operators will grant this demand.

Delegates said, however, that the uncertainty attending the outcome of the coming wage conference made it advisable for consumers to purchase now.

The present chaotic condition of the coal industry, particularly in the bituminous fields, was said to be due to the fact that union mines are paying extremely high wages and non-union mines extremely low wages, comparatively, making it almost impossible for the former to compete. Added to this are lack of cooperation between mine operators, decreased demand and no permanent schedule of operation.

In his annual address Samuel B. Crowell, President of the Association and Vice President of the George B. Newton Coal Company of Philadelphia, declared that the "depression in the coal trade is gradually bringing the public to a realization of the vital part which this industry plays in the economic life of the country."

"While we have shown the majority of those in Congress that it would be a calamity rather than a benefit to the public to have our business run under governmental supervision," said President Crowell, "no less an authority than Senator King said that 'governmental control of coal is coming, for the sentiment is in the air.' We should work together, so that out of the present chaos will come an industry that the public, as well as ourselves, will be pleased with."

In an official statement, the association declares that it believes in "open competition unrestricted by municipal or government regulations."

"Municipal, State or Government ownership, operation or control of steam railroads, other public utilities or business enterprise is socialistic, un-American and not in the public interest."

The convention will be addressed tomorrow morning by Walter Gordon Merritt, New York City attorney, who represented the anthracite operators before the United States coal commission.

BUILDING UP COAL SURPLUS.

Anthracite Producers Active, but No Strike Is Expected.

Anthracite producers are bending their energies to place above ground as large a surplus of coal as possible, according to figures of the Geological Survey which indicate that in the last two weeks there has been an increase of 22 per cent. over the same period last year.

There is no talk in the trade of a strike upon the expiration of the present agreement on Aug. 30. Indications at the present time appear to point to a renewal of the agreement without industrial conflict. The situation on Sept. 1 will be dictated by a series of events that will begin on June 29 at Scranton, Pa., where delegates of the three anthracite districts will meet to frame demands to be served on the Policy Committee of the Anthracite Operators.

A joint meeting of the officers of the union and the operators will be held in July, and upon the outcome of the negotiations will depend the question of whether 155,000 hard coal workers "down tools" on Sept. 1 or remain in the pits.

The apparent intention of the operators to mine as much coal as possible is taken to be a precautionary measure and is not held to indicate strike preparations.

NEW HAVEN WINS COAL SUIT.

Dealers Lose $300,000 Action Against Railroad for Delay.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 11.—The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad today won a suit involving $300,000 brought by the New York, Boston and New Haven firm of Frame, Friend, Stineman & Co., coal dealers. Judge Wolfe filed no memorandum with his finding in the Superior Court.

The plaintiffs charged that the railroad, after giving them permission to use the Belle Docks at New Haven for unloading coal in the Winter of 1922-1923, caused delay in the landing of barges and consequent failure of the coal company to fulfill contracts for delivery until after the price of coal had dropped.

The railroad contended that the congestion in the harbor was an abnormal condition resulting from the coal strike of the preceding Summer; that its natural unloading facilities were adequate for normal years; that it was under no obligation to make heavy investment for the enlargement of its facilities to meet such an unusual condition, and that preferential handling of its own coal ships was not only justified but necessary because of a grave shortage of its own coal supply with imminent danger of operation ceasing completely.

FOUR MORE MINES CLOSED.

Pittsburgh Coal Company Now Runs Only Two Union Mines.

PITTSBURGH, May 11.—Suspension of operations at four additional union mines was announced today by the Pittsburgh Coal Company. Eleven had previously been closed and the announcement said only two of the company's union mines are now in operation.

The mines were closed, the company statement said, "for the reason that coal cannot be produced at the present high union wages and sold in competition with Southern non-union coal, except at a heavy loss."

In a letter addressed to miners employed by the company, T. M. Dodson, Vice President in charge of operations, said, "the company was endeavoring to bring about a change in conditions that would make possible the continued working of the mines and that the company feels that the November, 1917, wage scale would go a long way toward giving the men steadier work and higher earnings."

It is charged that because of a grievance against Eugene Meyer, owner of a large farm, the youth set afire the woods on land adjoining the Meyer grounds.

Do you know why the Plain Dealer produces such results for Advertisers of Toilet Goods ?

IT'S not a difficult question to answer if you know the facts.

For years, the Plain Dealer has frankly moulded its editorial policy to appeal to women as well as men.

It has gone to great lengths to win the interest and confidence of women readers. As a result, the Plain Dealer's Daily Magazine Pages are as much of an institution among the women as the Sport or Financial Pages are among the men. And they are read just as religiously. For they're bright, newsy, downright interesting.

Over nine out of ten home delivered Plain Dealers remain in the home all day for the women to read. That's hard to realize in New York, with its tremendous suburban population—where the men leave for work with their morning papers under their arms. But Cleveland is not a commuting center.

And the Plain Dealer is the family newspaper—not only in the city itself, but throughout the prosperous 3,000,000 market of which Cleveland is the center.

As every advertiser knows—reading interest naturally begets advertising interest. The Plain Dealer holds this dual interest—alike for women and men. That is why you will find in it the bulk of advertising on toilet preparations and requisites that is published in Cleveland.

And it is why this great newspaper has produced the worthwhile results that have made this advertising so profitable.

AUSTRIA ANGERED AT LITTLE ENTENTE

Language Used at Bucharest Conference Is Resented as Uncalled-For Interference.

CLING TO TEUTON UNION

Hungarians Complain That Neighbors Are Invading the Province of the League.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, May 11.—A storm of indignation has followed in the wake of the official communiqué issued at Bucharest summarizing yesterday's resolutions of the Conference of the Little Entente, which is regarded as an ultimatum to the Austrian Government, first, to continue stringent economies; second, to clean up the Vienna centre of Bolshevist propaganda for the Balkans; third, to end all propaganda for union with Germany. The three warnings, but especially the last, are regarded as unheard-of interference with sovereign rights in domestic affairs. This is all the more resented as the Little Entente offers, if Austria behaves, nothing more than the prospect of some slender commercial concessions.

Although Foreign Minister Mataja has refused to commit himself in the absence of a direct official communication, Vice Chancellor Waber vented his indignation freely in a talk with THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent.

"In view of the mentality expressed in the resolutions as reported, all the world must see the mistake in expecting that Austria's salvation should come through an economic rapprochement with the Succession States," he said. "Austria must now realize the extension of economic area necessary, for Austria's rehabilitation is possible only in the direction of Germany. If M. Benes reproaches us on account of our economic situation he is aware this is largely due to State expenditures which ought to be borne by the Succession States.

"In Vienna there are many people born in Czechoslovakia who, according to the peace treaty, should be repatriated and whose pensions, &c., should be paid by the Czechoslovak State. If these people, representing the surplus population of Czechoslovakia, had been repatriated, Austria's principal difficulties of unemployment, housing shortage and demobilization of State employes would be solved. The strong language used in Bucharest is an expression of bad conscience and an endeavor to maintain these wrongs."

Greatest resentment was aroused by the attitude of the Little Entente in the Austrian Foreign Office. Indignation rose to such a pitch officials simply refused to believe the accuracy of the wording of the Bucharest resolutions as they were reported in Vienna. A high official of the Foreign Office, speaking to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, said the high language used by the Little Entente was due to overstrained nerves and the Little Entente was knocking at an open door in warning Austria against union with Germany.

"This question has no topical interest in our relations with the great powers, and will not be brought up until we are quite sure of their consent," he said. "This question is too important to trifle with."

The Little Entente's attitude is all the more astonishing, the official said, as according to Paragraph 88 of the peace treaty Austria is fully within her rights in appealing to the League of Nations for Austrian union with Germany. This has not been done yet and is not expected to come up at the next League meeting.

Officials also voiced resentment over the terms used in Bucharest regarding "pressure of blackmail" exercised by Austria. Remarks about a pauper State and Austria living on charity also were strongly resented, as Austria wishes to live by its own efforts, demanding only that rights vouched for in the peace treaty be respected.

"Austria is working hard to complete commercial treaties with the Succession States, but all efforts are paralyzed by the ever increasing tariff walls of those States," the Foreign Office spokesman said. "Our idea was not to make the League bring pressure, but to investigate intolerable conditions."

Unofficial steps will be taken by the Foreign Office to procure full recognition of the proceedings at Bucharest and the language quoted by the newspapers about the Little Entente "not tolerating" Austria's action concerning extension of economic area and instructing the Austrian Government to suppress propaganda for union with Germany. It is pointed out here that M. Benes's last moment refusal to come to Vienna appears now to be more serious in the face of events in Bucharest. The Czech Foreign Minister made a long detour to avoid Vienna.

Hungarian Reconstruction Criticized.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, May 11. — Strictures passed by the Little Entente on the manner in which Commissioner General Smith is carrying out the reconstruction of Hungary are noted here in the Bucharest Communiqué, which says neither the methods employed in financial reconstruction nor the manner of carrying out the disarmament clauses of the peace treaty are apt to arouse the confidence of Hungary's neighbors.

The Little Entente refers to speeches made recently in the Hungarian Parliament urging revision of frontiers either peacefully or otherwise. The Communiqué says the Little Entente will be forced to act in the face of such statements.

It is pointed out by the press that this resolution has a bearing on Commissioner Smith's activity in Hungary, thus encroaching on the province of the League.

TO BUILD WOMEN'S HOTEL.

Philadelphia's $800,000 Plan Includes Floors for Men.

PHILADELPHIA, May 11 (A. P.).—Final plans for a fourteen story women's hotel, to be constructed near the business centre here at an estimated cost of $800,000, were approved today by the Emergency Aid of Pennsylvania, an organization of women formed in the World War.

Low rentals, but "none of the boarding house paternalism," were said to have been the principal motives in promoting the project. The 240 rooms with private and semi-private baths connected, will rent at rates ranging between $10 and $20 a week. Although designed for women, the new hotel will not be exclusively for that sex. The first and second floors and the cafeteria will be available for men guests. The plans call for men clerks and doormen—"to give the callers courage."

The corporation, to be known as the Emergency Aid Realty Company, with a capitalization of $450,000 will be formed to finance the construction of the building. Preferred stock for this amount will be sold at $100 a share. The remainder of the cost will be covered by a mortgage. The Emergency Aid already has purchased $110,000 of the preferred stock.

The new building will house the executive offices of the Aid.

Plea for Mercy Wins in Rum Case.

The criminal calendar in the Federal Court in Brooklyn was cleared of twenty-six liquor cases yesterday by Judge Robert A. Inch, who imposed fines ranging from $20 to $200. Judge Inch remitted a jail sentence of thirty days imposed last Saturday on Frank Hanson of Bay Shore for a liquor vilolation. He reduced Hanson's fine from $200 to $25. Hanson appealed for mercy on the ground that he wished to visit his dying mother in Sweden.

Yanks Crushed by Browns—Lipton Plans to Challenge Again

5 HOME RUNS FAIL TO SAVE YANKEES

NINE PITCHERS ON PARADE

Six Are Hugmen Hurlers and They Yield 17 Hits—Williams Gets Four-Bagger for Victors.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 11.—In a horrible contest which was reminiscent of Custer's Massacre and the atrocities in Armenia, the Yankees had their winning streak discouraged today. In fact, the winning streak was not only discouraged but positively ruined, for the Browns won the last game of the series, 19 to 10.

Off hand, this sounds like the score of a Yale-Harvard football game, but such is not the case. It was a track meet and Marathon race. The Browns ran around the bases so many times that they raised a profuse perspiration. In the end nature exacted its toll and the Browns couldn't move another foot, so the game finally came to an end.

The procession of pitchers included six from the New York delegation and three representing St. Louis. It took the parade seven minutes to pass a given point. Counting the five yesterday, local fans have gazed on fourteen twirlers in two games. This is believed to set a record, but no check-up had been completed late tonight.

There were other intriguing features to the contest. The Browns made seventeen hits and the Yanks twelve. New York's galaxy of twirlers issued fourteen bases on balls, which is also close to the record. The Yanks made five homers, of which Bob Meusel accounted for two, but the Yanks lost just the same.

Game Lasts 2½ Hours.

The game lasted two hours and a half, thirty minutes of which was spent in changing pitchers. Wild pitches, balks, passed balls, hits, stolen bases and everything else imaginable were mixed together to make a box score.

The pitchers began charging in from the bull pen in the early innings, and they were still hurrying in as the sunset hour approached. All sorts of pitchers were unveiled—tall pitchers and short pitchers, fat ones and thin ones, southpaws and northpaws. One St. Louis twirler who had been overlooked in this series burst right out into tears and went to the clubhouse for a good cry.

Alex Ferguson, the right-hander who recently came to the Yanks from Boston in a trade, led the parade for Miller Huggins. He pitched the first inning and was seen no more, the Browns having scored four runs. Sam Jones followed him and was handled so savagely in the third that a pinch hitter was sent in for him and Bob Shawkey came to the mound. Shawkey being no improvement, a pinch-hitter appeared for him in the sixth and young Henry Johnson of Bradentown, Fla., took up the burden in the same round.

Plate Is Hard to Find.

Henry's only weakness was an inability to locate the plate. He gave four walks in a row, forcing in a run, and Gerber, the next batter, doubled to right. An out followed and Tobin doubled and Robertson walked.

Walter Beall was rushed to the rescue at this juncture. Walter unleashed a wild pitch and a balk so Manager Huggins finally had to warm up Waite Hoyt and let him finish the game. This action was compulsory, for the Yanks had to catch a 9:45 train for Chicago.

The Browns got along with the services of only Washing, Dave Danforth, Joe Giard and Joe Bush. Bush toiled five innings and checked the early rush of the Hugmen.

Meusel hit his first homer in the first inning driving Combs in ahead of him. Pipp came along immediately with another four-base smash into the right field bleachers. Meusel crowned one out of the left field lot in the fifth. Paschal chipped in with a homer in the fourth and Schang did the same in the seventh. For the Browns Ken Williams smote one for the circuit in the fourth, his range being the short right field stand.

BARROW TO JOIN YANKS.

Departure for Chicago Revives Talk of Trade With White Sox.

Edward G. Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, left here yesterday to join the New York club in Chicago, where Huggins and his men open a series against the White Sox this afternoon. Barrow's departure occasioned the revival of trade talk involving the Yanks and the Chicago American League club. Manager Huggins is known to be looking for additional strength for his infield, which now has practically lost Everett Scott. Paul Wanninger, who has taken Scott's place, is regarded as a fine player, but so lacking in experience that he might not be able to stand up under a hard pennant campaign in his first year in the big leagues.

What trade could be effected with Chicago is not clear, since the White Sox have not much spare infield material. A trade involving a pitcher, which the Yankees apparently are in need of, might be the chief reason for calling Barrow to join the Yankees. With Scott and Ruth, two of the important cogs in the Yankee machine unavailable, Huggins has for some time been contemplating a trade and he may now be in a position to swing one while the Yankees are on their present Western tour, baseball men believe.

ATHLETICS' RALLY BEATS INDIANS, 2-1

Winners Come From Behind in 8th and Take Third Straight From Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, May 11.—Bryan Harris not only won a fine pitching duel from Joe Shaute here today which gave the Athletics their third straight victory over the Indians, 2 to 1, but he started the rally in the eighth which brought victory.

With two men out, Harris lined a double to centre and scored on Bishop's single. Bishop went to second on a throw to the plate and scored the winning run when Dykes singled to left. The score:

RUTH AND GIANTS SPEND QUIET DAY

Yank Slugger Continues to Gain—McGraw's Men Close Series With Cardinals Today.

Babe Ruth and the Giants were both idle yesterday. The Yankee slugger, recovering from a number of ailments, spent a peaceful day at St. Vincent's Hospital listening to the rain patter on the tenements. The Giants just weren't scheduled to play.

Ruth is gaining strength daily, it was said at the hospital yesterday, and if his general condition continues to improve as it has for the past week he soon will be able to leave the building in which he has spent the last month and more. All ill effects of influenza and indigestion have disappeared, but the wound of an operation for an abscess keeps the Babe on the inactive list for the present.

It was just as well that yesterday was an open date on the Giants' schedule, as any game that might have been attempted probably would have been rained by the rain. The league leaders will conclude their series with the St. Louis Cardinals at the Polo Grounds this afternoon, and with two out of three games already won the worst that the local club can do is break even with its first Western rival.

ST. LAWRENCE NINE WINS.

Beats Hamilton, 12-2, in Game Marred by Errors.

CLINTON, N. Y., May 11.—The St. Lawrence nine beat Hamilton today by a score of 12 to 2. Ineffective pitching and numerous errors in the first three innings cost Hamilton the game.

Jersey City Bout Postponed.

The scheduled twelve-round bout between Billy Conley, Coast middleweight, and Ray Neuman of Jersey City, which was to have been held last night at the Oakland A. A., Jersey City, was postponed because of the rain. The bout has been scheduled for tomorrow night.

JOHNSON SHUTS OUT WHITE SOX, 9 TO 0

HOLDS CHICAGO TO 5 HITS

Allows Only Two Men to Reach Second—Fans Four and Brings Strike-Out Total to 3,232.

CHICAGO, May 11.—The veteran Walter Johnson held Chicago to five hits today, while the Washington Senators bunched their hits and shut out the White Sox, 9 to 0. It was Johnson's 108th shut-out of his major league career of eighteen years. By fanning four men he ran his strike-out record for his term in the major leagues to 3,232.

Johnson pitched a great game, only two Chicagoans getting as far as second base and none beyond that station. The score:

SCHALK CATCHES BALL THAT DROPS 460 FEET

White Sox Player Stops Sphere in Its Downward Flight of Two Miles a Minute.

CHICAGO, May 11.—Ray Schalk, veteran catcher of the Chicago White Sox, today caught a ball thrown from the tower of the Chicago Tribune Building before thousands of spectators.

Three balls were thrown from the tower. The first was wide, the second was fumbled as it struck Schalk's mitt, but he managed to hold the third one. The ball traveled a distance of 460 feet and its speed was estimated at approximately two miles a minute.

Three players, William Schriner, Chicago Cubs; Gabby Street, Senators, and Billy Sullivan, Boston Braves, have caught baseballs thrown or dropped from the Washington monument in the national capital.

RED SOX DEFEAT TIGERS.

Get Four Runs in First After Error by Rigney, and Win, 7-4.

DETROIT, May 11.—Boston beat Detroit 7 to 4 today. Rigney's error on an easy grounder by Vache in the first inning with a double play in view paved the way to the Red Sox's four runs and resulted in Cole being relieved by Holloway. The score:

M'GINNITY STILL A WINNER.

"Iron Man" at 54 Outpitches 18-Year-Old Rival in Minor League.

OTTUMWA, Iowa, May 11.—Age triumphed over youth on the hill in a baseball game in the Mississippi Valley League today. Joe McGinnity, veteran "Iron Man" of the New York Giants, despite his 54 years, defeated John Welch of Ottumwa, 18-year-old twirler, and the youngest man in the league.

McGinnity pitched a heady game and kept thirteen hits well scattered while going the entire route, only three runs resulting. Dubuque, piloted by McGinnity, defeated Ottumwa, 7 to 3, largely because of the loose playing behind Welch, who was touched for ten hits. It was the first game of the season in which McGinnity started and finished, he having previously worked for only four innings.

Fines Pitcher Luque $50.

Pickups and Putouts

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 11.—Gerber's grounder hit Umpire Connolly on the first bounce in the fifth in the Yankee game today and was recorded as a single for Gerber and an assist for Connolly. Tommy clubbed his heart and turned pale, but was able to walk to his corner. The joy of the fans over this episode may well be imagined.

Sisler didn't waste any time getting his daily hit. He singled his first time at bat, running his consecutive games streak up to twenty-six, with the end not in sight.

Any pitcher who did not get into this series had a right to feel slighted. Not all of them seemed to be pitchers, but that was what they were called technically.

The Yankees' next stopping place is Chicago, where they will open a four-game set with the White Sox tomorrow. Comiskey Park is likely to be the scene of some merry bloodshed.

Tomorrow's game, however, may have to be postponed because of the Yanks having no pitcher available.

Joe Dugan says Paschal is the fastest right-handed batting athlete in the league. And also the best slider since Ty Cobb broke in, although Dugan didn't mention that.

The only thing the box score almost lacked was a balk, and Beall supplied that in the horrible seventh. He feinted a throw to first which is considered de rigueur in the best twirling circles.

Five Americans and First German Since War Among 151 to Play for British Golf Title

LONDON, May 11 (A. P.).—Five Americans are among the 151 golfers entered for the British amateur championship to be played at Westward Ho during the week beginning May 25. Largely because of the inaccessibility of the course, the number of participants will be the smallest since the event was last decided on this North Devonshire course in 1912, but it will be a very cosmopolitan crowd of competitors, with the first German contestant entered in a British golf championship since before the war. There are other entries from France, Argentina and such far-away British colonies as Malay, Ceylon and New Zealand, the draw, made today, shows.

Two Americans, J. F. Bailey of the Oak Hill Country Club of Rochester, N. Y., and L. O. Cochrane of the Onwentsia Club of Chicago, are in the upper half of the draw. The other three, R. A. Stranahan of the Inverness Club of Toledo, J. F. Bourne of the Garden City Club of New York and Douglas Grant, an American resident of England, who reached the semi-final round of the British amateur championship in 1922, are in the lower half.

Most of the best golfers of England are entered for the amateur championship this year, but some of the usual Scottish contingent will be absent because of the long distance that must be traveled to reach Westward Ho. Cyril Tolley and Sir Ernest Holderness, the latter the holder of the title, are both in the top-heavy first quarter of the draw where there are no American names, while Roger Wethered is in the third quarter along with Douglas Grant, Lord Charles Hope, the veteran Harold H. Hilton and the Toledo entry.

The Oak Hill Club entry, Bailey, has drawn a bye into the second round, where he will meet C. Ladden Osborne of the Temple Club in Buckinghamshire. If the American comes through his initial encounter he is likely to have Michael Scott as his next opponent and W. A. Murray, an amateur-semi-finalist in 1924, as his third obstacle, not an easy prospect.

The Chicago player, Cochrane, will play A. D. Matheson of Edinburgh in the first round. If Douglas Grant gets through his first round against G. C. Whigham of Addington, he must face either Roger Wethered or Cheryl Scott in the second round. Stranahan and Bourne have byes into the second round, in which the former meets J. B. Pease and later plays V. C. Longstaffe. On paper these two Americans do not seem to have such a hard row to hoe as do their compatriots further up in the draw.

Cyril Tolley's first opponent is Hans Samek of Hamburg, the pioneer of Germany's re-entrance into British golf. J. I. Cruickshanks, from the San Andres Club in Buenos Aires, has drawn a bye in the first round, but will have to meet the champion, Holderness, in the second.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 11.—Buffalo won today from Reading, 10 to 7, but if the Keystones had produced good pitching to start with the story might have been different, for they hit fully as well as the Bisons, coming strong in their last innings.

Billy Kelly knocked a homer in the second inning. Silva also hit a four-bagger in the ninth with two on bases.

Hartz Finishes Second and Milton Third in Auto Classic on Charlotte Speedway.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 11 (A. P.).—A veteran of the board tracks, Earl Cooper, today shook his jinx and won the annual Confederate Memorial Day 250-mile race here before 40,000 spectators.

Coming from behind, after being led by Tommy Milton, winner of the event last year, Cooper during the last 50 miles ran away from the field and crossed the final mark with a lap margin. His time was 2 hours 2 minutes and 55 seconds, or an average speed of 121.6 miles an hour. Harry Hartz, who drove steadily all the way, finished second, and then came Milton.

Cooper received $10,000 of the $25,000 purse. Hartz got $5,000, while Milton's share was $2,750. Others finishing in the money were Fred Comer, fourth, for a $2,000 prize; De Paolo, fifth, $1,500; McDonogh, sixth,

ROSENBERG HORSES SCORE

Suncar and Polly McWiggles Win in Rain—Blissful, 100 to 1 Shot, Second in Last Race.

James Butler won his second stake in as many racing days at Jamaica yesterday when Pique splashed his way to victory in the Rainbow Handicap. The rainbow was purely figurative, as it rained steadily throughout the afternoon, making the going about as soft as it ever gets.

There was some question about Pique's being capable of successfully negotiating such footing, but the chestnut son of Spur convinced the skeptics by taking the lead at the fall of the flag and maintaining it to the finish. Laverne Fator had to ride him out, however, to withstand the belated rush of the Greentree Stable's Wild Aster and get him home the winner by a neck. If Wild Aster had not been outpaced in the early running, there would have been a different story to tell.

In spite of the fact that he is not bred for the mud, Pique was the second choice in the betting, opening at 3 to 1 and closing at 13 to 5. Pique is by Spur—Miss Puzzle, she by Disguise, and the sons and daughters of Disguise do not as a rule favor mud, but Pique apparently is the exception which proves the rule. Fator, who also won the Parkway with the hot favorite Royalite, rated the Butler colt away from the barrier on his toes and before the turn out of the backstretch was reached the cherry silks were showing in front. Wild Aster appeared to be completely out of it at this stage of the race and was last as the field swung for home. Here little Ellis sent dim along through the better footing and one by one he wore the leaders down. At the finish it was shortening Pique's advantage with every stride, but was up just too late.

The Everglade Stable's Worthmore ran a creditable race under his 128-pound impost to be third, while Henry Waxson's Brainstorm, the favorite, finished a dismal last among six. The race was worth $3,175 to Mr. Butler and his horse ran the six furlongs in 1:13.

Fator was not the only one to have a double for a rainy afternoon's work. J. F. Neumeyer saddled two winners for Lee Rosenberg, Suncar in the first and Polly McWiggles in the closing number. Polly showed her heels to Bud Fisher's Nellie Morse, winner of last year's Preakness. The track was similar to that over which the Luke McLuke mare won the big stake at Pimlico, but she ran a dull race yesterday to the keen disappointment of the talent, which installed her a 3-to-5 favorite. There were only four starters in this race, but Blissful, which finished second, was a 100-to-1 shot.

WISE COUNSELLOR WINS AT PIMLICO

Special to The New York Times.

PIMLICO, Md., May 11.—Wise Counsellor, conqueror of Epinard in the first of last Summer's three international specials, won his first start of the season here today in handy fashion. The Burton colt had to take up 124 pounds in the $6,000 Jennings Handicap, conceding all the way from eight to thirty-four pounds to the other starters, but he proved more than equal to it.

With the veteran Albert Johnson in the saddle, Wise Counsellor forced a fast pace from the break and, racing Shuffle Along and Candy Kid into submission in the first half mile, won galloping. At the end of the six-furlong trip he was three and a half lengths before Shuffle Along, which, in turn, beat Scorcher a head for the place. The time was 1:12 4-5, and the winner was the favorite, paying $5.90 for a $2 mutuel ticket.

DERBY CANDIDATES IN SHORT WORKOUTS

SWOPE IS NEW ARRIVAL

Fisher Colt Limbers Up Over Muddy, Holding Track—McClelland Breezes Simms Hopefuls.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 11.—Derby week opened auspiciously here, with clear skies and warm breezes welcome after the chill winds and heavy rains of recent days. At Churchill Downs the track was heavy and holding at the best and muddy in spots, the conditions being such that the chief feature of the afternoon was called off and a race for platers substituted.

This being the case, trainers of Derby eligibles did not contemplate serious work during training hours of the early morning. Then, too, many have been racing, while others have just got off the cars from the East and will not be put through serious trials until the middle of the week. Such of the well-known candidates as were sent out at all were given only short workouts.

J. J. Troxler's King Nadi did the sharpest bit of work of the morning. The colt was asked to go five furlongs, which he stepped in 1:02 4-5. He appeared to be at home in the mud of the early morning and went to the quarter in 0:24 2-5, the half in 0:49 2-5, and he was only breezing at the end.

A. A. Kaiser's Captain Hal, one of the few that came out of the Clark Handicap on Saturday in good shape, was given a half-mile limbering-up jaunt by Trainer Walter Hopkins. His connections were well pleased with his race to finish fourth in the Clark.

H. C. Fisher's Swope arrived from Maryland and was given a long, slow gallop. Trainer Alex Gordon will arrive tomorrow. Swope looks better than he did when he left here several weeks ago.

James W. McClelland, manager of the Xalapa Stable of Edward F. Simms, lost no time in getting his charges out. Prince of Bourbon and Sweeping Away arrived yesterday, and this morning were out together for a five-furlong breeze in 1:04 3-5. Jockey Cliff Robinson will come to ride Sweeping Away, while Andy Schuttinger will have the leg up on Prince of Bourbon.

Trainer Harry Ritea says that J. E. Griffith's Single Foot has had more than his share of bad racing luck this season. Single Foot is not much of a muddler and was given only light exercise this morning.

The Idle Hour Farm Stable's Bill Strap was breezed three-eighths in 0:38. It is possible that Colonel Bradley will send three of his five nominations to the post on Saturday afternoon. Menifee went three-eighths in 0:37.

Hal Prince Headley's Old Slip was sent four furlongs in 0:55 2-5, but not expected that he will face the barrier in the Derby, leaving Alamadel, third in the Preakness, to carry the stable's hopes.

It appears tonight that a field of at least twenty-five may go to the post in the Derby. Since the running of the Preakness many trainers figure that anything may happen in this week's race and that a comparative outsider has a chance to win.

PICAROON IS SCRATCHED.

Will Not Start in English Derby Owing to Leg Trouble.

LONDON, May 11.—Picaroon, A. R. Cox's 3-year-old, was scratched from the Derby today. Picaroon, by Beppo—Ciconeretta, was the champion 2-year-old and throughout the Winter was favorite for the Derby and for the 2,000 Guineas. He won the Craven Stakes three weeks ago at Newmarket. Since then he has had to stop training on account of leg trouble. The Derby will be run at Epsom Downs on June 3.

PIONEER REOPENS TONIGHT.

Rood and Bob Fitzsimmons to Meet in Feature Bout.

The Pioneer A. C. will reopen as a boxing club tonight after several weeks of inactivity, Manager Frank Bartley has arranged a twelve-round bout between Al Rood, Long Island City heavyweight and Young Bob Fitzsimmons as his star attraction. Jean Borde, champion of the junior lightweight championship of France, and Harry Felix, east side boxer, who is a stablemate of Sid Terris's, will clash in a ten-round semi-final. Kid Greenspan and Jackie Mallon and Harry Goldberg and Barney Keeley are scheduled to clash in two six-round bouts. Benny Hall and Tommy Manning have been matched for the opening preliminary of four rounds.

Gats Gargano and Bernie Hufnagle, rival welterweights, will exchange blows tonight in the main bout of eight rounds at the Twenty-seventh Division Train Armory, Brooklyn. In two other eight-round matches the principals will be Jack Darcy vs. Artie O'Leary and Willie Walker vs. Henry Shaw.

Post and Paddock

H. P. Whitney's Maud Muller had some support in the Rainbow, but she was apparently waiting for a sunny Summer's day.

How is it that the tip sheets handed out to the home-going crowd always have the winner of the first race, but seldom the winner of the last?

The Sanford Stud Farms' Ipswich ran greenly but impressively after being left at the post. This son of Gainsborough is big and rangy and loks as if he might develop into a first-rate three-year-old.

There is, at least, one essential difference between a racing and a baseball crowd. Racing fans rarely laugh.

A. A. Busch's Chief Uncas and Gifford Cochran's Flying Ebony were shipped yesterday to Churchill Downs to start in the Derby. Flying Ebony will be watched with interest in the Kentucky classic. When William Duke came back to this country to train for Mr. Cochran he found among his charges two coal-black colts. The first of these, Coventry, has already won the Preakness. The other was Flying Ebony, which is now accorded a chance in the Derby. If Flying Ebony should win Mr. Cochran would be the first owner ever to win these two great classics in the same year with different colts. Commander Ross won them both with Sir Barton, and is the only owner who ever won them both the same season.

GIBBONS ARRIVES HERE FOR BATTLE

St. Paul Boxer, Accompanied by Mandell, Ready to Enter Final Training for Tunney.

Tom Gibbons, veteran St. Paul heavyweight, arrived here yesterday on his way to his training camp at Atlantic City to prepare for his fifteen-round bout against Gene Tunney, Greenwich Village idol, to be held at the Polo Grounds on June 5. Accompanying Gibbons when he arrived were Sammy Mandell, Rockford (Ill.) lightweight, who is here to finish training for the State Athletic Commission's lightweight championship elimination tournament semi-finals to be held in the Queensboro Stadium on May 15; Earl Blue, St. Paul middleweight, who will act as one of Gibbons's sparring partners, and Teddy Bodkin, Gibbons's private chef. Gibbons plans to leave for the Atlantic City training camp this morning.

Arrangements are being made to have Yale Okun, east side heavyweight, and Eddie Garvey, former Notre Dame football player, join the camp staff within a few days. Jimmy Delaney, St. Paul heavyweight, who helped prepare Gibbons for the memorable battle with Jack Dempsey at Shelby, is to come East within a week to join Gibbons's sparring staff.

Gibbons went immediately to the Alamac Hotel with his manager, Eddie Kane, and conferred for a short time with Matchmaker Jimmy DeForest of the Polo Grounds A. C. At the hotel Gibbons was greeted by Rogers Hornsby, St. Louis Cardinals infielder, who posed with the boxer for a picture. Gibbons visited the new quarters of Madison Square Garden in the afternoon, and with a group of newspaper men journeyed to Stillman's gymnasium to see Mandell engage in his initial workout.

The ex-Pal veteran appeared in splendid physical condition, and said he felt as good as ever. A fortnight of intensive training would prepare him for the Tunney fight, Gibbons said, adding that he does not intend immediately to enter upon a vigorous training campaign.

Golf and light exercise will occupy the attention of Gibbons until he gets accustomed to his training camp surroundings. Gibbons has selected the site of the dog track on the outskirts of Atlantic City, where Luis Firpo trained for his battle with Jack Dempsey, as the scene for his preparatory work in advance of the Tunney go.

BADEN-BADEN, Germany, May 11.—By drawing his game with Rubinstein of Poland in the nineteenth round, Alexander Alekhine of Russia today made sure of at least a tie for first prize in the International Chess Masters' Tournament at the Kurhaus. He still maintains his clear lead of two points over Rubinstein so that another half point in the remaining two rounds will clinch first place for him. That means a draw either with Tartakower in the twentieth round or Gruenfeld in the last. Today Alekhine had the white pieces in a Queen's Gambit declined, play lasting thirty moves.

Saemisch of Germany came up closer to Rubinstein by winning his game from Mieses of Germany in the shortest game of the round, lasting seventeen moves.

Marshall, the United States champion, was defeated for the second time in the tournament by Reti of Czechoslovakia. Although the American remained in fourth place, he was tied by Bogoljubow of Russia and Dr. Tartakower of Austria, both of whom won their games. Reti selected the Ilanchetto development and gained the upper hand in the middle game. Marshall lost a piece and resigned after fifty-six moves.

An oversight on the part of Kolste of Holland, who played the Ruy Lopez, enabled Bogoljubow to win in twenty moves.

A hard-fought game, opened by Niemzowitsch of Denmark with the Zukertort debut, was won by Dr. Tartakower in forty-one moves. The latter captured a pawn in the mid-game complications and this decided the issue in his favor.

Another drawn game was scored by Torre of New York, who played the Dutch defense against Tarrasch of Germany. The play was uneventful and lasted thirty-one moves.

Fates of England disappointed the aspirations of Gruenfeld of Austria, who had an opportunity to advance into fourth place, but lost to the former British champion in thirty-one moves.

Sir George Thomas of England suffered defeat at the hands of Caris of Germany, who played the Caro-Kann defense and scored after thirty-five moves. The winning of a pawn gave Caris the upper hand.

An evenly contested drawn game resulted between Treybal of Czechoslovakia and Rosselli of Italy. Treybal adopted the Ruy Lopez and agreed to divide the honors after thirty-four moves.

The game between Spielmann of Austria and Rabinowitsch of Russia, a Ruy Lopez played by the former, was adjourned after fifty-three moves, at which time the position was favorable to Rabinowitsch.

Another selection of games from the earlier rounds of the tournament were received here yesterday. The scores follow:

To Hold Night Track Meets—Nurmi Is Victor

2 OUTDOOR MEETS AT NIGHT PLANNED

K. of C. and Finnish Club Preparing Programs for Yankee Stadium in June and July.

NURMI EXPECTED TO RACE

Stenroos Also Likely to Compete—Games Would Be First of Their Kind Ever Held Here.

New York is to have its first outdoor track meet at night this season, according to plans revealed yesterday at local Amateur Athletic Union headquarters. Not one but two meets will be held here this Summer under the illumination of powerful arc lights, if present plans materialize.

The Finnish-American A. C. plans to hold the first meet and the New York Chapter, Knights of Columbus, whose indoor games in Madison Square Garden last season were such a smashing success, has decided to hold the other meet, carrying on negotiations for the importation of several European athletic stars. The meets are planned for the Yankee Stadium in June and July.

Confirmation of the plans was obtained yesterday from Promoter Tex Rickard, who, under the terms of his contract as director of sports at the huge ball yard, has an agreement with Colonel Jacob Ruppert, President of the American League Baseball Club, giving him jurisdiction over every sport enterprise conducted in the Stadium, exclusive of baseball.

The two meets will witness another progressive chapter in local athletic history, as far as the records at A. A. U. headquarters revealed yesterday, no outdoor athletic meet ever has been held in New York at night. The custom is popular in Europe, where meets are held, particularly in England and Sweden, between the hours of 6:30 and 9:30 or 10 P. M. It also was tried out recently on the Coast. In the discussion of plans for the contemplated night-time outdoor meets here, the Finnish-American A. C. and the Knights of Columbus have specified the hours between 7:30 and 10 or 10:30 as the time for holding their meets.

Stadium Well Equipped.

The Yankee Stadium equipment includes permanent electrical fixtures in the stands and apparatus which makes it comparatively easy to install huge arc lights on the stand roof if occasion demands. The necessary illumination for the occupants of the stands, therefore, is provided for in the permanent structure, as it is provided also for boxing bouts which are held at night in the ball parks here.

The arc lights would illuminate the field so that activities would be as distinguishable as they are in broad daylight. This was satisfactorily demonstrated at the rodeo held in the Yankee Stadium two years ago, when Tex Austin sent his cowboys through their paces in afternoon and night sessions. It also would be possible to play strong spotlights upon competitors in track races.

Aside from their novelty, the games also promise athletic history of considerable importance. To begin with, each meet will be international in calibre, for the plans of the promoters provide for special races among the best runners of America and Europe. The dates remain, however, to be determined. Hugo Quist, representing the Finnish-American A. C., was in conference yesterday with Promoter Rickard on the prospect of obtaining permission for the use of the Yankee Stadium on June 9. No definite agreement was reached. Another conference is scheduled for this afternoon, when it is expected the promoter and Quist will come to terms.

The Knights of Columbus games, according to Frank Brennan, who was manager of the organization's indoor meet, are contemplated for the middle of June or July. No particular date has as yet been selected, it was announced.

Nurmi May Change Plans.

Paavo Nurmi will be the featured attraction at the Finnish games, according to present plans. The selection of June 9 as the date for this meet would, incidentally, necessitate a change in Nurmi's announced plan of returning to his native Finland on a ship leaving this country on May 30. A mile race in which Nurmi will strive to better his 4:10 record, with Joie Ray and Lloyd Hahn as his rivals, for a distance race among Nurmi, Albin Stenroos, Finnish Marathon star, and Willie Ritola, another native of Finland, is being considered as the outstanding event on the card. It is possible also that the games officials may decide to arrange a race between Nurmi and Stenroos and place the rest of the star runners in several special events.

One of the features for the proposed Knights of Columbus meet will be a Marathon race, which will start and finish in the Stadium, according to Brennan, and will have among its participants Stenroos, Clarence De Mar, American champion, and C. L. (Chick) Meller, Chicagoan. Frank Zuna, Newark star, who is to run in the Polytechnic Marathon in London on May 30, is expected to return to this country in time for this contemplated race. Negotiations are under way for the importation of several other European stars for a series of international races which are planned by Brennan. Hubert Houben, German sprint star, who conquered the great Charlie Paddock and Loren Murchison in a 100-meter race in Berlin last year, is expected to be here for the meet, and it is planned to invite G. M. L. Lowe, English middle-distance star, and Elvin Wide, Swedish runner, who outstretched Nurmi in his 4:10 mile, to compete in the meet.

At Berlin, Aug. 6, 1924, Houben defeated Paddock and Murchison in a 100-meter race and made a time of 10 4-5 seconds. However, the world's record, 10 4-10 seconds, made in April, 1921, is held by Paddock.

LONG ISLAND BODY LISTS GOLF EVENTS

Schedules Five Major and Six One-Day Handicap Tourneys for the Season.

The Long Island Golf Association, baby member of the metropolitan district group and the tardy one in regard to fixing its dates for the year's fixtures, has finally come to bat with a program of events that more than atones for the suspense. Five major events have been scheduled for the year, as well as six one-day handicap tournaments.

The chief tournaments are the amateur and open championships, the father and son championship, and the junior and caddie titular events. The amateur championship, as previously announced, will be staged over the Garden City Golf Club course, which is not only one of the finest tests in the land, but also the scene of many major events which are now part and parcel of the archives of the ancient and royal game. The dates are June 11, 12 and 13, conflicting, unfortunately, with the Women's Eastern Association championship.

Harry Payne Bingham of Piping Rock will be on hand to defend the title which he won last year at the Pomonok Club, and further interest will be added by the fact that in the field will probably be three players who have won titles beyond American shores during the last Winter—W. F. Ladd of the Rockaway Hunting Club, the Bahamas champion; A. W. Bissett, Bermuda titleholder, and C. E. Van Vleck, winner of the Cuban title. The situation so far as Bingham is concerned will be further complicated by the fact that in the field also will be Gardiner White, former metropolitan champion; Eddie Driggs, ex-New York State champion and runner-up for the metropolitan title last year; Grant A. Peacock, Howard Maxwell, Neal Fulkerson and quite a few other gentlemen of match play propensities.

Dates for Open Listed.

The Long Island open has been scheduled for Aug. 24, 25 and 26 at the Salisbury Golf Club, Garden City, which also will be the scene of the national public links championship this year. Of the three open events held thus far since the birth of the Long Island association, two have been won by William Kline of the Garden City Country Club and one, the 1924, by the veteran, Jimmy Maiden of Nassau. This year, however, the field will present much greater strength than ever before, due to the presence of three new luminaries in the province—Macdonald Smith of Lakeville, Leo Diegel of Glen Oak and Gene Sarazen of Fresh Meadow.

The father and son event will be decided over the links of the Rockaway Hunting Club, Jimmy West's berth, as will the junior event, while the caddies will have their day of days at the Garden City Country Club on Aug. 14. The father and son and the junior championships will be held during the same week, the father and son being scheduled for July 8 and the Juniors' event on the following two days.

One-day tournaments will be held as follows: May 26, Wheatley Hills Golf Club; June 23, Inwood Country Club; July 21, Oakland Golf Club; Aug. 18, Cherry Valley Club; Sept. 22, Southward Ho Country Club, Bay Shore; Oct. 20, St. Albans Golf Club. All members of Long Island clubs are invited to compete in these one-day tourneys, where the competition will be eighteen holes of medal play, either morning or afternoon. Prizes will be awarded to the players with the best gross and best two net scores. Club handicaps will apply. Fred W. Kiendl of St. Albans is Chairman of the Tournament Committee.

State Body Sets Dates.

The New York State Golf Association, which is a comparatively recent addition to the list of organizations sponsoring golf and which has staged two amateur championships since its birth, has added another event to its program. This will be a seniors' championship which is scheduled to be held at the Salisbury Golf Club, Garden City, on June 17 and 18.

Don M. Parker, who is the life of the State association party, but who is ineligible to compete for any of the prizes in the seniors' tourney, states in his letter of notification: "We are planning to make this one of the finest and most enjoyable tournaments of the season, and naturally we are hoping that all the seniors belonging to clubs that are members of the New York State Association will file their entries with me at 95 Madison Avenue, New York City, as soon as possible."

KAPLAN POSTS FORFEIT.

Chapman Also Puts Up $2,500 Guarantee for Title Bout.

Forfeits of $2,500 each, guaranteeing weight and appearance, were posted yesterday by Louis (Kid) Kaplan, Meriden, Conn., featherweight, who is recognized as the world's champion, and Red Chapman, Boston lad who recently conquered Johnny Dundee for their fifteen-round bout, to be held in the Queensboro Stadium, Long Island City, June 8, for the benefit of the Queensboro Elks' Orphan Fund.

The forfeits were contained in certified checks posted with the club officials, and bind Kaplan and Chapman to make the featherweight class weight limit of 126 pounds at 2 o'clock on the day of their contest. The net proceeds from the show will go to the Orphan Fund.

BRITISH BOXER IN DRAW.

Humphreys Engages in Ten-Round Bout With Johnston in Toronto.

TORONTO, Ontario, May 11.—"Pop" Humphreys, 124 pounds, of England, fighting his first fight since arriving here two weeks ago, left-jabbed his way into a draw with Jackie Johnston, 121½ pounds, of Toronto, in the main bout of ten rounds tonight.

Dan Bright of England, 122¾ pounds, was saved from a knockout in the fifth round of his scheduled ten-round bout with Bud Gorman, 197½ pounds, of Kenosha, Wis., by the bell, and after being knocked down again in the first minute of the sixth round the referee gave the fight to Gorman.

ROSENBERG BEATS GORDON.

COVINGTON, Ky., May 11.—Charles (Phil) Rosenberg of New York, world's bantamweight champion, outboxed Harry Gordon of Philadelphia in a ten-round bout here tonight, in the opinion of newspaper men. They weighed 120 pounds. Rosenberg took the lead at the start and never was in danger, while Gordon was punished severely.

P. NURMI WILL RUN ON HARVARD TRACK

ONLY 500 AT WORCESTER

Crowd to See Finn Run Kept Down by Weather—Cleared by Middle Atlantic A. A. U.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 11.—Paavo Nurmi, Finnish distance runner, will run at the Harvard Stadium and make an effort to break the American mile record of 4:12 3-5 set by Norman Taber, if, after a week's rest and training he feels in condition to make the attempt. Nurmi said so tonight through an interpreter. He added that he would like to show his appreciation of the treatment accorded him in the United States by making the effort to lower the record, but would set no definite date at present for his appearance at Cambridge.

Nurmi defeated two Holy Cross College runners in a one-and-one-half-mile exhibition run at the Fair Grounds tonight. The track was heavy and although the run was made during a letup in the rain, the threatening weather kept the attendance to not more than 500. Leo Hand and F. Donaghy were the Holy Cross runners who competed against the "Flying Finn." Hand had a handicap of eighty yards, while Donaghy had sixty yards.

Nurmi caught his two opponents about half the distance and after that did not appear to exert himself. He came over the line thirty yards ahead of his competitors. The distance was 7 minutes and 22 seconds. The meet was conducted under the auspices of the Finnish Athletic Club.

Nurmi and Ritola Reinstated.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 11.—At a meeting of the Middle Atlantic A. A. U. officials tonight Paavo Nurmi, Willie Ritola, his fellow countryman, and three members of the Finnish-American A. C. of New York—Ilmar Prim, Gus Fager and Gunnae Nilson—were reinstated.

All five Finnish athletes were suspended from the Middle Atlantic District by the Registration Committee last week on the charge of having accepted excessive expense money to take part in the College of Osteopathy meet here Feb. 16.

Wilson Makes Statement.

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 10 (A. P.).—Kenneth L. Wilson, athletic director at Drake University, in a statement tonight declared he was not surprised that the A. A. U. whitewashed Nurmi, Ritola and Quist from all charges of asking exorbitant expense accounts.

Wilson said that F. W. Rubien, national secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union, had "assumed the role of defender rather than investigator" in considering charges that Hugo Quist, manager of the track men, had asked an exorbitant expense account for the appearance of the Finnish runners at the Drake relay carnival here last month.

Following an investigation of Wilson's charge that Quist had demanded exorbitant expenses for both runners, a committee of the A. A. U. in New York exonerated the Finnish runners and their manager. Referring to the investigating committee's statement that "he should be censured for engaging a representative to obtain Nurmi's entry and for making an offer to Nurmi which was in violation of all amateur rules," Wilson said that at the time his offer was discussed Nurmi was scheduled to return to Finland immediately after he would have appeared at the Drake games. Under this plan it would have been within amateur rules for him to have received transportation to Finland.

FRANCE OFFERS AID TO DUTCH OFFICIALS

Willing to Help Stage Olympic Games, but Opposes Lottery for Raising Funds.

PARIS, May 11 (A. P.)—The Netherlands Olympic Committee, in its decision, announced yesterday, to hold the 1928 games at Amsterdam despite the refusal of the Dutch Parliament to appropriate funds for expenses, will be given the full support and advice of the French committees which staged the games in Paris last year.

Responding today to the manifesto issued yesterday by the Netherlands committee, in which the irrevocable decision to hold the game in Holland in 1928 was made, the French committee placed themselves at the entire disposition of the Dutch Olympic authorities, but added that a lottery, such as suggested for raising the necessary revenue for the games, would be objectionable to France.

The Dutch manifesto, which was received by French athletic circles today, declared that public subscriptions had been asked in Holland and that a sum already had been subscribed. A Dutch committee, the manifesto said, would study whether a national lottery would likely be successful as a scheme for raising the necessary expenses for the staging of the games. The manifesto also announced that the City of Amsterdam and the General Council of the Provinces of Northern Netherlands had assured the Olympic Committee of their support.

LATZO OUTPOINTS HARMON.

New York Boxer Decisively Beaten in Ten-Round Battle in Scranton.

SCRANTON, Pa., May 11.—Pete Latzo, Taylor, Pa., welterweight, decisively outpointed Willie Harmon, hard-hitting New Yorker, tonight in a ten-round battle. Latzo received the decision of both judges.

In the eighth round Latzo opened a cut under Harmon's left eye and from then on kept battering away at that spot. In the tenth Harmon's eye was practically closed.

MALONEY BEATS STOESSEL.

Easily Wins Decision in Ten-Round Bout in Boston.

BOSTON, May 11.—Jim Maloney of Boston easily won the decision over Joe Stoessel of New York in a ten-round bout here tonight. Although the New Yorker weighed 211½ to Maloney's 197 and outreached him, the latter sent right and left blows to the head at will and was never in danger.

Athletes of Seven Metropolitan Institutions to Compete at South Field.

A list of the leading entries in the fourteen events of the metropolitan college track meet which will be held tomorrow afternoon at South Field was announced by the Columbia University Athletic Association yesterday. Seven colleges will be represented. The first event is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 11.—The Yale golf team defeated Dartmouth, 8 to 1, at the Brooklawn Country Club here this afternoon. The greens were soggy, due to heavy showers, and prevented the players from turning in low scores.

Captain Dexter Cummings made the best showing of the matches, winning from Taft of Dartmouth, 6 and 5. He went out in 34 and had his opponent 6 down at the turn.

Cummings also scored in the foursomes when, with Wattles as his partner, he triumphed over Taft and Dold, 7 and 6. The Elis made a clean sweep in the foursomes, Jenkins was the only member of the Green team to score a victory, defeating Ordway, 2 and 1.

The summaries:

MANHATTAN FRESHMEN WIN.

Beat C. C. N. Y. Yearlings, 57 to 33, in Dual Meet Held in Rain.

The Manhattan College freshman track team defeated the C. C. N. Y. yearlings, 57 to 33, in a dual meet yesterday in Lewisohn Stadium. The athletes were forced to compete in a steady downpour of rain. The Manhattan trackmen proved themselves the better mud runners by taking first place in all the events on th cinder paths except the 220, while C. C. N. Y. took first honors in all field events with the exception of the high jump.

The high light of the meet was the performance of Carey of Manhattan, who took the century dash in 0:10 1-5 despite the falling rain and soggy track. Manhattan showed great strength in the middle distance events, placing the first two men in the quarter-and half and the first three in the mile. Metssinger of Manhattan was high point scorer. He won the quarter and the mile and took second in the half for a total of 13 points. Levy starred for the Lavender freshmen by finishing second to Carey in the 100-yard dash, winning the 220 and taking third in the broad jump.

OUR NEGOTIATION WITH FRANCE.

There appears to have been an undercurrent of excitement in Washington last week which greatly moved Colonel GEORGE HARVEY. In The Washington Post of Sunday he spoke of "happenings of the past week" which, somehow or other, were going to place the name of COOLIDGE "upon the roll beside the names of WASHINGTON, MONROE and LINCOLN." The secrets were not revealed. All that could be done was to hint at a foreign policy which was going to dazzle and delight the country. A part of it was seemingly the plan, half shrouded in mystery, to make France "settle up." Hence the rumors from Washington, re-echoed from Paris, about an American note on the subject of the French debt which would at last let the French Government know that we proposed to stand no more nonsense from them.

This supposed sudden change of character on the part of a President who, Colonel HARVEY says elegantly, "holds the world by the tail," is hardly borne out by the facts, so far as known. They have been quietly set forth by the correspondent of THE TIMES in Paris. It was perfectly natural that, with the coming to power in France of a new Government, Ambassador HERRICK should seek to find out if it was disposed to resume negotiations for funding the French debt to the United States. The new Finance Minister, M. CAILLAUX, took occasion early to announce that he hoped to do something about the foreign debts, as a part of his work to restore French credit. In the course of his talk with the American Ambassador, it appears that he asked what conditions the American Government would make. To answer that question Mr. HERRICK found it necessary to refer to Washington, whence instructions to him have presumably been sent already. No tremendous flourish of a hundred per cent. Americanism. Nothing like an ultimatum. Just a plain taking up again of the broken threads of negotiation. The Harvey way would be much more resounding and glorious. But this seems to have been the Coolidge way. It is not sensation, but it is decent and safe.

NOT SO LITTLE AN ENTENTE.

Foreign Ministers of the Little Entente, now in session at Bucharest, have addressed a warning to Bulgaria and Hungary. The former is reminded that the Bulgarian Army must not be increased beyond the necessities of maintaining internal order. Hungary is threatened with "definite action" unless she shows a greater readiness to comply with the terms of the peace treaties; here the reference is probably to a Hapsburg restoration. Yet it is obvious that for the Little Entente the chief source of concern at the present moment is not in Bulgaria or in Hungary. It faces a much more serious problem in respect to the big Allies and the question of security and guarantees in the West.

The Little Entente is not little, numerically. Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania comprise a population of 43,000,000. In this there should be sufficient guarantee against any forcible attempt to upset the peace treaties by Hungary and Bulgaria, which together count 13,000,000 people. In both those countries it is recognized that a revision of the peace settlements in their favor must be forced from without. In close cooperation with the Little Entente is Poland, with a population of 20,000,000. Greece, with another five millions, is drawing closer to Yugoslavia. As against any emergency arising within Central Europe, Poland may stand aloof; she has no concern with Bulgaria. Similarly, Greece has no interests in the Hungarian quarter. But when it is a question of the Versailles peace pacts and the war settlements as a whole, we have in Central Europe an Entente comprising five nations, with 75,000,000 people. On major European questions they may be regarded as one. Poland has concluded a commercial treaty with Czechoslovakia and is cultivating Rumania. Athens and Belgrade are hobnobbing.

Once the security to which she is justly entitled is conceded, France should not allow the claims of her allies in Central Europe to stand in the way of a settlement. British opinion suggests that a revision of Germany's eastern boundaries is desirable. Great Britain is willing apparently to assume obligations for the security of France and Belgium, but will not go in for broader "commitments." This means that if the German security pact were to come into being the frontiers of Poland would become an immediate subject of debate and the cause of a perpetual nervous crisis in Central Europe.

Nevertheless, it is not easy to see how Great Britain would escape commitments of some sort in any case. She would be party to an agreement by which Germany pledges herself not to go to war with Poland, and presumably Great Britain would be as obligated to keep Germany from fighting Poland in the future as from invading Belgium in the past. In the long run, therefore, the implications of a security pact which does not embrace Central Europe would be very much the same as the implications of the Protocol against which Great Britain has set her face, provided Great Britain makes it plain that in Central Europe, as in the West, there must be no recourse to arms to bring about a revision of frontiers. Short of such an explicit understanding the fears of the Little Entente and its associates are justified.

A CREATOR.

The late HERBERT QUICK seems to have been "capable de tout." He was school teacher, lawyer, journalist, politician, prosecutor of boodlers, Mayor, organizer of the Federal Farm Bureau, Red Cross executive in the Far East, a suasive and delightful speaker, a country gentleman. These were among his avocations. "I am like a setter pup," he said, "forever smelling out something new." Gay, active, variously successful, he maintained that infantile paralysis, which he had as a child, left its victims superior, as a rule, to their fellows. As a boy he wanted to be a war correspondent and to go to West Point for military training and the modern languages. His life-long infirmity, about which he never whined or sighed, prevented. He thanked humorously the disease that perhaps had kept him from being a professional ballplayer or a pugilist. His was a brave, buoyant, cheerful spirit, a steady will, keen interest in many things. The compensating gods gave him in addition the high gift of imagination.

He didn't find his vocation till late. He was 41 when his first book was published; more than 60 when "Vandemark's Folly," followed the next year by "The Hawkeye," made his fame. In these he puts flesh upon the dry bones of documents and archives. He re-creates the history of the trek, the settlement, "the early neolithic" age of Iowa. These books are crowded with life, character, incident, with whole processions of salient minor figures. They are rich in natural humor. They smack of the soil and the crops. Their homely fidelity and their breath of poetry, their recovery of the atmosphere and attitude of two generations, their etchings of land and people, of cottonwood and willow and the tumbleweeds, "hurrying gray shapes" driven out of the dusk by the October northwest wind—what a wealth of matter, with sufficient art, the memory calls up! And philologers have reason to be grateful to Mr. QUICK for the treasures of forgotten word and speech that he dug up between "the raging Canawl" and Hell Slew.

Critics complain that some of his major figures are "romantic." Well, Americans persist in being "romantic." Indeed, the "romantic" seems a much better "stayer" than the exotic-neurotic-erotic. Let the Devil's Advocate pretend, if he likes, that Mr. QUICK kept Mother's Day too often and that Captain Gowdy is a bit "touched up." But what a triumph Cow Vandemark is, with his slow unfolding, his shambling style, his everlasting depressions, episodes, obscure allusions. So not only "Dutch" farmers but all countrymen of the old school uttered themselves. An ancient Yankee would say of such a roaming narrator, "he needs a four-acre lot to turn raound in." Mr. QUICK was sympathetic to Americans of whatever strain; and he never borrowed his bucolics from literature, French, Russian or Scandinavian.

His two chief books are not the perfume and suppliance of an evening. They are spacious chronicles of life, full, deliberate, de-Morganesque. Take your time and your pleasure. It may be true, since our "realist" old friend, The Gazetteer, says so, that Ulster County "is bounded on the east by the Hudson River, is intersected by Wallkill and Rondout Rivers, and is also drained by the Neversink and Shawangunk Rivers and Esopus Creek." We know it only as the birthplace of Jacobus Teunis Vandemark, steerer of the four cows, Iowa has BROOKHART and many virtues and too many bootleggers. If we shut our eyes we see only Centropolis, and in its St. Troplas Hotel—as the French-Canadian painter transliterated—our not fanatically honest acquaintance, Rawe Upright, massacring with incredible violence the chicken potpie.

A SENATOR HARD TO WORK WITH.

President COOLIDGE is in duty bound to work with Senator BORAH—if he can. But can he? Can anybody? With all his ability and his excellent intentions, the Idaho Senator is about the poorest kind of yoke-fellow. Team play is not for him. He has to go off by himself and "plow his lonely furrow." This strong bent of his, praiseworthy though it may be in certain aspects, is again illustrated in his speech last night at Boston about the World Court. He approves of its idea, but is irreconcilably hostile to its form. Before he will consent to enter it the Court must be made over to suit him. Some of his objections seem a little strained. He is opposed to having the World Court give "advisory opinions," yet he admits that in any given instance its advice may be "entirely ignored." More serious, if it could be supported, is his charge that the judges are not allowed by the League of Nations to be "independent." If they have not been so in their judicial functions, Senator BORAH ought to specify wherein. With assured tenure of office, they are certainly in a position to adopt Lord COKE'S word and "act as becometh a judge" in every litigation submitted to them.

Senator BORAH again urges, though not so categorically as he has done before, that there must be a fixed and accepted body of international law before there can be a satisfactory international court. Apparently he would have that law codified as a necessary preliminary to creating a court. But an American who is at present engaged in the very business of codifying international law has just declared that it is "utter nonsense" to say that a court of international justice will have no guiding principles of law to go upon until the work of codification is complete. This opinion of Mr. WICKERSHAM is borne out by the plans of the Inter-Parliamentary Union. It is to meet in Washington next October, and on its program is to be a proposal of an international conference to discuss the present status of international law. But this is to be done without the slightest antagonism to the World Court. The plain truth is that the work of codification will necessarily be so delayed and so slow that if we wait for the end of it before entering the World Court, it will be a matter left over till the next generation. And if codification could be finished tomorrow, Senator BORAH would be the first man to declare that it had been done wrong and would have to be begun all over again.

COMMON SENSE ABOUT LONG ISLAND.

Governor SMITH'S statement on the Long Island traffic problem is impressive, yet simple. In the Borough of Queens "the city is constructing, or "is about to construct, boulevards, "streets or highways" with an aggregate pavement width of "about 700 feet," whereas beyond the city limits the existing "through routes" have a pavement width of "less than 150 feet." How are Nassau and Suffolk Counties to take up this potential traffic of almost five times their present capacity?

The Long Island State Park Commission long ago noted that the great bulk of existing traffic flows over Queensboro Bridge and that the majority of the city arteries lead to the Wheatley Hills district on the North Shore. It accordingly projected a broad and beautiful Northern Parkway which should "bridge" this traffic over local roads to the more open country beyond. Wealthy Summer residents objected, proposing instead a central parkway over flat and barren lands, alleged to be less expensive. Governor SMITH shows that the centre of Nassau County is "already full of villages," so that the parkway would be not only unpicturesque but "enormously expensive" and beset with grade crossings. And at that it would not relieve Wheatley Hills. With so many highways leading to its borders, the district "can only be preserved by" the parkway bridge. The route has been so planned as to pass, for the most part, along the outlying regions of great estates, being a serious nuisance to comparatively few. Most of the residents have been converted to Governor SMITH'S view and many are cooperating cordially with the Park Commission.

On the southern shore, the existing Merrick Road passes through all the waterside towns and could be converted into a parkway, if at all, only at great expense. Further inland a beautiful parkway is possible, considerable portions of which will run through lands of the old Brooklyn Water Works system, now owned by New York City. Both parkways are to extend to Lake Ronkonkoma. Near the middle of their course is to be a Cross Island State Parkway from Oyster Bay through Jericho and Hicksville to Jones Beach. This parallels the existing road from Sea Cliff to Long Beach, the width of which is to be doubled. Just within the city limits it is proposed to build a belt-line highway running north and south, so that trucks may be shunted from parkways and pleasure motorists may more easily gain the route to the east which they prefer. All this has Governor SMITH'S hearty approval.

With regard to the more comprehensive Regional Plan for New York and its environs, he is willing to take counsel but not to wait for a final decision on all the myriad related problems. Details in such a plan "should be considered together but solved separately." The money now on hand is altogether inadequate, so that "other funds will have to be provided," and without delay. "Every day that goes by adds to the difficulty and expense of obtaining the additional rights-of-way."

A CITIZEN OF THE PACIFIC.

An Ulsterman by birth, WILLIAM FERGUSON MASSEY was by adoption a New Zealander and by force of character one of the statesmen of the new Pacific. He represented his island dominion, of which he had been Premier since 1912, at the Peace Conference in Paris, and served as a delegate to the British Imperial Conference in 1921. Although he never lost interest in the land of his birth and in the affairs of Europe, his principal thought was of the empire, and, in particular, of its relations to the world. This was, in a sense, a natural result of the geographical location of the nation whose affairs he so long directed. New Zealand and Australia have been forced to think internationally, and to give especial attention to the British Empire's policies in the Far East. This explains the vigor with which Mr. MASSEY protested against the abandonment of the Singapore project by the MacDonald Government in the Spring of 1924. To him, as to the leaders in Australia, Singapore was vital to the integrity of Greater Britain.

Premier MASSEY frequently emphasized the bonds of common interest between the United States and the British Dominions in the Pacific. Not only did he feel that the Australians and the New Zealanders had been affected by the frontier, just as had the Americans, and that the fact that kindred racial stocks facing like social problems had made the outlook of the three peoples much the same, but he was firmly persuaded that in matters international they viewed the Pacific eye to eye. It was largely owing to his efforts that the Dominions were represented at the Washington Conference, as he was one of those who at the Imperial Conference in London just before it was most insistent on the right of the Dominions to treat as full partners in imperial negotiations regarding the Far East.

It is interesting to note that Mr. MASSEY was the last of the war Premiers. HUGHES in Australia and SMUTS in South Africa fell long before he died. Elsewhere the civilian leaders of the war one by one had been replaced. But such was Mr. MASSEY'S hold on his own people that only death displaced him. It is a curious paradox that in a country noted for its excess of liberalism a man who by nature was so stanch a conservative long held power.

IN QUEST OF "HEAD-HUNTERS."

Before Dr. W. M. MCGOVERN, of Tibetan fame, sailed from England on Monday to explore "a blank space on the map" in Colombia, near the Brazilian frontier, he talked of hair-breadth escapes from savages who had never seen a white man and of anacondas, boa-constrictors and other man-killing serpents. His field of operations includes the upper Uaupes, an affluent of the Negro, which is the great northern tributary of the Amazon. The Uaupes has its source in Colombia. Dr. MCGOVERN, who will have only one white companion, is planning to hunt for trouble and romance in the stretch of country extending from the Uaupes to the Putumayo. It may be doubted whether in these days of rubber-seeking in forests and mountains where the headwaters of the Amazon are the doctor will be able to focus his moving-picture camera on Indians that have not encountered the rubber brigands. The dangers of the jungle are more imaginary than real. Serpents are less to be feared than ants. In Brazil the Government will present Dr. MCGOVERN with antidotes to snake bites. The late A. HENRY SAVAGE LANDOR, who was not given to minimizing the explorer's perils, declared that the number of savages roaming the Brazilian wilderness was greatly exaggerated, and "as for the wild beasts and "snakes, no one ever need be troubled "by them." BATES collected specimens in Brazil for fourteen years without being once struck by a venomous snake, and WALLACE with a residence of three or four years came to no harm.

Probably there is not a district in Brazil, Colombia or Ecuador which the explorer has not penetrated in a quest for gold or rubber. The Indians are nowhere in force, and when encountered they are found to be inoffensive. It is doubtful whether any tribe in South America has never seen the face of a white man. G. J. BRUCE in his "Brazil and the Brazilians" says that "a strange tribe of pale-faced Indians named Andoques were seen in 1913 by an explorer near the Colombian frontier. They appear to have treated their discoverer well and to have facilitated his passage through their territory." Dr. MCGOVERN might look up the Andoques and get on the track of other curious Indians.

PAUL FOURTAIN found the Indians on the Purus, a tributary of the Amazon in Western Brazil, "peaceable and kind-hearted." He testifies that "there is nothing murderous about them, and a traveler going among them is well and hospitably treated." No country could be wilder than that of the upper Purus, which rises in Peru. The Indians were suspicious, but once their confidence was gained by simple presents, they were ready to help the explorer. Every river flowing into the Amazon has been explored to its source. JULES CREVAUX traced the Putumayo to within 200 miles of the Pacific. On the Uaupes 700 miles above Manaos is the settlement of Santa Isabella. Dr. MCGOVERN should have no trouble in completing his outfit there and hiring Indians for a canoe excursion further up the river, which is free from dangerous rapids. In his equipment are plenty of beads, knives, scissors and pocket mirrors. He will carry a phonograph to play jazz, with which he hopes to captivate the "head-hunters." When Dr. MCGOVERN comes back he will probably give them the best of characters.

FLEXIBLE TARIFF PUZZLES.

The courts recently ruled that those interested in the findings of the Tariff Commission had a right to know the facts on which the commission acted. Theoretically, the decision had to do with the tariff rates which the commission or the President might raise or lower. The only person not considered in the battles over the disputed rates was the consumer. True, the Tariff Commission seems to have had those who eat sugar in mind when it recommended the reduction of the duties which the President has been unable to approve after a year of consideration. That is to say, the commission may propose, but the President will dispose.

Take the present confusion about the duty on linseed oil as an example of the flexible tariff plan. The commission recommended a reduction. The President referred the question to the Agricultural Department, with a hint that the difference between domestic and foreign costs did not exhaust the subject. The Agricultural Department clearly saw with the President's eye that it was desirable to consider also the effect on general industry of lowering specific customs dues. Now the Agricultural Department is reported to disagree with the Tariff Commission about linseed as widely as the commission disagreed within itself about sugar. Secretaries HOOVER and JARDINE are said to be against the Tariff Commission. Possibly Secretary JARDINE may be thinking of the farmers who have taken his advice and raised flaxseed, while Secretary HOOVER may have in mind the consumers who far outnumber the flaxseed farmers and want to paint their houses.

This conflict of opinions suggests that the law is not adapted to the decision of conflicts of interests and opinions which lack certainty as regards either facts or policies. The flexible tariff, like the Volstead law, has reacted unfavorably upon all associated with it.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

What Doth the Clergy Say to This?

People who attended the 4 o'clock vespers service in St. George's Church on Sunday must have been astonished by a part of the short sermon delivered by the rector, Dr. KARL REILAND. He took for his text the story of Elisha's grafting servant who plotted to get, and got, the gift from the Syrian officer which the prophet had refused. Then Dr. REILAND proceeded to deliver a vigorous denunciation of tipping in all its forms, including the acceptance of bonuses and secret commissions.

He lamented, as many have done before him, the passing in this country of the good old days when tips were taken only by very few. It would have been decidedly unsafe, then, to offer a tip, in addition to the agreed wage, to American working folk of any sort. That day is gone, however, and now the tip is about as generally, and quite as eagerly, sought—when it isn't fiercely demanded—in the United States as in Europe.

But remarks along this line did not constitute the astonishing part of Dr. REILAND'S address. That came when in most explicit terms he put the clergyman who accepts an extra fee for his services at a wedding, a funeral or a baptism in the same category as the tip-taking waiter or taxi-driver, and declared that they, too, must be lost to self-respect.

When one remembers how many clergymen of how many denominations come within the range of the gun he fired, the thought of the consequent casualties is almost appalling. Indeed, he failed to hit hardly any of them. Yet the custom he denounced is such an old one! Men of the greatest eminence and unquestionable piety have seen nothing wrong in following it, especially as to weddings, and many a poor minister's wife has been devoutly thankful for its existence, because it usually meant some ready cash that she could spend as she chose.

He Says That Not All Statutes Are Laws.

F. LYMAN WINDOLPH, whom The Atlantic describes only as "a lawyer and a Philadelphian of many generations," contributes to the May issue, under the title of "A Second Forgotten Man," a thought-provoking article going more than ordinarily deep into the nature of law and democracy and presenting what to many will be new ideas as to the assumption that the good citizen does not pick and choose among laws, obeying those that please him and violating those disliked, but gives to all of them respectful observance, merely because they are laws.

Mr. WINDOLPH explicitly declares that he does not advise or even defend the exercise of private judgment with respect to laws, but his remarks will be taken by many as preaching the often denounced doctrine of discrimination.

He says that in early England the word "law" had a meaning different from what it had in other countries. Elsewhere the "law" was a decree by a chief or king, or some other superior, as to what should be done. The English assumed the existence of a law and asked what it was. And to them established custom was "the law," and whoever had it on his side was held to be in the right. The standard was what men did, not what they said, and the question was not what the law ought to be, but what it was.

From this base Mr. WINDOLPH arrives, logically enough for lands whose legal system is founded on English common law, at the conclusion that all real laws are in accord with recognized custom and public opinion as entertained by a large majority of the people; and laws that do not have such a basis, he, more than intimates, are mere statutes, something quite different. He notes that many laws have become "dead-letters" simply because they were, or grew to be, out of harmony with prevailing sentiment, and he mentions as illustrations the Fugitive Slave law, which good citizens violated and remained no less good, and the laws as to Sabbath observance that still exist in most States, in large measure ignored by next to everybody.

Mr. WINDOLPH'S implication is that the Prohibition law comes in the class of statutes and not in that of laws, properly so called, and evidently he would not deny to all who violate it the name of good citizens. The doctrine seems to be somewhat dangerous, for it exculpates the bootlegger as well as his customers.

(Why Berbers Are Hard to Conquer.

In a highly interesting letter printed on this page yesterday, Señor JUAN O'DONNELL Y DIAS MENDOZA gave a truly curious, and yet perfectly credible, reason why the Spaniards had found the inhabitants of the Rift foes so hard to conquer. The reason was that they were poor!

As he put it, "These people live on practically nothing, emigrate with ease, and they do not fear the invasion, because, in taking along with them wife, gun and horse, they have taken their entire fortune."

It is evident from this description why the Riffians can keep up almost indefinitely, among their wild mountains, a guerrilla warfare from which they suffer none of the many evils that war brings upon nations with vastly more to lose. They can be killed, of course, and are, occasionally; but that means little to fanatics of their kind, and war is for them "a state of nature," enjoyable because they have been adapted to it through many generations during which all except fighting strains have been eliminated from their number.

Unfortunately, the prospect of heavy losses of property does not keep the rich nations out of war, though presumably it does make most of them think several times before they go into it. The expectation of victory balances that, however.

Whether the French can succeed where the Spaniards failed is a question for time to answer. Nody suspects the Spaniards of lacking courage; they never did; but for some centuries they have been unlucky in war, no matter against what opponents, while the French, though they have had at least one great reverse, have something like the habit of victory, and that habit has been confirmed in Northern Africa.

A Belated Resort to Science.

Up in Greene County, this State, a really notable experiment is in progress—nothing less than utilizing the assistance which psychology long has been able and ready to give the courts in dealing with criminals. An effort is making there to consider crime not as an abstract Thing in itself, but as the behavior of an individual who, for one or another reason, is out of harmony with his fellows. The idea of punishing him for what he has done, with a fixed amount of penalty to be imposed on all who do the particular thing he has done, has been abandoned, in part or in whole, and the offender is to be treated much as if he were suffering from a disease, curable or incurable, as the case may be. His mind, as well as his body, is to be examined by experts, and the court, especially as regards first offenders, will heed the advice received.

This will be denounced as "coddling the criminal" by those who think per force of punishing crime than of either preventing or reforming, but it is in line with what advanced penologists have been preaching, casually in vain, for several decades. Some day, perhaps, the psychologist will be asked to do more than advise as to the disposition to be made of the convicted criminal. He will sit in court and pass judgment on the testimony. He has far better tests of veracity to apply to witnesses than are possessed by jurymen or the opposing counsel or the Judge himself.

"MOTHERS OF MEN!"

Surely, some woman first felt wild dismay
To see her brutish lord sprawled in the dirt;—
Watched, ere his conqueror dragged her away,
If breath would stir once more that form inert.

Each age and generation saw the spread
Of deadly skill—devices fiendish, fell;
While women nursed their injured, mourned their dead,
And bore new life, Death's future toll to swell.

Stone, wood, and bronze; quick steel and biting flame;
Poisons and poisoned air; the list still grows
Of tools to kill, intimidate and maim.
Man's knowledge adds, instead of lessening, woes!

Surely some woman now must cry aloud
All women's weariness of futile force,—
Of problems still unsolved, of vengeance vowed,
Of cruelty unredeemed by hot remorse.

We are to blame, who have not taught aright,
Through all the centuries, the men we bore!—
Nor led their passions to a quest for Light,
Nor robbed Ambition of its selfish core.

We are to blame! We have betrayed our trust
So long as force and cunning sway the scales,
And murder, wholesale, organized, seems just,
And each attempt at brotherhood still fails.

Have done with War! Bid reason aid the spread
Our prayers for Peace are insults to the dead
While all our actions glorify brute might!

FRENCH SPOLIATION CLAIMS.

How They Originated and How They May Now Be Collected.

Now that Congress at the instance of President Coolidge may take action to pay the final amounts due on the French spoliation claims it may not be amiss to state what these claims are—since many persons have the idea that the whole matter concerns a myth—and also to indicate how those interested should undertake the rather complicated matter of getting the actual money from the Government.

These claims have their basis in our cancellation of the treaty of amity which we signed with France in 1778 when she helped win American liberty. The French, incensed at our friendliness toward England, proceeded to seize American merchantmen right and left. Under Napoleon in France, and Jefferson in America, this was put to a stop and the two nations renewed their friendship which should never have been interrupted. As a token of the nation's willingness to acknowledge error, we assumed the claims against France of the numerous merchants who had lost their vessels. But these claims were very tardily paid. From 1801 to 1905 Congress paid out about $4,000,000. The present bill, now before Congress, which aims to settle the matter for good, appropriates $3,253,000, of which, however, about $1,900,000 goes to insurance companies. The remainder, or $1,300,000, goes to the heirs of about 1,500 original owners of vessels or cargoes.

As we are now five generations removed from those times, and as the early Americans did not believe in birth control, it will be seen that it is conservative to say that for each heir of these 1,500 original claims about fifty persons at the average now have claims. As the average original claim is for a little less than $1,000, it follows that the average present claim of descendants would be only about $20. Against this, however, is the fact that many of the original claims appear several times, and that, as the class of well-to-do persons was then more definitely marked off than now, there has been great intermarriage and that many persons now living have claims for restitution through more than one ancestor. With these deductions made, we may considerably raise the probable individual average disbursement which the United States Government should make to those living.

To obtain any money due, the claimant must prove his descent in the Court of Claims unless this was previously done for a blood forebear during 1891 to 1905. In this case he has only to prove his descent from the father, mother or grandparent acknowledged by the Government at that time. The bill reads as follows (Senate Bill No. 56, First Session, Sixty-eighth Congress):

That awards in the cases of individual claimants shall not be paid until the Court of Claims shall certify to the Secretary of the Treasury, that the personal representatives on whose behalf the awards are made represent the next of kin, and the courts which granted the administrators, respectively, shall have certified that the legal representatives have given adequate security for the legal disbursements of the awards.

Thus the descent must be proved, security put up and unless a person sees to the matter personally a legal representative must appear. It must be evident, in view of the smallness of the average individual claim, that claimants of one family should have a common representative handle their claims and that the more claimants pool their interests the easier the proofs for each, and the easier and less expensive proportionately will be the expense.

Neglecting Animals in Vacations.

The problem of homeless dogs and cats in New York is one that is often discussed. The best solution would be not to allow them to become homeless.

That is a point to be considered, especially at this season, when nearly everybody is making plans for a vacation out of the city. It is a joyous outlook for all the family except the dog and cat. Few people care to take them along, and it is not easy to find some one to take care of them. But please remember this, it is kinder to put your pet humanely to death than to turn it out to shift for itself or give it to people who will neglect it.

The New York Women's League for Animals wishes to remind owners of cats and dogs that the Ellin Prince Speyer Hospital for Animals, at 350 Lafayette Street, is open night and day to receive unwanted animals and strays. When possible we find homes for those that are healthy. The others are mercifully destroyed. The hospital is a few blocks south of Astor Place, and can be reached by the Lexington Avenue subway, getting out at Bleecker Street, or by the Broadway surface cars.

Inheritance Taxes.

Regarding the article in your issue of Sunday, May 3, "Duplicate Estate Tax Before the Supreme Court," I think it about time more publicity is given to the laws covering our "wherewithal" after "passing on," and would like to learn through your columns what position the family of the average middle class would be in under the present laws. For example, a man leaves his family

| Bonds (not exempt) | 4,500 |
| Personal, including automobile, &c. | 2,200 |

all in the Empire State.

Just what would be the residue of the estate after payment of all existing taxes?

I for one and probably many of your readers are living in the sublime belief that we are providing for our families, to the best of our ability, after we are gone; but, in fact, we are leaving them nothing, as the present scale of wealth goes, after Uncle Sam takes his toll.

Mr. Gallatin Quotes Bacon.

The recent discussions in the public press on certain public matters remind me forcibly of the following words from Bacon's essay "Of Seeming Wise":

"Generally such men, in all deliberations, find ease to be of the negative side, and affect a credit to object and foretell difficulties; for when propositions are denied, there is an end of them; but if they be allowed, it requireth a new work; which false point of wisdom is the bane of business. To conclude, there is no decaying merchant, or inward beggar, hath so many tricks to uphold the credit of their wealth as these empty persons have to maintain the credit of their sufficiency."

Commissioner of Parks, Borough of Manhattan.

A Service to Buyers.

Please be assured that I appreciate very much the service that you have rendered both to New York sellers and the visiting buyers, for last January I was assisted very materially by the printing of my name in your column as a visiting buyer. This service meant a great deal to me, not only in time but also in money, for which I thank you very kindly. JOSEPH P. LEVEQUE.

SEIZURES WITHOUT WARRANT.

Schroeder Case and Fourth Amendment—Federal and State Laws.

Referring to your comment on the case of United States versus Schroeder, decided by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Second Circuit, will you permit me to endeavor to assist in making clear the distinction between evidence obtained for use in Federal Court by peace officers of the State, as distinguished from evidence obtained by Federal officers?

Prior to 1914 the rule had been almost unquestioned that in a criminal case a court would receive evidence, if otherwise competent, whether it was obtained legally or illegally, on the ground that the Court would not allow a collateral question to be raised. (Bishop Atterbury's Case, 16 How. State Trials (Eng.) 323, 495 (1723); Commonwealth v. Dana, 2 Met. (Mass.) 329, 337 (1841); 3 Wigmore, Evidence, Secs. 2183 and 2264). This is the present rule in New York. (People v. Adams, 176 N. Y. 351 (1903). The logic of the rule is, if A commits the crime of conducting a lottery and B commits the crime of trespass or assault in seizing the lottery paraphernalia, punish both, each for his own criminal act. (Wigmore, 8 Am. Bar Assn. Journal, 479; 7 Mass. L. Q., August, 1922, p. 33.)

Weeks vs. U. S., 232 U. S. 383, decided by the Supreme Court, laid down a new rule for the Federal courts, holding that when defendant had made a timely demand for the return of his illegally taken property and the motion was erroneously denied, the admission over objection of evidence obtained by the illegal search or seizure was reversible error. The ground of the decision was "to sanction such proceedings would be to affirm by judicial decision a manifest neglect, if not an open defiance, of the prohibitions of the Constitution, intended for the protection of the people against such an unauthorized action."

Gould vs. U. S., 255 U. S. 298 (1921) extended the new rule to a case where defendant did not know that the prosecution had papers taken in violation of the Fourth Amendment until they were offered in evidence upon the trial, holding that the objection did not come too late, for, under the circumstances, the rule requiring timely application was inapplicable, and in Amos vs. U. S., 255 U. S. 313 (1921), the rule was further extended to a case where the application was not made until after the jury had been sworn, although apparently the defendant had learned of the search the day it was made.

This new rule of evidence applies only to acts of United States agents, i. e., the constitutional prohibition against unreasonable searches and seizures, and self-incrimination, applies only to acts of United States governmental authority. In the Weeks case police officers trespassed into defendant's house and seized articles therein, which were turned over to the United States Marshal prior to the latter's unlawful entry into the same house, and as to such seizure the court's dictum was "As to the papers and property seized by the policeman, it does not appear that they acted under any claim of Federal authority such as would make the amendment applicable to such unauthorized seizure."

In Burdeau vs. McDowell, 256 United States, 46 (1921), a motion for the return of papers stolen from defendant's premises by a private person and turned over to a United States attorney for use in a subsequent investigation by a Grand Jury was denied, the court saying:

"The papers having come into the possession of the Government without a violation of petitioner's rights by governmental authority, we see no reason why the fact that individuals, unconnected with the Government, may have wrongfully taken them, should prevent them from being held for use in prosecuting an offense where the documents are of an incriminatory character."

If peace officers of New York State, while engaged in their normal duty of apprehending violators of the criminal statutes of the United States, as well as of their State, should become overzealous and enter a dwelling house as peace officers only, without a search warrant, to search for and seize intoxicating liquor unlawfully possessed therein, they would be attempting to exercise Federal power, and the limitations of the Constitution upon the use of such power would apply to them.

A place of business is on a different basis. Here the proprietor holds out an invitation to the public to come in and transact business with him, and this invitation includes a peace officer. Being lawfully in the place and witnessing a violation of law therein, it is his duty to apprehend the violator. Further, not all searches and seizures are unlawful—only "unreasonable" ones—as decided by the court.

ROBERT S. WICKHAM.

It is, of course, well settled that the Bill of Rights in the Constitution of the United States operates as a restriction on the Federal Government and not on the States in dealing with their own citizens.

But it is hard to see how the Circuit Court of Appeals can uphold search and seizure without warrant by State officers, unless the objection before the court was based entirely on the Fourth Amendment and the lawlessness of the proceeding under the State statutes was not at issue.

Section 8 of Article 2 of the New York Civil Rights law almost exactly repeats the language of the Fourth Amendment. It reads:

"The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures ought not to be violated; and no warrant can issue but upon probable cause supported by oath or affirmation, and particular

EPISCOPAL DIOCESE WILL CONVENE TODAY

The 142d annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of New York will open at 10 o'clock this morning at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and continue through tomorrow afternoon.

Interest centres about the election of four clerical and four lay deputies to the General Episcopal Convention, and an effort which may be made looking toward changing the charter of the cathedral so that men not of the Episcopal communion may be elected trustees.

An innovation this year will be an evening business session. Heretofore the first evening has been given up to a reception at the Bishop's House to the clergy and their wives, and the lay delegates and their wives.

Instead, Bishop and Mrs. William T. Manning will give an informal tea at their home immediately on adjournment of the session this afternoon.

Incidentally today is the birthday of Bishop Manning. He is fifty-nine years old. Already congratulations are being showered upon him and it is understood a resolution will be presented congratulating him on the raising of $10,000,000 in the $13,000,000 campaign for completing the cathedral. Yesterday was the fourth anniversary of the consecration of Dr. Manning as Bishop of New York.

LIQUOR NEAR WHITE COURT.

Rum-Runners' Rendezvous Reported Adjoining Coolidge's Summer Home.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., May 11 (A. P.).—Testimony that the rendezvous of Swampscott's rum-running gang was located within 200 yards of White Court, the proposed Summer White House of President Coolidge, was given today by John H. Fenton of Lynn before the Swampscott Board of Selectmen, which is conducting a hearing on charges that Police Chief William L. Quinn of this town was involved in rum-running activities here.

Chief Quinn recently was notified that his removal from office was contemplated as a result of the charges. Mrs. Gertrude L. Hanna, former housekeeper for Harry L. Brown of Lynn, alleged bootlegger, testified that Brown paid Chief Quinn and Frank Prindeaux, former patrolman, $100 each for insuring the safe landing of a liquor cargo. Mrs. Grace Seward, a friend of Mrs. Hanna, corroborated her testimony today, as did several other witnesses.

Fenton, who admitted that he was one of the rum-runners, caused a sensation when he testified today that he had helped unload liquor at Little's Point here and stored it in various caches about the so-called Johnson estate, which is 200 yards from the Summer White House and across the road from Red Gables, Summer home of Senator Frank W. Stearns.

NOTED AUTHORESS DIES AT HOME HERE

Mrs. John King Van Rensselaer Was Authority on History and Society.

CAME OF 2 OLD FAMILIES

Controversy With New York Historical Society Recalled—Funeral at Jamaica Tomorrow.

Mrs. John King Van Rensselaer, authoress, genealogist and authority on American society and its history, died yesterday at her residence, 70 East Ninety-second Street, within a fortnight of her seventy-seventh birthday. Services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow in Grace Church at Jamaica, Queens.

Before her marriage to John King Van Rensselaer on Oct. 4, 1871, she was Miss Mary King, daughter of the late Archibald Gracie King of Weehawken, N. J. Her mother was Elizabeth Denning Duer, daughter of the William Duer who was President of Columbia University in 1830. Her own family, on both sides, and her husband's family were among the oldest in New York, and throughout her life she remained zealously interested in the histories of old American families, not, however, to the exclusion of the general history of her country.

Her desire to bring the great facts of American history to the knowledge of the present citizens of New York has been made manifest on the many occasions when Mrs. Van Rensselaer engaged in verbal and epistolary arguments with the officials of the New York Historical Society, whom she accused of permitting the organization to lapse into a condition that was described as "dead."

The first books written by Mrs. Van Rensselaer were on subjects other than history. In 1883 she published a work on crochet lace, and in 1887 "The Devil's Picture Books," a softly presented treatise on playing cards. Her first genealogical book appeared two years later. "The Van Rensselaers of the Manor," a study of her husband's family, and then came "The Goede Vrouw of Mana-ha-ta," a description of the housewives of old New York. She edited "A Girl's Life Eighty Years Ago" and wrote "Social Customs of the Nineteenth Century," the latter containing a carefully compiled list of 120 families who were prominent in this city in 1830, descendants of its early settlers.

Judge Cowing delivered the opinion. The Judge said that the case involved the question, What is news? That, he said, might be a matter of opinion or it might be a matter of fact. If a group of men printing the paper judged that the matter in each issue was worth printing, it might be even held that whatever was in the paper was news.

Whether it finds its way into the Forum or into some neighboring column," the Court said, "is immaterial. The fact that it is printed in the newspaper is proof that it is news and in consequence within the scope of the law."

The Judge announced that he would dismiss the order on which Mr. Owens had been taken into court. He then ordered that the editor be discharged.

'LOST BATTALION' MAN DIES.

A requiem mass will be celebrated in St. Michael's Church in Flushing, after which burial will take place with military honors in Mount St. Evergreen Cemetery. The military escort at the funeral will consist of members of the William A. Leonard Post, American Legion, and the Flushing Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to both of which Noe belonged. There will also be present a firing squad from the Sixty-second Coast Artillery, stationed at Fort Totten. The only near relatives are two married sisters.

Among those who appeared were Irving W. Tuttle, President of the Richmond Hill Board of Trade, and George A. De Vestern, former President of the Richmond Hill Civic Association.

Alfred A. Gardner, counsel for the railroad, contended that if additional service were given to Richmond Hill there would be ten residents of Kew Gardens and Forest Hills who would have to put up with decreased service to every one resident of Richmond Hill who would benefit. The hearing will be continued on May 20.

LETTER TO EDITOR GUARDED

Court Rules Newspaper Is Not Obliged to Reveal Name of Writer.

Special to The New York Times.

WESTMINSTER, Md., May 11.—The right of the editor of a newspaper to refuse to disclose the name of a writer of a letter published in the paper was sustained today by Judges F. Neal Parke and William Forsythe Jr., in the Circuit Court for Carroll County.

Hamilton Owens, editor of The Evening Sun, Baltimore, was summoned to appear before the Grand Jury of the county to tell the name of the writer of a letter signed "A Daily Reader" and published in The Evening Sun on Jan. 23 last. He went before the Grand Jury but refused to give the name and then was taken into court in a further effort to ascertain the name of the writer. The letter said that intoxicating liquor was offered to fifteen persons in a pool room in Westminster on a certain day.

The editor based his refusal to disclose the name on an act of the Legislature of 1896 which especially exempted newspaper editors and reporters from disclosing the sources of information on which articles were based.

Judge Parke delivered the opinion. The Judge said that the case involved the question, What is news? That, he said, might be a matter of opinion or it might be a matter of fact. If a group of men printing the paper judged that the matter in each issue was worth printing, it might be even held that whatever was in the paper was news.

Whether it finds its way into the Forum or into some neighboring column," the Court said, "is immaterial. The fact that it is printed in the newspaper is proof that it is news and in consequence within the scope of the law."

The Judge announced that he would dismiss the order on which Mr. Owens had been taken into court. He then ordered that the editor be discharged.

POLICE CHIEFS VIEW DENATURED BOMBS

EXECUTIVE SESSION HELD

International Conference Will Open This Morning—Delegates See Safety Day Parade.

A large part of the Rogues' Gallery, including photographs of many drug addicts convicted of murder, burglary, picking pockets, shoplifting and other crimes, and a large quantity of explosive material confiscated by the Bomb Squad were set up yesterday afternoon at the Waldorf-Astoria as exhibits for more than 500 foreign and American police officials attending the International Police Conference.

In the exhibit by the Bomb Squad dynamite is represented only by the waxed paper wrappers, and all explosive properties have been removed from detonating caps because even police chiefs may be a little careless with lighted cigars and cigarettes.

The International Police Conference went into session at the Waldorf-Astoria in the forenoon, when there was a meeting of the Executive Committee, at which Commissioner Richard E. Enright presided. The Executive Committee discussed the register of international criminals recently compiled by Hakon Jorgensen, Commissioner of Police of Copenhagen. In the register are fingerprints and detailed descriptions of more than 5,000 criminals. The work has been translated into French and English.

The International Police Conference will be opened formally this morning at 10 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, 65 Liberty Street. The visiting police officials will be welcomed by city officials, including representatives of the Police Department. On behalf of the visiting police responses will be made for the most part by new delegates, who have not been heard at previous conferences.

Many of the delegates to the conference are accompanied by their wives and children. A party of fifty wives of foreign police chiefs was entertained yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria at a luncheon by Mrs. Richard E. Enright.

Special Deputy Police Commissioner Barron Collier entertained the delegates at a dinner last night in the grand ballroom at Luna Park, taking them afterward to the various amusements which were opened especially for the visitors for one evening, a week before the park's regular opening. There were three bands and vaudeville entertainers at the dinner. Some of the guests were Mayor Hylan, Commissioner Enright, Special Deputy Police Commissioner John A. Harriss, Rhinelander Waldo and R. A. C. Smith.

PARIS POLICE HEAD HERE.

Louis Lacambre Says Americans Abroad Cause Little Trouble.

Among the passengers who arrived yesterday from Havre on the French liner DeGrasse, was Louis Lacambre, Director of the Police Judiciare at Paris, which controls the city and the department of the Seine. He has come to attend the international conference and is making his first visit to the United States.

He said that there was very little change in the crime situation in Paris since the war, except there had been a slight increase in minor offenses this year. There are 12,000 police with 700 inspectors and 90 commissaires in the City of Paris and the various outlying districts.

Mr. Lacambre believes in the French system of capital punishment, which is the guillotine, as it is swift and painless, he said. It is difficult to compare police methods in Paris with those of New York because the habits and laws of the two cities are entirely different, the visitor pointed out. There is a floating population of 300,000 foreigners in Paris and of that number about 40,000 are Americans. The latter give very little trouble to the police, he added, and not one American had been arrested this year.

Roderick Ross, Chief of Police of Edinburgh, and Andrew D. Smith, Chief of Police of Glasgow, arrived yesterday on the Anchor liner Columbia to attend the conference. They seemed quite at home when they landed in New York and found it raining. In Scotland the fine days are marked down in red ink in the diaries of the people.

WED HERE TO THWART BAN.

Couple Barred in England Because of Relationship by Marriage.

Deputy City Clerk J. J. McCormack circumvented one of the inhibitions peculiar to English marriage laws when he performed the marriage yesterday of Miss Evelyn Ball, concert singer, and Alfred Handley, a cigar merchant, both from Birmingham, England. They came to America to be married.

Miss Ball, who is known professionally as Evelyn Wynne, is a daughter of the brother of Handley's late wife. Consequently, English law forbids her marriage to Handley, although she is not a blood relative.

Following the marriage, at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Handley returned to the Prince George Hotel, where they will pass their honeymoon. They arrived in New York on the Cunard liner Caronia yesterday. They expect to return to England aboard the Laconia, which sails on May 23.

BAR OREGON SCHOOL BRIEF.

Supreme Court Refuses to Let Michigan League Intervene.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Acting for the Public School Defense League of Michigan, said to have the support of the Ku Klux Klan, George William Moore of Detroit attempted to file a brief today in the Oregon school case, which is now under consideration by the Supreme Court, and which concerns the right of the State to insist that children of certain ages shall attend public rather than private or secular schools.

Chief Justice Taft had difficulty in convincing Mr. Moore that his request was impossible because the case had been argued and was in the hands of the Court for a decision. Mr. Moore admitted that he did not have the consent of both sides to file his brief, which stated that the Public School League "is organized to secure in Michigan a constitutional amendment similar to the Oregon amendment involved in this suit."

CLEAN-UP WEEK ON; CITY IS POLISHING UP

PAINTERS ALSO AID DRIVE

Have Plan to Brighten Up Houses and Accept Payment by Instalment —Brooklyn Working Hard.

Clean-up Week began yesterday with the rain setting a good example. During the week New York is asked to clean house, paint up and bring out from attic and cellar the year's accumulation of rubbish. The Street Cleaning Department has pledged to assist in this Spring cleaning.

The first clean-up report received by Dr. Alonzo Blauvelt, Sanitary Superintendent of the Health Department, came at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and announced that the district extending from the Bowery to the East River and from Orchard to Chambers Street had been cleaned. After trucks gathered the rubbish that had been placed in barrels and boxes on the sidewalk by residents the Street Cleaning Department flushed the streets.

Concurrent with the beginning of Clean-up Week, the Save-the-Surface Committee, made up of leaders in the paint industry, began a two-day meeting at the Hotel Commodore, the object of which is to explain to the trade and the public generally a deferred payment plan by which those of small incomes can have their houses painted and pay the bill in ten instalments.

The plan was explained by Herbert G. Sidebottom, Secretary of the Paint, Oil and Varnish Club, 17 Battery Place. "The paint industry," he said, "has not only taken up the plan to increase sales but also to assist the householder to paint his home, beautify the neighborhood and add to the attractiveness of his own property.

"We have $90,000,000,000 in standing property and 75 per cent. of it is depreciating at more than 2 per cent a year. We are throwing away at least $1,600,000,000 a year which could be saved in part by 'saving the surface.' It is to help conserve this loss that the paint industry is urging this plan."

Charles J. Rohr, sales manager of the Murphy Varnish Company, presided at the afternoon meeting and the Chairman at the night session was William G. Lahey, President of the National Association of Save the Surface. The latter explained the plan to salesmen and contracting painters.

Color psychology as applied to homes was the subject of an address by E. V. Peters, President of the National Paint, Oil and Varnish Manufacturers' Association. He pointed out that the suburban homes are becoming more uniform in their outer aspects and that color harmony is increasing. Clashing colors, Mr. Peters said, are rapidly disappearing.

A special effort is being made in Brooklyn to make that borough the cleanest in the city. Civic organizations, the Boy Scouts, the American Legion and other bodies have been enlisted in the drive which is being sponsored by the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce through its Cleaner Brooklyn Committee.

Miss Margaret A. Salomon, Secretary of the committee, said that 500,000 circulars and hundreds of a prize poster have been distributed. Many stores are displaying "clean-up" exhibits and the B.-M. T. subway and surface cars are carrying posters. On Saturday there will be a parade of the Cleaner Brooklyn Committee.

DYING MOTHER WANTS SON.

Indiana Woman Pines for Boy of 15 Who Ran Away.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 11 (A. P.).—Only the return of her 15-year-old boy will save the life of Mrs. S. C. Framen of North Liberty, according to physicians.

Warren Framen, who sometimes uses the name Robert O. Ward, ran away six weeks ago. Grief-stricken, Mrs. Framen's condition gradually became so serious she was brought to a hospital.

Yearning for the boy is her only ailment, it was said, and unless that is gratified she will not live.

PLAN TO 'DRY UP' COLORADO

Prohibition Authorities Start Today to Enforce New Law.

DENVER, Col., May 11.—Colorado is due to become an arid desert tomorrow, so far as moonshine liquor is concerned, when the new State law making ownership and operation of a liquor still a felony becomes effective, prohibition authorities declared today.

Officials claim that moonshine prices will soar to unprecedented heights after tomorrow, while State Prohibition Director L. N. Scherf said he has received information indicating that the majority of Colorado distillers will migrate to other States.

Arrests Reported for Calles Plot.

MEXICO CITY, May 11.—It was rumored today that a number of arrests had been made in connection with the attempted assassination of President Calles by a girl who was declared insane. Names of the supposed prisoners are kept secret.

Walking one afternoon with Munkacsy

in the lovely Duchy of Luxemburg years ago, the writer learned that day from the great artist that what a man sees depends upon what is within himself. It is not alone his eyes nor his ears that tell him things.

Munkacsy saw Nature and passing incidents around him with more than eyes, he saw with his soul. It was reflected in his face. So it is that there are those who commune with Nature with more faculties than the eyes, which simply tell us colors and shapes of flowers and leaves, but nothing of their melodies and harmonies. They will see the most without who have the most within.

A Correction

Though a splendid value which will give unquestioned service, we find by laboratory tests that the quality of the R & B Star Plate Wellesley pattern, silver-plated ware does not come up to the standard of quality for the grades quoted in our advertisement. The goods were not as represented to us and the inaccuracies arise from the existence of misleading price lists. We are, therefore, making refunds to those purchasers whose names we have and we ask those who paid cash and took the purchases with them to notify us.

If it were necessary to make laboratory tests of all merchandise received by us from responsible sources to make certain of the representations made, the cost of retailing would be increased enormously.

AMERICA NOW LEADS WORLD AS INVESTOR

Our Investments Abroad Have Mounted to $9,090,000,000, Exclusive of War Loans.

UP $1,000,000,000 IN 1924

Commerce Department Survey Estimates Liquor Smuggled In Last Year at $40,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Developments during the year 1924 put the United States in a stronger position than ever in international finance, and sent the country to the front as the world's greatest investor, according to a statement made today by Secretary of Commerce Hoover in a foreword to an analysis of the balance of international payments of the United States prepared by Dr. Rufus S. Tucker, former Assistant Chief of the Finance and Investment Bureau of the Department of Commerce.

Mr. Hoover points out that New York has made great strides forward toward the goal of becoming a competitor of London as the banking centre of the world, asserting that today "the dollar is widely used as a basis for international transactions even where the United States is not directly concerned, whereas ten years ago the New York foreign exchange market was comparatively insignificant and the nation was heavily indebted to Europe."

Dr. Tucker, in this connection, states that developments show that the United States has outgrown its former condition as a debtor nation, "and is now able to enter the money markets of the world on equal terms with Great Britain and other lending nations."

The survey, which was begun as a Government document while Dr. Tucker was an expert of the Department of Commerce, goes in great detail into all phases of visible and "invisible" transactions concerning which competent information was obtainable.

Vast Investments Abroad.

Among the interesting points developed is that American investments abroad, exclusive of the wartime loans extended by this Government, have mounted to $9,090,000,000, and that interest and profits to the American investors on these investments approximated $600,000,000 in 1924. The tremendous increase in such foreign investments is best illustrated by the statement that prior to the World War the United States was a debtor nation, its foreign investments being not more than about $2,600,000,000. Investments in the United States by foreigners were then far in excess of this amount.

American investments abroad at the end of 1924 showed an increase of almost $1,000,000,000, as compared with the total at the end of 1923, which was estimated at $8,105,000,000, which returned interest and profits of about $567,000,000. These figures are in addition to the war-time loans of the United States to the allied nations.

| Region. | Govt. Obligat'ns | Indus.Sec. Direct Invest's | Total. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Latin America | 340 | 3,200 | 4,040 |
| Europe | 1,500 | 400 | 1,900 |
| Asia and Oceania | 440 | 250 | 690 |

In the analysis the international payments for 1924 are made almost to strike a balance, the favorable item of $970,000,000 representing the excess of merchandise exported by the United States over merchandise imported, being overcome by the flow of American capital abroad and various other invisible items by about $212,000,000. But this was again overcome by increase in unfunded credit balances of $216,000,000, representing foreigners' bank deposits in the United States. Thus a favorable balance of $4,000,000 is left up.

In arriving at a favorable merchandise balance of $970,000,000 for the year the department includes among imports $40,000,000 worth of smuggled liquors. Exports of silver were greater than imports, but the imports of gold amounted to $320,000,000, while exports of gold were only $62,000,000. These are known as "visible" exports and imports.

"Invisible Items" Against Us.

The foreign trade of the country also includes "invisible items," to which Secretary Hoover refers in his foreword as follows:

"Parallel with this movement of actual commodities are what have been termed in this summary the 'current invisible items,' amounts paid out in foreign countries through our tourists, through remittances of immigrants, through payments for foreign shipping and services of one kind or another, a total of $1,178,000,000. On the other hand, we received interest on money owed to us by foreign individuals and concerns and by foreign Governments, together with payments for the use of our ships by foreigners and expenditures of foreigners in the United States, amounting to approximately $790,000,000. Therefore on these items of current invisible exchange we had a net balance against us of $388,000,000.

"If, now, we put together the 'favorable' balance on merchandise and the adverse balance on invisible items, we find that our 'favorable' balance on current transactions is reduced to $582,000,000. Of precious metals, we exported $172,000,000 and imported $394,000,000, or we received a net balance of $222,000,000 in gold and silver. This again reduces the 'favorable' balance, this time to $360,000,000.

"During the year there were large movements of capital. In these movements foreigners apparently bought $319,000,000 of securities in our markets, paid off in cash $45,000,000 of maturing bonds, and discharged $23,000,000 of the principal of debts owing to our Government—a total of $387,000,000.

Investments Abroad Offset Here.

"On the other hand, our citizens bought in the market $114,000,000 of foreign bonds and subscribed $795,000,000 for new foreign issues in this country, besides reimporting about $50,000,000 of American currency. In other words, we invested abroad during the year $672,000,000 more than we received from foreign investors. This would give us a net adverse balance on all accounts of $212,000,000 were it not for the fact that many foreigners—both those who borrowed from us and others—increased their deposits in our banks. The increase in deposits actually reported by sixty-eight large banks was almost exactly equivalent to this estimated adverse balance."

"It is impossible to state in one figure the net result from the year's transactions. The outstanding fact is that we got goods and services that we wanted in exchange for goods and services that foreigners wanted. Americans were so prosperous that they could spend $600,000,000 in foreign travel, largely for pleasure, and could give $55,000,000 or more for philanthropic purposes, besides the $300,000,000 sent abroad by foreign-born residents mainly for the support of friends and relatives. This money was not derived from capital but from current income, for the market value of foreign bonds issued or purchased in this country exceeded the amount sold to foreigners or repaid at maturity (including bonds held by the United States Treasury) by about $55,000,000, and the net imports of gold and currency (both of which are in the nature of capital investments although yielding no interest) amounted to about $308,000,000."

$40,000,000 in Liquor Smuggled In.

In discussing the movement of merchandise last year Dr. Tucker says:

"The chief unreported item of imports is smuggled liquors. Estimates of this vary widely. After a careful study of the recorded exports, imports and consumption of liquors in neighboring countries it was estimated that the amount smuggled into the United States in 1923 was at least $30,000,000. This estimate made allowance for liquor illegally manufactured in neighboring countries and sold here, nor did it include the profits of the bootleggers.

"It is believed that the amount due to foreigners on this account in 1924 was somewhat greater, as the number of foreign ships lying off the coast was larger, and it was not until late in the year that the Coast Guard was able to picket them with much success. Consequently, the sum of $40,000,000 is entered on this account. In the opinion of officials connected with the customs service this is a low estimate.

"During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1924, the aggregate weight of parcel post dispatched to foreign countries was 43,779,512 pounds. If the value per pound was the same as disclosed by an investigation in May, 1923, in the New York Post Office, and if the total for the calendar year was the same as for the fiscal year, the total value, excluding gifts, would be over $52,000,000, of which $30,000,000 is included in the official returns. For this reason $30,000,000 should be added to the recorded exports for the purpose of this study."

ZIONIST SHIP SAILS AFTER DELAY IN RIVER

President Arthur Carries Widow of Compiler of the Modern Hebrew Dictionary.

The President Arthur of the American Palestine Line sailed yesterday afternoon on her second trip to the Near East, via Italy and Egypt, with 200 passengers in the first and second cabins. The vessel was scheduled to leave her pier at the foot of West Forty-sixth Street at 11 A. M. but did not move out until 12:30. She remained at anchor in the river off West Fifty-third Street for four hours to finish loading her freight, and proceeded to sea at 4:30, bearing the Zionist houseflag at her starboard mast head.

The President Arthur had a new Captain, Walter L. McLean, in place of Captain W. J. Breen, who was in charge on the first voyage.

One of the passengers was Mrs. Hemda Ben-Yehuda, wife of the late Ben-Yehuda, whose dictionary of modern Hebrew is the standard compilation of the ancient language adapted to modern use.

"Between us we have given ninety years to the work," she said. "He gave twenty-two years and I did likewise. My husband worked upon the task up to his death One midnight in December, 1922, he put down his pen, the work completed, and an hour and a half later he died."

Mrs. Ben-Yehuda said she had come to America to supervise the printing of the work, of which seven volumes are now off the press and three more are to be finished by 1926. She has been assisted in the publication of the books, she said, by the financial aid of Nathan Straus, Felix Warburg, Louis Marshall, and other well known Jewish philanthropists.

NEW INJUNCTION FIGHT OPENS IN COAL STRIKE

First West Virginia Union Miner Is Arrested Since Court Upheld 'Peaceful Persuasion.'

WHEELING, W. Va., May 11.—The West Virginia-Pittsburgh Coal Company entered application in Federal Court today for a new injunction to restrain the United Mine Workers of America from organizing activities in the Panhandle coal region, where a strike is on.

In addition the company asked a writ of error on Judge W. E. Baker's recent ruling, which upheld the union's contention of the right to organize by "peaceable persuasion." Judge Baker announced that arguments would be heard Wednesday.

Nick Manas, a union miner, was arrested today by State Police, charged with intent to assault workers as they entered the mine of the Constanza Coal Company. The arrest was the first to be made in connection with picketing activities started by the union in the Pan-Handle Coal District following the decision on "peaceful persuasion."

BOSTON ARRESTED 79,448.

29,304 Aliens and 21,263 Non-Residents Accused in 1924.

BOSTON, May 11 (A. P.).—The greater part of the crime committed in Boston is the work of aliens or of non-residents, according to statistics compiled by the police and revealed today. Of 79,448 persons arrested here last year 50,567 were either non-residents or aliens.

Aliens arrested numbered 29,304 and non-residents 21,263. In 17 arrests for murder, 10 were aliens and 5 were non-residents. All those arrested for gun carrying, flag-law violation and bribery were aliens or non-residents.

Two Girl Stowaways Found When Ship Is Two Days at Sea

A radio message received yesterday at the office of the Swedish-American Line, 21 State Street, from Captain Anderberg of the steamship Drottningholm, which sailed Saturday for Gothenburg, stated that two young women from New Jersey had stowed away on the ship. They are Sigrid Hendel, 17, living with her father, Oscar Hendel, at the Washington Apartments, Tenafly, and Dorothy Reilly, daughter of Mrs. Anna Reilly of Maple Street, Englewood.

Last year the Hendel girl made a trip to Sweden with her family on the Drottningholm and got to know the people on the ship. When the two girls went on board Saturday to say good-bye to some friends who were sailing, they suddenly decided to make the trip as stowaways.

Their parents have been notified and are arranging with the steamship company to pay the fares of the young women both ways.

GOLDMAN ACCUSES MAYOR OF ANIMUS

HYLAN PRAISES PROGRAM

Mrs. Zilberman Says the Fight for the Guggenheim Concerts Will Be Kept Up.

City Chamberlain Berolzheimer's announcement of the city parks music schedule for the Summer, omitting the Goldman Band concerts, drew forth several statements yesterday. There was one by Edwin Franko Goldman, director of the Goldman Band, in which he said his exclusion was in line with Mr. Berolzheimer's threat to "break" him. There was another by Mrs. Bella Zilberman, Chairman of the Citizens' Committee which has obtained many signatures to petitions to restore the Goldman concerts, in which she replied to Mr. Berolzheimer's statement that her group had selfish motives.

A letter from Mayor Hylan to Chamberlain Berolzheimer on park music was given out at City Hall. The Mayor praised his associate for devising "the greatest program of free musical entertainment ever sponsored by a city administration."

Mr. Goldman's statement reads in part:

"Mr. Berolzheimer is not stating the actual facts when he says the real objection to our concerts is that they do not want any one organization to monopolize the Mall. And he knows down deep in his heart that this is not the reason. That is only his excuse to the public. Has he forgotten the statement which he made to the papers in March when this controversy started in which he said 'I gave the Guggenheims the option of eliminating Goldman'? The Guggenheims were unwilling to eliminate me, and that was one of the prime reasons that negotiations for the Central Park concerts could not be properly concluded. The Chamberlain had said time and again that 'they want me, and that I could do nothing in New York without the Mayor. Mayor Hylan said only recently that 'Goldman could not give concerts in any park or any public building in New York while I am Mayor.'

"The Mayor and the Chamberlain seem to think that 'might makes right,' but I maintain that 'right makes might.' No matter what they say or do they cannot alter the facts, and these facts as yet during the past nine weeks, that the whole trouble dates back to June, 1924, when they tried to confiscate our programs and substitute others calling the concerts 'Mayor Hylan People's Concerts.' They were unsuccessful in the attempt and were bitterly denounced by the press and public. They blame me for this, and I am perfectly willing to take the blame.

Public Not to Be Fooled, He Says.

"If they wanted to call the concerts 'Mayor Hylan People's Concerts' why didn't they suggest it to the Guggenheims when the gift was accepted? The public is not going to be fooled in this issue by misstatements. They know the facts! We were not interested in the gift of the Mall in Central Park for separate concerts without a definite aim. We established a permanent organization for the giving of a full season of educational concerts. When we started this series in 1918 we were quite alone in the field and the fine stadium concerts were established soon thereafter.

"The Mayor in his letter of acceptance last year accepted the gift on the basis of five concerts a week in Central Park and was high in his praise of what the Guggenheims had offered. As a matter of fact, Mr. Berolzheimer was very anxious for me to try to arrange to give seven concerts a week."

Mrs. Zilberman said the work for the Goldman concerts would be kept up and her organization made a permanent one. Her statement said in part:

"Chamberlain in his statements given out to the morning papers refers to the Citizens Committee on Music as having selfish motives and as being agitators. I should like to tell the Chamberlain that he never in his life saw a more unselfish body of men and women than this committee. They have no personal axes to grind and are not interested in politics. All they want is the continuance of the Goldman band concerts.

Fighting for Goldman Concerts.

"We are fighting for the Goldman band concerts because they had a definite educational mission and also because they entertained the public. The program schedule prepared by Mr. Goldman was one that made its appeal to everybody. He learned through years of study and work just how to prepare his programs. Sixty definite programs with many special features was a gigantic task to prepare, and anybody who remembers the varied program schedules that were sent out to advertise each season will realize what is to be lost if these concerts are discontinued.

"Mr. Berolzheimer announces massed bands, choral singing, &c., all of which Goldman has been doing for years. I notice that several of the conductors who are to appear this Summer are members of the Mayor Hylan People's Concerts Committee. Our Citizens Committee does not belong to any orchestra or any conductor. We wish that Mr. Berolzheimer's list were five times as large, but we also want the Goldman band concerts continued as a series."

"It is very gratifying to read your announcement of the action of the Mayor's Committee on Music and the Park Board to conduct the greatest program of free musical entertainment ever sponsored by a City Administration," said the Mayor's letter to the Chamberlain. Adding that the list of leaders was an impressive one, the Mayor continued: "I heartily congratulate you and your committee on the excellence of the program offered.

"I feel that your announcement of a diversified program of musical entertainment will meet with the widest public approval, not alone because of its demonstration that the parks still belong to the people, but also because it recognizes that talent in the musical world is not the monopoly of any one man but may be found among those who lead their bands well at all times and in all places."

It was announced yesterday from the office of L. Lawrence Weber, theatrical manager, that Park Commissioner Gallatin has arranged for a free concert on the Mall in Central Park next Sunday afternoon by The Ambassadors, a dance and concert orchestra. The vocalists will be Ethel Sweet and John Boles. Louis Katzman, conductor of the orchestra, has arranged a program featuring the last works of Victor Herbert.

Woman Tells Methodists 'Ladies Aid' And Politics Are Humiliating Preachers

Dorothy Walworth Carman, author of "Faith of Our Fathers," the book about a Methodist minister which has caused considerable dissension among Methodists, was a guest at the monthly luncheon of the Monday Club at the Madison Square Hotel yesterday, speaking in defense of her book. The Monday Club is a group of prominent Methodist ministers in New York and neighboring cities whose announced aim is to bring about a clearer understanding between the clergy and the congregation.

Some of the members of the club were said to be opposed to the book because of its treatment of church politics and the charge that the pastors often are subjected to crushing hardships.

Mrs. Carman, whose father and grandfather were both Methodist ministers, the former the Rev. Charles H. Walworth of the M. E. Church of Maplewood, N. J., spoke on all the subjects of attack and answered freely all inquiries regarding the details of her work. She quoted from the biography of her grandfather, written by her father, which disclosed something of the hardship endured by three generations ago, because of cliques and politics.

"Let no man say that such conditions may have existed in my grandfather's time but do not exist now," said Mrs. Carman. "Churches and salaries are a little larger, but so are expenses. Each year still the coming of annual conference gives a tragic intensity to the life of the minister in the small parish.

"The humiliations and indignities endured by ministers from their congregations are the same as ever, owing to the unaltered parsonage system. Just the other day, a short distance from New York City, a Methodist minister in a country parish went and bought his own dining room carpet without taking a member of the Ladies' Aid along. The Ladies' Aid thereupon came to the parsonage and took it away from him. 'The nerve of him!' they said. Why should a minister of God be subject to a Ladies' Aid? Why cannot that be changed? Whatever the minister does, some one could have told him how to do better.

"There is a certain cheap and easy criticism of my book which has been made—namely, that it is a story of my father's life. That is not true. My father was happy and contented, and finished his life as the free pastor of a most desirable appointment. I have no axe to grind. But if Methodism is going to be spiritually successful, it must hearken to the voice of truth and must right the wrongs I have pointed out in my book. Membership and budgets may grow with conditions in the Church as they are, but the Church cannot grow in spirituality until it shows a clean heart and a right spirit.

"We have a false standard of success in the Church today. As long as we accumulate more nose and more money, we think we are making the Kingdom Come on earth. I have pointed out certain defects in the Church machine and the Church should not draw its robes close and seek to cover the spot or deny it altogether. There is no earthly reason why any one should not criticise a man-made system."

ELEVATOR BANDITS GET $1,089 PAYROLL

THREATENED WITH PISTOL

Robbers Greet Starter as They Leave Building and Disappear in Seventh Avenue Crowd.

Midway between the seventeenth and eighteenth floors of a twenty-story loft building at 330 Seventh Avenue, a block and a half from the West Thirtieth Street Police Station, the elevator operator and two bank messengers from Buchberg & Adelman, furriers, were held up by two armed bandits yesterday and the messengers robbed of the firm's payroll, amounting to $1,089. The bandits then calmly ran the elevator back to the eleventh floor, threw out the messengers and the operator, continued their journey to the ground floor and walked out of the building, after cordially passing the time of day with the elevator starter.

The messengers, Charles Weissberg and Manny Badkis, cashed the payroll check at the Netherlands Bank, 41 West Thirty-fourth Street. Weissberg carried the money in a large envelope in his inside coat pocket, and the two walked back to the loft building where the firm has offices on the twentieth floor.

They entered an express elevator that already contained several passengers, and two young men crowded in behind them. The elevator operator, Arnold Schneider of 38 Bartlett Street, Brooklyn, made several stops to let passengers off, and when the seventeenth floor was reached there remained only the operator, the two messengers and the two men who had followed them.

One of the bandits grabbed the elevator control. The other produced a revolver, ordered Schneider and the messenger to a corner of the car, and reached into Weissberg's pocket and took the envelope containing the money.

The sureness with which the bandits carried out their work indicated clearly that they had followed the messengers from the bank and were fully aware that Weissberg carried the money.

The elevator was then run back to the eleventh floor where the messengers and Schneider were put out. The bandit slammed the door and ran the car down to the ground floor.

When Charles Marlin, the elevator starter, saw the bandits emerge from the car and noticed that the operator was not at his post he asked what had happened.

Oh, he stopped off at the fifth floor and asked us to run the car down for him. Good morning", one of the men replied as the two walked out the door and disappeared in the throng of pedestrians on the street.

MAN BEATEN AND ROBBED.

Police Find Clerk in Empty Lot—$1,000 of Employers' Money Gone.

Samuel Sanders of 751 East 178th Street, the Bronx, a clerk employed at the New System Department Store, 182 Grand Street, Brooklyn, was attacked and beaten into insensibility shortly after he left the store yesterday morning to deposit $1,000 of the company's money in the State Bank of Williamsburg.

He was found unconscious in a vacant lot at Avenue Z and East Fourth Street, Sheepshead Bay, by Patrolman Edward Logonasi, who summoned an ambulance from the Coney Island Hospital. It was said last night that his condition was critical.

When questioned by the police at the hospital Sanders said that he remembered vaguely crossing Bedford Avenue, when he saw two men step out of an automobile and felt something strike him on the head. The next he remembered, he said, was being treated by a doctor. He was unable to give a description of his assailants. The money he carried was missing when he was found.

WOMAN GETS WIDOW'S $120.

Blond Bobbed-Hair Bandit Beats Storekeeper and Robs Safe.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMDEN, N. J., May 11.—Mrs. Margaret Sinclair, 34, a widow, who conducts a grocery store at 3,306 Federal Street, was beaten by a woman bandit in her store this afternoon and robbed of $120.

The woman robber drove up in an automobile and ordered $20 worth of groceries. She tendered a large banknote in payment and Mrs. Sinclair went to a rear room to get change. She was reaching into a safe when she was struck on the head from behind and fell senseless to the floor. The woman bandit then robbed the safe and locked the door as she left the room. When Mrs. Sinclair recovered in about fifteen minutes, she called from a side window to James Hendricks, a neighbor who released her and gave an alarm.

The woman bandit was described as being fashionably dressed, with blond bobbed hair. "She was the last person on earth I would have taken for a bandit, so refined," Mrs. Sinclair declared.

Fewer Hold-Ups in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—Comparative police records for the first four months of 1925 and the same period in the two preceding years, made public today, revealed a 50 per cent. decrease in hold-ups in this city so far this year compared with last year, and a 60 2-3 per cent. decrease compared with 1923. General Smedley D. Butler, Director of Public Safety, was pleased.

JAIL DECREE FACED BY BEROLZHEIMER

Chamberlain Is Adjudged in Contempt for Failing to Make Same Payment Twice.

TELLS TROUBLE TO MAYOR

Court Decision Gives Alternative of Losing $2,199—In Favor of Simpler Laws, He Says.

Adjudged in contempt of court by five Appellate Division Justices because he failed to pay a sum of money in the city's behalf to the administrator of an estate after he had paid it, as he averred, to the heir, City Chamberlain Philip Berolzheimer yesterday wrote to Mayor Hylan that he was confronted by the alternative either of paying the money out of his own pocket or going to jail. His letter said:

"On Jan. 31, 1921, Hon. Edward R. Finch, Justice of the Supreme Court in the County of New York, signed an order directing the Chamberlain of the City of New York to pay to Harry E. Montes the sum of $1,628.99, plus interest, or a total of $2,199.98 in the action of Youngs vs. Goodman, in connection with the share of Harry E. Montes and Louise Montes, his wife, in some real property in New York County. This was a modification of a former order of July 22, 1912, to pay to Louise Montes, his wife, who never collected the same and after her death her husband obtained this order above referred to.

"On Feb. 7, 1921, I mailed a check for the above amount to W. W. Westervelt, 150 Broadway, attorney for the petitioner. After this payment was made by me in accordance with the order of court, a new action was started in the same court by Walter Herbert, administrator, &c., claiming that the money should have been paid to him as administrator of the estate of Louise Montes and not to Harry Montes. The new application was argued before Justice Davis, who decided that the payment by me to Harry Montes, in accordance with the decision of Justice Finch, was a valid payment and dismissed the proceeding.

"Then an appeal was taken from that decision to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court and the decision of Justice Davis was reversed, declaring that, a new proceeding was brought before Justice Delehanty for an order to compel me to make payment to the administrator. That motion was denied by Justice Delehanty, but on an appeal from this decision to the Appellate Division they reversed Justice Delehanty and directed that I pay the money.

"Then the next move was an application by the administrator for the Controller of the City of New York to make this payment, in accordance with Chapter 186 of the Laws of 1908, inasmuch as I could not make it twice the Controller refused the demand.

"The next proceeding was to punish me for contempt before Justice Bijur. Justice Bijur granted the motion. The Corporation Counsel appealed to the Appellate Division and the opinion of Justice Bijur was sustained, except that Justice Burr dissented. The other Justices were Clarke, Dowling, Merrell and McAvoy, who affirmed the decision of Justice Bijur, holding me in contempt.

"Mr. Lewy, attorney for the administrator, is expected to grant me a few days' leave until we have an opportunity to appeal to the Court of Appeals in Albany direct for a rehearing of this matter. If the Court of Appeals refuses a rehearing, it is optional with me to either pay the amount in question out of my own pocket or go to Ludlow Street Jail until the money is paid.

"I am in favor of simpler laws."

SEEK RED-HAIRED BANDIT.

Holds Up Cigar and Milk Stores With Another Man—Get $407.

A red-haired bandit who scorned any disguise and even made himself more conspicuous by not wearing a hat, with a companion, figured in two daylight hold-ups yesterday, when the United Cigar Store at 181st Street and St. Nicholas Avenue and the branch store of the Sheffield Farms Company at 805 Ninth Avenue, near Fifty-fourth Street, were robbed. The two robberies netted the bandits $407, $150 being obtained from the cigar store and $257 from the dairy, while $7 was taken from the pocket of David W. Dobson, the dairy manager. This was the fourth time the dairy was robbed.

One of the men entered the cigar store, asked for some merchandise and when the clerk turned to get it the second bandit came in. Both produced revolvers, the clerk was ordered to put up his hands and walk into the back of the store. Then the cash register was opened, the money taken and the bandits walked out to an automobile waiting at the curb, which carried them out of sight.

The same procedure was followed at the dairy. A customer who entered was served with a bottle of milk by one of the bandits.

The dairy robbery occurred one hour after the cigar store hold-up, while police were searching for the two men whose descriptions had been sent out from the Wadsworth Avenue Station.

Accident Nets Bride and $6,500.

Joseph Doyle of 1,050 Madison Avenue, the Bronx, President of the Standard Color and Chemical Works of this city, received $6,500 in a settlement before Justice James C. Cropsey in the Queens Supreme Court yesterday in an action to recover $50,000 from the Norden Electric Sign Company. Doyle was passing the corner of Forty-third Street and Broadway in 1923 when a sign owned by the Norden company fell on him and severely injured him. While in the hospital Doyle was nursed by Miss May Farris, who later married him.

EXCLUDE WARSHIPS FROM ARMS CONTROL

Conference Committee Also Favor Exemption of Aircraft and Revolvers.

TANKS RETAINED ON LIST

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, May 11.—A proposal made by the American representatives of the technical committee on military and naval air problems at the Arms Traffic Conference to remove revolvers from the weapons in category of the list of controlled arms, munitions and implements of war was passed unanimously today. This means that manufacturers will not have to obtain the authorization of their Government to sell revolvers to foreign Governments and that they can trade freely with foreign nationals.

The proposals made on Friday by Great Britain and Japan for the exclusion of warships, submarines, airplanes, seaplanes and airships from controlled material in category were passed by a small majority, the United States delegation voting affirmatively.

A proposal by Italy for the exclusion of tanks was defeated, the United States voting affirmatively.

An Italian proposal for the exclusion of armored trains was tied three times, 12 to 12, the United States voting affirmatively.

A proposal by the United States delegates to interpolate in the definition of arms the words "designed for use in land, naval and air warfare" was passed.

Turkish Proposal Is Opposed.

The effort of some nations to turn the meeting into a conference for freedom of traffic in arms continued. On Saturday the General Committee adopted the principle of freedom of exportation with exceptions. Today the conference discussed an amendment by the Turkish delegate, it is obligatory for the Government to issue licenses to manufacturers to sell arms to any recognized Governments.

In placing the amendments before the committee the President gently spanked it by saying:

"The committee, in adopting the principle of freedom, to expose already has decided the principle of the matter."

The Turkish delegate said, however:

"The amendment which we propose has for its object the absolute obligation for Governments to grant a license without any other condition than that exposed to be on behalf of a Government which is duly recognized as such. If you attempt to subordinate authorization to the good-will of the exporting country you will be imposing a condition which is much too onerous and which is incompatable with the security of a non-producing country. It is most important that a non-producing sovereign State should be at any time in position to provide freely for its own means of defense.

"I repeat, and cannot overemphasize, that the security of a country must not depend on the good-will of another country."

The Japanese delegate called attention to a resolution by Brazil on the "necessity of adequately guaranteeing that permission to export arms was intended for a Government previously constituted and juridically recognized as such may be refused only on legitimate grounds recognized by international law and duly stated."

It appeared to be a legitimate preoccupation, the Japanese delegate said, and he declared that unless satisfaction were given it was possible that many countries would find themselves unable to participate fully in the convention which it was proposed to conclude.

Brazilian View of Question.

Admiral Souza E. Silva of Brazil said Brazilians never intended to impose obligation of exportation on any country, and it was obvious that a country had complete right to refuse to grant exportation. This discretionary right, however, should not be abused. It should be exercised only on legitimate grounds recognized by international law and duly stated, such as existing treaties, existing internal political situation, and that the Government should publicly declare these grounds.

M. Clauzel, France, and M. Hennings, Sweden, said that the matter be referred to the Legal Committee. M. Hennings pointed out that in many countries there was already a system of licensing exports by which the Government was able to regulate the export of arms and other merchandise. If the principle of certain obligations on the part of a Government to export were laid down the conference thereby would be prejudicing rights which Governments already possessed.

The amendment was referred to the Legal Committee after the President had said:

"It is clear that no delegation desires to impose absolute obligation on a producing country to authorize exportation of arms. It is not considered a binding obligation. But on the other hand some delegations are of the opinion that the Government of a producing country cannot refuse licenses except under certain conditions."

Defends Latin-American Nations.

On the question of defining "government," Dr. Guerrero, from Salvador, declared that despite opinion to the contrary the Latin-American countries had passed through the dangerous period and entered the period of consolidation and final peacefulness, whereas in other countries efforts were still being made to disturb security and peace by introducing certain ideas which by their very nature could not be imposed by force or argument. In such countries there might be a legitimate Government based on principles or order and another leading to new systems of social order.

"Would not we be morally responsible for the tragic consequences which would arise if we permitted the sale of war implements to the new Government which was constituted at the same time as the legitimate Government on the same territory?" he asked.

The Brazilian delegate observed that this was perhaps the most important point of international law. For this reason he had tried to avoid defining a legal Government and had said "A Government previously constituted and juridically recognized as such."

The French delegate insisted that it was a legal problem which was not within the competence of the General Committee and should be sent to the Legal Committee.

The Chinese delegate said it was a point of international law which had better come before the next assembly.

The Uruguay delegate insisted that the present wording of the article would permit several Governments in the same country to receive arms, as a Government needed only to be recognized by the exporting Government.

Dr. von Eckhardt of Germany said his personal experience was that not only could there be two but three Governments in a country. Also there could be a semi-recognized Government.

The delegates of England, Spain and Turkey asked that the matter be referred to the Legal Committee, which was done in the following form:

"The General Committee, agreeing that the question of the right of acquiring implements of war is only the right of legitimate Governments, and that the existence in the same State of two Governments, which would both be legitimate, is impossible, decides to refer Paragraph 1 of the amendment to the Legal Committee."

To Reopen Brooklyn Bridge To Passenger Autos Today

Brooklyn Bridge will be open to passenger automobile traffic for the first time since 1922, beginning at 10 o'clock this morning.

This announcement was made yesterday by William Wirt Mills, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, who said the bridge was now equipped with the first smooth modern pavement it had ever had.

The roadways will be open to all horse-drawn vehicles and to motor-driven passenger vehicles, mail trucks and newspaper delivery trucks. Commercial traffic will be barred and motor buses and sightseeing cars will not be allowed to cross the bridge.

It is expected that there will be an appreciable reduction in the traffic on Manhattan Bridge.

MOTORS TAKE LEAD IN STIRRING MARKET

NASH ADVANCES 19 POINTS

Sales of 288,500 Shares of Willys-Overland Common Compose 17% of Exchange Turnover.

Rumors of larger dividends to stockholders by various automobile companies, coupled with unconfirmed reports of a merger or so "on the fire," and with a general background of reports of prosperity from the Michigan and Ohio motor manufacturing centres, caused a boiling market in the shares of the leading companies yesterday. Reports from these centres were to the effect that most of the big companies were operating at full time or were planning to go on full time within the next few days, and that the output of the majority of them was sold for a considerable time ahead.

The Spring season and the opening of the roads in all parts of the country have brought orders for new cars in rapid fashion. This is reflected also in the demand for rubber, steel, leather and other materials which go into the manufacture of a car. It also is evident in the accessory industry.

There were many features in the trading in the motor group on the Stock Exchange yesterday. One was the heavy turnover in Willys-Overland common, which aggregated 288,500 shares, or 17 per cent. of the entire turnover on the Exchange. The advance in this stock was due to reports that the accumulated dividends on the preferred would soon be entirely discharged, leaving the common free for dividend action.

Another feature was the Exchange's highest priced motor stock, Nash Motors, which advanced to 374, up 19 points for the day. The trade has a story that this stock is to be split up on the basis of ten shares of new stock for one of the old. Trading was especially active in the new Dodge common and preferred issues. The common advanced one point to 26 and the preferred 1¼ points to 79. At their combined prices at the close the two stocks were selling at 105. One share of preferred with a bonus share of common was recently sold by subscription by the bankers who purchased the company, at 100.

The record of trading in the motor shares on the Stock Exchange and on the Curb yesterday was as follows:

WILLYS-OVERLAND PLANS.

Proposal to Pay Accrued Dividends on Preferred Is Expected.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Ohio, May 11.—A definite plan of paying off accrued dividends on preferred stock of the Willys-Overland Company is to be reported to the Board of Directors following the annual stockholders' meeting here tomorrow, it was intimated tonight by President John N. Willys. Dividends amounting to $20 per share had accumulated on the 7 per cent. preferred stock prior to the current quarter, which

THE LOVES OF LULU, a play in a prologue and four acts, from the German of Frank Wedekind, translated by Samuel A. Eliot, Jr. At the Forty-ninth Street Theatre.

What there is of genius and effectiveness in Wedekind's tragedy of "Erdgeist" pretty much disappeared last night at the Forty-ninth Street Theatre. Between the actors and the audience the event was almost always howlingly disastrous. With the exception of Ullrich Haupt, who was competent and in good routine, at least, and now and then Sidney Paxton's Schigolch, the acting was almost equally and comically bad. Mr. Haupt in his directing was on the right track, considering the particular character of the play; but the style or method that he tried to put into the actors left them worse off than ever, perhaps. At any rate, the lines of the play and the interworking of the motivations went hopelessly wrong nearly always and were greeted by an audience which protected itself from the brains and the evil of the drama by guffawing at every possible moment. It was a gala evening for the ironical fates that preside over stage fortunes.

There is a play of "Erdgeist" or "Earth Spirit," however, that Wedekind wrote in 1903 that we may consider briefly for its history and for its dramatic points. The history of Wedekind spells persecution, lawsuits, outlawry from respectable society, and a storm of abuse, accusations of degeneracy, every manner of actual attack. Wedekind died in 1918 and hardly a year had passed before his was the foremost name in the German theatre. With the collapse that followed the war, there came a state of mind that his drama expressed and intensified. The performances of his plays in Germany since the war have met with a profund response.

Students of the modern theatre may be interested to observe in this play of Wedekind's a forerunning of many of the characteristics of later writing. There are many predictions of the expressionistic drama in particular and many instances of psychological subtleties and shadings that are found more completely employed in later dramatists. About all this play and its performance last night it would be only too easy to be funny, but nothing could be written so funny as the event itself seems to be at the Forty-ninth Street Theatre; those who long to be amused may go there and laugh. It is more worth while to point out that the play is technically around a theme of the struggle between various wills and the sex attraction, personified in the woman. The attractions and repulsions of sex according to the courage, strength, humor, business, originality and control of men living in a hidebound society make up the erratic and headlong story that Wedekind has written.

In taste, in a sense of humor, in urbanity and finish and proportion the play comes a long way short. Many people will want to shoot somebody for permitting such a piece to be seen at all. On the side of positive virtues it is obvious that Wedekind exhibits in this drama a powerful and energizing gift, a view of life that is passionate, uncivilized and vehement, and shot through with strange and unforgettable surprises in subtlety and almost diabolical insight into the darker and more terrible obsessions of our natures.

"HIS QUEEN" A "ROMANCE."

HIS QUEEN—A play in four acts, by John Hastings Turner. At the Hudson Theatre.

|---|---|
| Jane Roper | Minnie Dupree |
| Stockie | Margot Lester |
| Maria Avilon | Francine Larrimore |
| James Gaut | Charles Brown |
| Teenie Clawson | Betty Nye |
| Dick Coleby | Harold West |
| Rev. Walter Prendergast | Frank Hubert |
| Arthrike Takarpoulos | Lumsden Hare |
| Countess Paryne Esmaros | Marion Vantine |
| Thales | Robert Warwick |
| Adeimon | Edward Emery |
| A Young Man | Francis X. Malloy |

There were, perhaps, the elements of an enjoyable play in last night's "His Queen" at the Hudson Theatre. What the audience was privileged to see, however, was an inept, sprawling, elliptical production, bafflingly called a fanciful romance, that achieved occasional melodramatic moments of attraction.

John Hastings Turner, the author, has chosen to deal with the not altogether unfamiliar idea of the middle-class girl suddenly turned queen of one of those McCutcheon kingdoms. In this case the young woman is informed of her sudden promotion immediately after her marriage to a floorwalker in Yonkers. Whereupon, of course, the succeeding acts show her, slenderly regal, as she rules over her people, learns that her husband is a floorwalker born and bred who will never make an appropriate royal consort, and dies of a revolutionary bullet just as she has pathetically learned that love for each other has come into her heart and that of the leader of the rebels.

Francine Larrimore is the star of the play and is at all times mistress of it. She is adequately cunning and appealing as the new-made queen. Why she has chosen to play in it at all is a little difficult to guess, save it be the lure of the second-act coronet—many a lesser actress would be able without difficulty to give the rôle what it demands. Robert Warwick, the featured player, is wasted on a second-rate stencil.

Minnie Dupree and Edward Emery, it is probably not surprising to learn, are excellent in their rôles. Miss Dupree's part, moreover, contained all the little good writing that went into the play.

OBJECTS TO FOSDICK AS BAPTIST PASTOR

Orthodox Members Don't Want Him, Says Dr. Haldeman Regarding Park Avenue Report.

Reports yesterday that the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick was likely to be the next pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist Church at Sixty-fourth Street, of which John D. Rockefeller Jr. is a trustee, brought forth a statement from the Rev. Dr. I. M. Haldeman, for the last forty-one years pastor of the First Baptist Church, Broadway and Seventy-ninth Street, that the orthodox Baptists did not want Dr. Fosdick in an active Baptist pastorate.

It is expected that Dr. Fosdick will succeed the Rev. Dr. Cornelius Woelfkin, who last Sunday read his resignation from the Park Avenue pulpit, to take effect next January, on the completion of forty years in the ministry.

"Each church in our denomination is an independent body," said Dr. Haldeman last evening. "So if the Park Avenue Church wants that kind of a man [meaning Dr. Fosdick] it can have him. "General opinion in the Baptist denomination is against Dr. Fosdick. I oppose him as dangerous because he uses orthodox phrases which he does not mean. And he repudiates what the denomination stands for."

Neither Dr. Woelfkin nor Dr. Fosdick could be reached last evening. Dr. Woelfkin was in Rochester, N. Y., lecturing at the Theological Seminary, where before coming to the "Rockefeller" church he was a professor. Dr. Fosdick was traveling between St. Louis, where he preached last Sunday, and Rochester.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

Strange Characters.

THE TALKER, with Anna Q. Nilsson, Lewis S. Stone, Shirley Mason, Ian Keith, Tully Marshall, Barbara Bedford, Harold Goodwin, Gertrude Short, Lydia Yeamans Titus, Cecille Evans, Charles West and R. H. Calvert, written by Marion Fairfax, directed by Alfred E. Green; overtures, excerpts from "Il Trovatore"; Joseph Plunkett's presentation of songs and dances, "At Versailles"; "Beaks and Bills," a natural history subject. At the Mark Strand.

Sitting through the screening of "The Talker," the new production at the Mark Strand, is like being forced to listen to some garrulous person who strategically staves off all interruptions. One is, therefore, relieved when Joseph Plunkett's surrounding program is on the stage, in spite of such capable players as Lewis Stone, Anna Q. Nilsson, Ian Keith, Tully Marshall, Barbara Bedford and Shirley Mason.

The characters are a weird group. They include Harry Lennox, a well-dressed nonentity; his wife, Kate, who preaches what she can't understand; Ruth Lennox, Harry's sister, a susceptible weakling; Ned Hollister, a despicable scoundrel; Lonnie Whinston, a thick-headed bumpkin; Barbara Farley, a callous little flirt, and Henry Fells, an old gander, who staggers around after a thimbleful of whisky.

Kate is the "talker," who pens articles on "freedom" for women. She insists that women should have three husbands, one to support them, one to manage their households and a third to entertain them. Harry comes home and is annoyed because dinner is not ready. He looks to be quite a successful business man, as he wears well-tailored suits and expensive neckties. While giving some attention to the meat in the oven Kate asks her husband whether he had "got his raise." He replies in the affirmative and says that he has paid off the last instalment due on their house.

After that Fells is introduced. He is told by his plump wife to go and buy some things at the grocery. As he has spent all the money he had with him that day he goes to see his friend Lennox, from whom he borrows $2, with which he is able, through some mysterious means, to purchase a pint of whisky. He is later seen staggering up the stairs of his home.

Then one sees Ruth receiving Lonnie, and a little later Ned Hollister arrives at the house in his big touring car. Ruth appears to be more partial to Ned, with the result that Ned says to Lonnie: "Can't you take 'no' for an answer, you boob?"

Kate and Ruth both decide to go out in quest of old Fells, leaving Harry, who in it about stocks and bonds and "gentlemen bandits" of Wall Street trimming a "poor boob."

O'Hara, in the stellar rôle of Peter Quilt, a multi-millionaire, formerly a plumber of Troy, N. Y., radiated through the play with his breezy jovial manner and infectious smile, and now and then when the action seemed to lag he would burst into song. In the first act he hummed "Always," in Love with Someone" as he repaired a radiator in his office with a gold-plated plumbers' outfit just because his new stenographer, Mary Green, was suffering from cold feet.

But his stenographer was in reality Marie Lamb, the daughter of Van Cortland Lamb, a Wall Street capitalist, who was plotting to fleece the former plumber out of $7,000,000. At Van Cortland Lamb's home on Fifth Avenue, in the second act, that another opportunity was given for O'Hara to sing. This was one of the brightest spots in the play, especially when the Irish tenor sang "Mother Asthore." Miss Dorothy Seegar also sang, and after she had finished the star introduced her to his patrons over the footlights.

It was this little intimate touch all the way through that pleased the first nighters. At the close of the fourth act the cue was given for the curtain, but the curtain failed to drop. Instantly O'Hara stepped forward and said:

"It's all over, but there's no curtain."

The plot was old-fashioned melodrama, but it had moments that seemed convincing and real, especially when Peter Quilt first learned that his fortune had been swept away and that he had been fleeced by the father of the girl he loved. Or, as more picturesquely phrased, he had gone through the Wall Street wet wash and lost his shirt.

SOPRANO WINS FAVOR.

Harriet Mittelstaedt, a soprano with a pleasing manner and a good stage presence, gave a song recital in the Music Salon of Chickering Hall last evening. She sang four groups in all, one in French, two in German and one in English, with very much the same elements of diction and expression. Her emotional range was not large, nor was it very deep. She remained on the surface and attempted no heroic flights.

Her voice is small in size and extent, not particularly flexible, as was shown in the couplets from "La Perle du Bresil," and of a fragile texture. But it was sweet to listen to, with a certain charming cadence that captured the favor of the audience and which carried the singer successfully to the close of her program.

Edward Rechlin was at the piano.

The United Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Free Masonry (Prince Hall Affiliation—negroes) of the Northern jurisdiction began its forty-fourth annual meeting at 280 West 155th Street yesterday. ## RIFT OVER GOVERNORS IN GREEN ROOM CLUB

Dropping of 'Hard Workers' for Untried Men in List of Nominations Causes Discord.

A form letter calling attention to the absence of the names of some members of this year's Board of Supers of the Green Room Club from the list nominated for the forthcoming year and to be voted upon next Sunday, has been circulated in the club, it was learned yesterday. In particular, the letter states that "it is regarded as a mistake on the part of the club to drop from the Board of Supers such hard workers and such conscientious officials as Frank Hennessy, George S. Dougherty, Hiram C. Bloomingdale, Frank V. Storrs, George Magowan, R. M. Burnside, Hal Crane and Skinner Frank, and to substitute in their places unknown and untried men."

Stickers bearing the names of the men who have not been reelected are being circulated in the club, with the request that they be voted for on the ballot. In general, it was explained that the action is an outgrowth of a dispute between two factions as to whether distinguished men of the theatre or lesser known figures who are really active in the affairs of the club are to figure on its Board of Supers.

"THE BIG MOGUL" PLEASES.

Fiske O'Hara, the Irish singing star, appeared in DeWitt Newing's melodramatic comedy, "The Big Mogul," at Daly's Sixty-third Street Theatre last night. On the billboards it is announced as a play for all the people, and it is just that. A good-sized first-night audience found it to be a pleasant evening's entertainment.

It is a wholesome play, which may account for the long tour it has enjoyed through the provinces. There is a lot in it about stocks and bonds and "gentlemen bandits" of Wall Street trimming a "poor boob."

CITE TAX ASSESSMENTS

Company Estimates Terminal Property That Cost $57,000,000 at $110,000,000.

The side of the commuters in the attempt being made by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company, to induce the Public Service Commission to permit a 40 per cent. increase in commutation and fifty-trip family tickets from towns between Mount Vernon and Port Chester and this city, was heard yesterday. At the outset Chairman William A. Prendergast of the commission, denied a petition for a subpoena compelling the company to furnish certain data on the ground that the information sought had already been obtained.

Corporation Counsel Charles A. Vanauken of New Rochelle, who is counsel for the Westchester towns on the line of the road, sought to show that the value of the railroad property, as disclosed by the figures of the company, was considerably more than the valuation submitted to the State and city tax authorities. Willard F. Hine, an engineer, testified that the State tax authorities had assessed the value of the property involved in the controversy for 1925 at $11,020,140, while the company officials put the value of the property in 1924 at about $34,000,000.

The unimproved land owned by the company from the Harlem River to Woodlawn, the witness said, was assessed by the tax authorities at $3,586,300 for the current year while the company, at a previous hearing, had placed upon it a value of $8,054,350.

Milo R. Maltbie, an expert retained by the commuters, said that if the increase asked by the company was allowed fifty-trip family tickets would cost nearly as much as single trip tickets. He argued that the increase would work great hardship on the commuters.

In the examination of witnesses it was disclosed that the company estimated its terminal property in this city to be worth $110,000,000 and that the cost of the property was $57,000,000. It was pointed out that the entire terminal, extending from Forty-second Street to Fifty-ninth Street, was valued by the company at $140,000,000 but that it cost only $66,000,000.

Mr. Vanauken said that if the New Haven road was allowed to estimate the value of its facilities in the terminal at $110,000,000 it would have to be allowed $60,600 a month more than it has to pay the New York Central for the privilege of sharing the terminal. It was said that the road, in 1924, paid $227,531 a month rental for about 45 per cent. of the terminal facilities and that under the Transportation act a railroad was entitled to a 5.75 per cent. return on the value of the property used in the service. The hearing will be continued today.

SMUGGLER GETS 6 MONTHS.

Ex-Purser on Leviathan Links a Rabbi in Gem Plot.

Victor X. DeCaro, former purser on the Leviathan, who pleaded guilty on April 8 to smuggling into this country uncut diamonds valued at $34,000, was sentenced yesterday to six months in the penitentiary in Westchester County by Federal Judge A. N. Hand. DeCaro has spent two months in the Tombs.

Federal Prosecutor John M. Ryan told the Court that DeCaro had confessed that Isaac Cantor, a Jewish rabbi employed on the Leviathan, had promised him $100 if he would carry the diamonds ashore and deliver them to him at Thirty-fourth Street and Broadway, and said that he had twice before undertaken similar commissions for Cantor, who had paid him $300. It was reported that Cantor had fled to England, where he is safe because the offense is not extraditable.

Motor Shares Monopolize Trading and Advance Sharply—Exchanges and Commodities Dull.

One single branch of industry drew the spotlight of speculative attention yesterday and held it throughout the day. This was the automotive industry, the representative shares of which are quoted on the Stock Exchange. To the exclusion of all other classes of shares and, in fact, to the exclusion of all other markets, the motor stocks were not only the most active but strongest throughout the day, and naturally attracted the bulk of market interest. The gains in these shares ranged from fractions to several points each in particularly broad trading. There appears to be little doubt that the automobile industry is one which at the present time can make little complaint of the attitude of buyers. Bolstering the movement in these shares was news from many automobile centres that capacity operations are under way, and that Spring sales, to quote one of the leaders of the industry, are "entirely satisfactory."

In other directions on the Stock Exchange and, in fact, in all of the other markets, trading was on a reduced scale, without any outstanding feature and with negative results. On the Stock Exchange the run of issues followed an irregular course during the day and the market as a whole finished its five-hour grind with a slight loss, although the turnover was above the average for recent days, having exceeded the 1,500,000-share mark in volume. The rubber shares once more were under the influence of a brisk advance in crude. In the railroad section stocks as a whole merely marked time, probably awaiting some definite pronouncement by the Interstate Commerce Commission on the Nickel Plate merger plans. It had been quite generally believed in our financial district that the sharp reduction in unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation, announced after the market's close on Saturday, would have little effect on prices. This was actually the case. Steel stocks as a group moved narrowly in a small area.

Announcement that the French Government is informally discussing plans to make some adjustment of its war obligations to this country found very little response in the foreign exchanges. Francs were steady and firm but without any movement which could be called a celebration of the reconsideration of steps to discharge the French obligation. In other directions in the foreign exchange market, too, the incident, if such it may be called, passed more or less unnoticed. Sterling's range yesterday was a particularly narrow one.

The new week started with a veritable plethora of money and with quotations for all classes of this commodity at prices which could hardly fail to please the element which bases its hope for a good market on easy money. The call rate was officially announced at 3½ per cent., but ample funds were to be had at a shade lower than this price. Meanwhile, there was some softening of the situation in the time money market. For all classes of money the demand seems especially slack, and of course, this finds immediate reflection in the open market rates.

The grains, as most of the stocks and exchanges, were quiet and irregular yesterday. Wheat was moderately lower, a movement which was offset to some extent by better buying of corn.

MONEY.

MONDAY, MAY 11, 1925.

Stock Exchange call money ruled firmly at 3½ per cent. throughout. About $10,000,000 was withdrawn, but failure of some expiring maturity loans to be renewed sent these funds to the table for day-to-day loans. Outside trades were reported at 3¼. All maturities, from two weeks' to six months', were definitely placed on a 3¾@4 per cent. basis. Trading, however, was very quiet, the only maturity to show any activity being ninety days' which loaned at 3¾ per cent. Five-six months' accommodation was held at 4 per cent. by bankers, who show no disposition to offer anything under that figure for those dates. Commercial paper and acceptances were dull and unchanged in discount.

$150,000,000 MERGER IN UP-STATE POWER

STATE SANCTION IS SOUGHT

Common Stock Will Be Exchanged for New—Some Shares Reach a New High Here.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 11 (A. P.)—Power service to continguous territory said to represent the largest per capita consumption of electrical energy in the United States would be placed under unified financial control by a merger of four Western New York power companies, plans for which were formally announced today. The effective date of the unification, proposed as July 1, will depend upon the sanction of the New York Public Service Commission, from which permission will be sought immediately.

Control of the Buffalo General Electric Company, the Niagara Falls Power Company, the Niagara, Lockport & Ontario Power Company, and the Tonawanda Power Company would be centralized by an exchange of stock in the Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern Power Corporation, a holding company to be organized for the purpose. The constituent companies would preserve their corporate entities as operating subsidiaries of the Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern.

Formal approval of the plans was voted today at simultaneous directors' meetings of the four companies. The exchange of stock was agreed upon on the basis of 1.1 shares each of common and preferred stock of the Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern Power Corporation for each share of the Buffalo General Electric Company common; 1.25 shares each of Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern common and preferred for each share of Niagara Falls Power Company common and the Niagara, Lockport & Ontario Power Company common, and one share of each of Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern common and preferred for each share of Tonawanda Power Company common.

Facilities Will Be Interconnected.

There are approximately 16,500 stockholders of the four companies, the majority residing in the territory served. The holding corporation will issue, for the purpose of the exchange, preferred stock having a liquidating value of $25 a share entitled to dividends of $1.60 a year, and common stock of no par value.

Physical interconnection of the facilities of the companies and their unified operation would enable each company to draw upon the others for needed power whenever any of the companies had a surplus available, the announcement said; would eliminate duplication of investments, particularly in power plants, and would work for the most efficient use of the existing supply of power.

Preferred stocks of the constituent companies will not be exchanged or disturbed, these becoming underlying preferred issues with the holders receiving the same dividends as previously.

The holding corporation is to be chartered under the New York State Transportation Corporation law, with authority to manufacture and distribute electricity for light, heat and power in cities, towns and villages of New York State, and the power to purchase and hold or dispose of stocks, bonds and other securities of foreign or domestic corporations.

As the exchange of stocks will not destroy the corporate identity of any of the four constituent companies, it was said that it would not be necessary to have the stockholders approve the plan at special meetings.

Charles R. Huntley, President of the Buffalo General Electric Company, in a statement explaining the merger, said:

"It is the unanimous judgment of the officers and directors of these companies, after the most careful consideration of every phase of the subject, that the proposed affiliation will be in the public interest as well as in the interest of the stockholders of the companies.

"The companies serve contiguous territory in which the distribution of electric energy per capita is greatly in excess of the distribution per capita anywhere else in this country. The companies now serve nearly 500,000 ultimate consumers, and, in addition, supply electric current to many electrical distributing companies which in turn serve more than 150,000 ultimate consumers.

"We wish to emphasize," he concluded, "that the control and management of the unified properties remain in effect unchanged, namely, in the hands of persons who are closely identified with the locality served, and that the main purpose of the unification is better and more efficient service."

Officers of the new corporation were announced as follows: C. R. Huntley, Chairman of the Board of Directors; J. F. Schoellkopf, Chairman of the Executive Committee; Paul A. Schoellkopf, President; Fred D. Corey, First Vice President; W. R. Huntley, Second Vice President; A. H. Schoellkopf and Morris Cohen Jr., Vice Presidents; Walter P. Cooke, Secretary, and Horace L. Mann, Treasurer.

News from Buffalo yesterday that formal announcement had been made of the plan for the merger of the four up-State power companies confirmed previous reports that the consolidation was under way. Including the Tonawanda Power Company, with assets of around $2,000,000, the merger represents the bringing together of Northwestern New York power and public utility assets of around $150,000,000.

The consolidation now awaits the approval of the public Service Commission, but up to last night the local office of the commission had not been advised as to the progress of the negotiations and no petition had been filed here.

C. R. Huntley, who is to be Chairman of the Board of Directors of the new corporation, is President of the Buffalo General Electric Company. Paul A. Schoellkopf, who is to be President of the new company, is President of the Niagara Falls Power Company, the largest of the four companies involved in the merger.

With their subsidiary affiliations the component companies will be one of the principal power generating and distributing factors in the country, dominating not only a large part of New York State which takes in the power resources of Nnagara and controls there on the American side of the border, but reaching possibly into other States as well. Public utility experts have looked upon the combination as inevitable and as being in line with "superpower" development for the eastern part of the United States.

Assets of the Niagara Falls Power Company exceed $82,000,000, those of the Buggalo General Electric, $34,000,000, and the Niagara, Lockport & Ontario Power Company, $22,000,000. The figures are taken as of Dec. 31, 1924, and have since been enlarged by additional property and plant investments. Trading in the stocks of the companies was brisk yesterday, some of them attaining new high record prices.

The fact that some of the same interests represented in the affairs of the Adirondack Power and Light Corporation are also represented in one or more of the companies involved in the merger, has suggested the possibility of a close relationship between the properties supplied by the Adirondack Power and Light Corporation and those served by the Buffalo companies. The eventual interconnection of both Niagara and Adirondack properties is expected, with properties of other companies in the line of march.

The shares of the Adirondack Power and Light Corporation, which is controlled by General Electric Company interests, also sold yesterday at record prices. This company is more immediately concerned in the negotiations looking to a merger of the so-called Brady utilities of Utica, Albany, Cohoes and Troy with properties of the Power Corporation of New York System. Just what the relationship of Adirondack Power and Light to these negotiations may be, has not been divulged. It is believed, however, that it will be an important party to the carrying through of the up-State merger of the properties mentioned.

LOREE BACKS PLAN OF HARRIMAN HEIRS

Estate Confirms Report That Executive Is Aiding Move for New Railroad.

TO CROSS PENNSYLVANIA

Future of Proposed Line as a Link in Loree System Interests Railway Heads.

Tentative plans for the consolidation of Eastern railroads, conceived by the heads of the New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Nickel Plate, were thrown into confusion yesterday when it was officially confirmed at the office of the Harriman estate that Leonor F. Loree, head of the Delaware & Hudson, was backing the plans of the Harriman heirs to construct a new railroad across the coal fields of Pennsylvania. Any information about the new road, it was said, would have to come from Mr. Loree.

C. C. Tegethoff, counsel for the Harriman heirs, said that news of Mr. Loree's connection with the proposed construction had appeared in the newspapers by accident, as it was not the intention of the Harrimans or the Delaware & Hudson head to reveal the alliance. When the proper time came, he added, full details would be given to the public, but he did not feel it would be fitting to discuss the pending action of the Interstate Commerce Commission on their application. There was nothing to be gained, he put it, "by trying a case out of court."

Inquiries among the friends of the late E. H. Harriman regarding what plans the railway builder had in the East were of little avail. One associate ventured the opinion that they had probably been buried with him, as Mr. Harriman never uttered "an unnecessary word." He obtained authority from the Government to build the line, but many of the officials of his Western roads were not even aware of the fact until after his death.

Great interest is displayed in the proposed road's future as a link in the Loree system. This system, according to reports of good authority, will involve the largest railroad deal in history. The Van Sweringen with the proposed Nickel Plate will establish a record if they are able to merge 9,145 miles of main track into a system with a capitalization near a billion dollars. If Mr. Loree, however, can combine the Delaware & Hudson, the Lehigh Valley, Lackawanna, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh, the Wheeling & Lake Erie and the new Harriman road in the East with the Wabash, the Missouri Pacific and the Kansas City Southern in the West, which is thought to be his plan, he will have a system of more than 16,000 miles and a capitalization much over that of the Nickel Plate.

The Loree grouping would entirely upset the plans of the Eastern rail heads and those Professor Ripley put on paper for the Commerce Commission. Little in fact can be done toward general railroad consolidation as outlined in the Transportation act, it is thought by railroad men, until Mr. Loree is called to the council table and asked to discuss his plans with the other Eastern executives.

RAILROADS WILL EXPAND.

Four Carriers Will Add to Their Facilities in the West.

Plans for improvement and enlargement of facilities have been completed by four Western railroad systems—the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Union Pacific and Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe.

The Missouri Pacific has purchased fifty acres at Ossawatomie, Kan., on which are pens for feeding 100 cars of cattle and 150 cars of sheep. This road has also acquired fifteen additional sidetracks between Kansas City and Ossawatomie. The Union Pacific has proposed to trade land rights valued at $2,500,000 to the City of Los Angeles if the city will spend that amount in channel improvements.

The Rock Island will construct twenty miles of double track on its main line between McFarland and Herrington, Kan. The program of the road also calls for the purchase of 1,200 box cars, 400 coal cars and 10 switching locomotives. The Santa Fe has awarded a contract to a Los Angeles firm to build seventy miles of line in Texas, terminating at the Texas-New Mexico State line.

HEAD OF CADDO OIL OUTLINES BOND PLAN

Reports Earnings for 1924 and Says Readjustment of Capital Structure Is Necessary.

James D. Williams, Vice President of the Caddo Central Oil and Refining Company, on behalf of the directors has sent a statement to stockholders giving an analysis of the operations for the five-year period 1920 to 1924 inclusive, an outline of the Bondholders' Protective Committee tentative plan of reorganization and the annual statement of operations for the year 1924.

The facts, according to Mr. Williams, "clearly show the need of a readjustment of the capital structure, and also the need of new capital for the purpose outlined a year ago and again in the current annual report; that is, to develop the policy of retail distribution, to enable the company to take advantage of favorable opportunities for the purchase of low-price crude; for the installation of adequate facilities for cracking low-grade crude in order to obtain a much larger gasoline content."

The tentative plan of reorganization as drawn up by the Bondholders' Committee will give the new company a total of $500,000 par value of bonds, $2,602,985 par value of 6 per cent. cumulative preferred stock and 200,000 shares of no par value common stock. Under the plan, holders of the $1,498,500 par value bonds of the Caddo Oil and Refining Company of Louisiana, Inc., will receive $870 in new preferred stock and 10 shares new common stock for each $1,000 bond, and holders of $4,326,000 of Caddo Central Oil and Refining Company 6 per cent. bonds, due in 1930, will receive $300 par value of new preferred stock and 20 shares of new common stock for each $1,000 bond. There will remain 98,303 shares of unissued common stock, which will be issued to the purchasers of the $500,000 bonds of the new companies on terms not yet determined.

The report for 1924 shows gross profit of $608,757, against $213,622 in 1923. After all expenses and taxes, including reserves for depreciation and depletion, there was reported a deficit of $444,201 for 1924, against a deficit of $1,002,172 after similar deductions in 1923.

SUMATRA MOUNTS 20 POINTS IN DAY

ON WATCH FOR A CORNER

Stock Exchange Officials View With Disfavor the Gyrations Since Receiver Was Appointed.

The preferred stock of the American Sumatra Tobacco Company, for which a receiver was appointed last week, was again the star performer on the Stock Exchange yesterday. The shares opened at 49¾ and, on urgent bidding by shorts who have been caught in this issue, went up rapidly to 69¾. This high price represents an extreme gain of 40¼ points, compared with the low price touched last week, a short time before the application for the appointment of a receiver was made. Before the close yesterday, however, the stock slipped back to 52, at which level it closed with a net gain of 4 points for the day.

The situation in this stock, at least so far as the short interest is concerned, is still acute, according to information obtained in stock market circles yesterday, and in view of this situation the Business Conduct Committee is closely watching events to guard against the creation of a corner. Difficulty of the shorts in making deliveries of contracts put out for the decline was clearly illustrated around delivery hour yesterday, when a premium of one-half of 1 per cent. was bid for a loan of the stock in the loan crowd. This means that the borrower must pay $50 a day for the loan of 100 shares of stock. Reports were spread about the district that premiums as high as 2 per cent. were bid, but this was denied in Stock Exchange circles. That the situation was a bit easier at the close was evidenced by the fact that the stock declined from a high of 69¾ to a close of 52 and that the premium dropped from one-half to one-quarter of 1 per cent.

So far as could be learned yesterday, no corner exists yet in these shares, as only one block of stock of 100 shares was bid in under the rule yesterday. It is understood, however, that executives of the Exchange do not view with favor the wild gyrations of this stock within the past week.

Many factors enter into the situation which has brought about the wild skyward move in Sumatra preferred within a week. It was pointed out in one quarter yesterday that for several weeks before the application for the appointment of a receiver rumors were circulated about the financial district that the company was experiencing difficulty in providing to meet an issue of $2,985,000 of 7% per cent. notes which mature June 1. These rumors resulted in the creation of an unusually larger short interest. Another factor, it was explained, is that there are only 19,635 shares of the preferred stock outstanding, an unusually small amount for a company of this size. Some of this stock is held by insiders and some of it is scattered throughout the country, thus making only a small supply available in Wall Street for speculative purposes.

It was also pointed out that the formation of a protective committee for the preferred stockholders also has materially reduced the supply of this stock. All stock deposited with the Protective Committee reduces the supply in Wall Street by an equal amount.

Attention also was called yesterday to the fact that while there are only 19,635 shares of the preferred stock of the tobacco company outstanding, a total of more than 34,000 shares of the stock has changed hands on the Stock Exchange within the past week, since the appointment of the receiver. It is understood that a good part of this selling was for the account of shorts, who believed that the appointment of the receiver would carry the shares to lower levels.

Sinking Fund 3½% Gold Bonds

Dated January 1, 1919 Due January 1, 1939

Principal and semi-annual interest (January 1 and July 1), payable in gold in New York City. Coupon bonds in denominations of $1,000 and $500. May be fully registered.

The State is required by the provisions of the Act to retire annually from January 1, 1919 to January 1, 1939, at least one-twentieth of the authorized issue ($675,000 per year) by redemption at 100 and interest or by purchase in the open market at not more than 100 and interest.

In view of the very unusual sinking fund provisions attached to this loan as shown in the above paragraph, it is our opinion that it will be necessary for the State to pay very close to par within the next few years, to carry out its terms. The State has already retired approximately $5,000,000 of the total issue of $13,500,000, but the bonds are becoming increasingly difficult to obtain and we believe will advance independent of their relative value to other bonds, and to the conditions of the money market.

CAR LOADINGS RISE TO YEAR'S HIGHEST

Week of May 2 Best So Far in 1925, American Railway Association Reports.

961,711 CARS THE TOTAL

The Increase Was Largely Due to the Reopening of Navigation on the Great Lakes.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—More cars were loaded with revenue freight the week of May 2 last than during any other one week period so far this year, according to a statement made public today by the American Railway Association.

With increases over the previous week for all commodities except live stock, coke and miscellaneous freight, which showed slight decreases, loading of revenue freight for the week ended May 2 totaled 961,711 cars, the association announced.

This exceeded the preceding week by 22,486 cars. It also exceeded by 68,161 cars the corresponding week last year and by 20,004 cars the corresponding week in 1923. It also was considerably in excess of the corresponding weeks in 1920, 1921 and 1922.

The increase over the week before was largely due to increased shipments of ore resulting from the reopening of navigation on the Great Lakes. Merchandise and less than carload lot freight together with forest products, coal and grain and grain products also showed increases compared with the preceding week.

Loading of merchandise and less than carload lots freight for the week of May 2 amounted to 259,809 cars, an increase of 4,710 cars over the week before and an increase of 10,036 cars over the corresponding week las year. It also was an increase of 18,852 cars over the corresponding week in 1923.

Miscellaneous freight loading totaled 358,789 cars, a decrease of 2,338 cars under the week before, but an increase of 26,424 cars over the same week last year and 5,782 cars over the same week two years ago.

Ore Loading Total.

Ore loading totaled 59,146 cars, an increase of 16,652 cars over the preceding week and 15,898 cars over the same week last year. It also was an increase of 21,203 cars over the same period two years ago.

Forest products loading totaled 78,454 cars, 1,020 cars above the week before and 2,888 cars above last year. Compared with the corresponding week two years ago, it also was an increase of 6,277 cars.

Grain and grain products loading amounted to 35,838 cars, an increase of 1,852 cars above the week before, but 7,510 cars under the same week last year. It was, however, an increase of 1,695 cars over two years ago. In the Western districts alone grain and grain products loading totaled 16,955 cars, a decrease of 5,508 cars under the corresponding week last year.

Live stock loading for the week totaled 30,338 cars, a decrease of 790 cars under the week before and 1,729 cars below the corresponding week last year. Compared with the corresponding week in 1923, it also was a decrease of 3,473 cars. In the Western districts alone, 23,706 cars were loaded with livestock during the week, 1,188 cars below the same week last year.

Coal loading totaled 149,218 cars, an increase of 1,888 over the preceding week. Compared with the same week last year, the total for the week of May 2 was an increase of 22,080 cars, but a decrease of 26,264 cars compared with the same week two years ago.

Coke loading totaled 10,119 cars, 488 cars below the preceding week, but 116 cars above the corresponding period in 1924. Compared with the same period in 1923, it was a decrease of 4,076 cars.

Compared with the preceding week this year, increases in the total loading of all commodities were reported in all districts except the Pocahontas, Southern and Southwestern. All districts likewise reported increases over the corresponding week last year, and all except the Eastern, Allegheny and Central Western districts reported increases compared with the corresponding week in 1923.

RUBBER RESUMES ITS RISE.

Principal Grades 4 1-2 to 7 1-2 Cents Above Saturday's Record Level.

The crude rubber market yesterday in New York resumed the upward swing begun last week, when heavy demands upon a rapidly dwindling supply sent prices to levels unmatched since 1919. The improvement carried the principal grades all the way from 4½ to 7½ cents higher than Saturday, prime ribbed smoked sheets being quoted at 61 cents; first late straights at 60 cents, May position; amber No. 2, 60 to 60½ cents, and fine up-river Para at 50 cents. The London market again led the advance here, coming over at 29d, a gain of 3d over Saturday.

Brokers reported only a small turnover at these figures, not a few of the large holders withdrawing from the market and holding stocks pending further developments. It was estimated that the trade last week bought 1,850 tons, and that London's supply is about 9,800 tons, of which 2,000 tons runs to sole crepe.

From the present demand, dealers said, consumption in 1925 will far exceed production, and some measure of relief from the Stevenson plan of restricting production will have to be taken if the trade is to escape this condition. The trade heard that leading European manufacturers have importuned British officialdom to raise this embargo.

Prices for stocks of the domestic rubber companies on the New York Stock Exchange responded to the higher market for the crude article, the common stock of the United States Rubber Company making a new high for 1925 at 40¾, while the preferred got up to its previous at 99. The shares of the Goodrich Company also enjoyed moderate improvement.

ARRANGE VIENNA CREDIT.

Bankers Here Attribute Action to Visit of Austrian Financier.

Reports from Vienna that the Oesterreische Boden Credit Anstalt had concluded preliminary arrangements with British and American banks for marketing Central European gold mortgage bonds in London and New York are attributed by New York bankers to the recent visit to the United States of Dr. Rudolph Sieghart, Chairman of the Vienna institution. Dr. Sieghart, while here, discussed the project with banking institutions, but at the time it was said no definite arrangements were concluded, and negotiations are reported to be still under way between New York, London and Vienna. The New York bankers mentioned are Hallgarten & Co. and Dillon, Read & Co.

Stocks of zinc in the hands of American producers May 1 were 18,337 tons, against 17,196 April 1, according to figures issued yesterday. Shipments of zinc in April totaled 47,710 tons and production 48,551 tons. Of the total shipments, 5,905 tons were for export. There were 66,674 retorts operating on April 30.

Colombia Syndicate Reported Sold.

New York interests are reported to have acquired the stock of the Colombia Syndicate, from the Tidal Osage Company and other interests, giving them control of 60 per cent. of the company's 2,000,000 shares of capital stock.

Now! a stronger and better type First Mortgage Bond—guaranteed by a Surety Company and yielding 6½%

TO the many exclusive features that protect Adair Bonds has been added the absolute guarantee of one of the strongest Surety Companies in the United States that principal and interest will be paid. This final safeguard marks a new era of safety for investors in First Mortgage Real Estate Bonds.

At the option of the investor, Adair Protected Bonds of any issue may be guaranteed in this manner. Furthermore, the guarantee may be dispensed with at any time and the full yield of 7% obtained.

If you are interested in an investment offering greater security and profit, we suggest that you have your name placed upon our preferred list to receive advance information on new issues.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

French Franc Supported to Higher Level—Sterling and Continentals Dull and Slightly Reactionary.

The only bright spot in an otherwise drab market for the European exchanges yesterday was the support accorded the French franc, quiet and consistent buying of this bill pushing it ahead for a slight gain, while sterling and the Continentals were slightly reactionary.

Purchases of the franc are being made by a prominent international banking house and are believed to be made for French Government account. Talk of funding France's war debt, and the latest statement of French revenue showing an increase in receipts, also played a part in the firmness of the bill. Checks on Paris closed at 5.21¾ cents, an advance of 1¼ points over Saturday.

Sterling moved over an extremely narrow range, finishing ⅛ cent higher than Saturday at $4.84⅛. Italian, Holland and Swedish documents were steady, but the Spanish, Norwegian and Danish currencies, which have recently been the centre of extremely lively bidding, all sustained sharp reaction on profit-taking. Far Easterns and South Americans were dull and unimportantly changed.

EXPLAIN GOLD SHIPMENT.

£100,000 Sent to London Not an Exchange Test, Bankers Say.

The shipment of £100,000 gold from London to the Guaranty Trust Company, reported on Saturday, was part of a routine business transaction and was not intended as a test of the exchange situation, it was said yesterday at the offices of the Guaranty Company.

Clients of the trust company, who had collections in London, called for payment in gold and received it. Similar transactions may call for the movement of gold in either direction between the United States and Europe.

Bankers discussing gold movements mentioned the prediction of a banker in London that there would be an appreciable movement of gold from the United States to England. The general opinion here was that no shipments of any of the British credits obtained here was expected, but that the banker quoted had in mind the possible advance of sterling to the gold shipping point in New York.

Consolidated Reelects Maloney.

Thomas B. Maloney was re-elected President of the Consolidated Stock Exchange of New York at the annual election yesterday. This is Mr. Maloney's second term. William E. Power, former Chairman of the Membership Committee, was elected First Vice President and R. Tracy Falk Second Vice President. Other nominees were all elected.

Rumor of New Schultz Stock.

The Schultz Retail Stores Corporation is contemplating issuing new capital stock and giving common stockholders the right to participate in the new issue, according to reports circulated in the financial district yesterday. The report was not confirmed, although Wall Street heard a statement might be issued soon.

RAINS SEND COTTON DOWN 45 POINTS

First Good Precipitation in Mississippi Valley Causes Heavy Wave of Selling.

LIVERPOOL ALSO IS WEAKER

Quotations Abroad Decline Over 30 English Points—Foreign Selling Here.

The first good rain in the Mississippi Valley in months had a depressing influence on all three cotton markets yesterday and prices broke about half a cent, closing 45 to 50 points lower than Saturday. Selling of substantial proportions continued almost without interruption to the close. Instead of attracting an increased demand as a result of the recent decline of over 2½ cents a pound, the situation appeared to stimulate saddling selling activity and trading reflected a liberal volume of outside interest. Rains throughout Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and as far east as Macon, Ga., proved the most favorable weather development since the breaking of the Texas drought nearly three weeks ago. All months closed under 23 cents for the first time since last October.

Considering the steadiness existing in both American markets at the close of the week, the decline which occurred in Liverpool before the local opening represented one of the most pronounced movements during the course of the entire decline. On reports of heavy rainfall in central sections of the belt, where moisture has been very much needed, quotations lost over 30 English points, in addition to drastic liquidation and weakness on the other side foreign interests became active sellers in New York and local prices broke $2 a bale during the morning.

July in New Orleans proved even weaker than on the local exchange. October broke through 22¾ cents without meeting resistance, and that month sold as low as 22.30 before steadiness developed.

Scattered covering brought a 10 to 15 points recovery around midday, but cotton was for sale on the rally which carried the list to lowest levels of the session the last hour. Blocks of October and December appeared in the market and October prices ran below 22¾ cents in final trading.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, sales 756 bales, 23.65c, 45 points decline; New Orleans, sales 1,823, 23.05c, 50 points decline; Savannah, sales 63, 22.82c, 47 points decline; Augusta, 23c, 50 points decline; Memphis, sales 50, 23.25c, unchanged; Houston, sales 97, 23.50c, 50 points decline; Little Rock, sales 32, 23.35c, 45 points decline; Dallas, sales 120, 22.80c, 50 points decline.

STANDARD OF INDIANA GAINS BY BIG DEAL

Company Declares Control of Pan-American Petroleum Gives It an 'Impregnable Position.'

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 11.—Declaring that the Standard Oil Company of Indiana has now assumed an "impregnable position among world oil companies," the May issue of the Standolind Record, published by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana for its employes, details the effect of the company's recent purchase, with its associates, of control of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company.

The Record describes the transaction as one of the most "important and sensational oil deals of the last decade," and emphasizes the importance of the crude oil supplies thus assured.

"The sources of crude supply for the great refineries of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana can hardly now be threatened by any conceivable situation," says the article. "Through the subsidiary, the Dixie Oil Company, it has producing properties in Louisiana and the South. Through the Midwest Refining Company it is assured of a constant supply of the finest crude from the great Wyoming oil fields. Through its part ownership of the Sinclair Pipe Line it is assured of a flow of crude to its refineries from the old and dependable Mid-Continent field. Now it adds to these great sources of crude supply the tremendous producing properties of the Pan-American in Mexico and South America. Further, it can, if necessary, use in its operation the full strength of Pan-American's pipe lines, refineries and tanker fleet, a tanker fleet second in size only to that of the Standard Oil of New Jersey."

In Mexico, Pan-American has between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 acres of producing or prospective oil lands, and daily production is 150,000 barrels.

"While the consideration involved has not been made public, the Standolind Record is enabled to state authoritatively that the terms of purchase were most favorable to this company," the statement continues.

Ginter Co. Sales Advance.

The Ginter Company reports April sales of $1,125,910, against $1,031,120 last year, a gain of 9.19 per cent. For the first four months of 1925 there was reported gross sales of $4,537,581, against $4,194,279 in the same period in 1924, the main being equal to 8.15 per cent.

WHEAT GAINS EARLY BUT LOSES AT CLOSE

WORLD NEWS NOT HELPFUL

More Grain Available Than Figured and Slim Drop in the Visible Here, the Factors.

CHICAGO, May 11.—Wheat fluctuated in an erratic manner within a range of 2½@96 cents, bulging around 3½ cents early on buying by several strong commission houses, part of which was attributed to Cutten, only to break badly toward the last, when the buying let up, and Howell and New York operators sold freely, catching the local element generally long. The finish was at the bottom, with net losses of 2¼@2¾ cents.

World's statistics were less bullish than expected, exports being larger, and the decrease on ocean passage was only 4,008,000 bushels. To offset this early were a resumption of crop damage complaints from Kansas, with dry weather again reported in the western part of that State, and a lack of moisture is becoming more apparent in parts of South Dakota.

However, the domestic visible supply, is decreasing only 2,217,000 bushels for the week, was the keenest disappointment to the bulls and led to much selling. Total stocks are down to 43,464,000 bushels, compared with 45,681,000 bushels the previous week and 48,120,000 bushels last year.

Export demand at the seaboard was again slow, sales estimated at not over 500,000 bushels, but there was further Spring wheat bought in the Northwest apparently to fill previous sales, as Duluth sold 100,000 bushels to Montreal and the latter market was in with bids for several other 100,000 bushel lots. Minneapolis sold 240,000 bushels, of which 100,000 bushels went to Duluth to fill the Montreal order. Sellers advanced their asking price forward the last end, no checked business. There is said to be little prospect at the moment of further grain going to Chicago.

Local shipping sales were 126,000 bushels, including 100,000 bushels to exporters, No. 1 hard and the sample market sold at 7 cents over the May and No. 2 red at 2½ cents over. One of the leading commission houses here sent out messages during the day advising the sale of July against purchases of September wheat.

Primary arrivals today were 724,000 bushels; week ago, 710,000; last year, 840,000. Shipments were 387,000 bushels; week ago, 785,000; last year, 431,000.

Coarse grain markets, while affected to some extent by the action of wheat, showed materially more strength, corn closing unchanged to ¾ cent higher and oats ¼ @ ¾ cent higher. May leading in both grains. There was no great supply of buying orders, but the moderate selling pressure and the liberal reduction in stocks attracted attention and brought support.

The visible supply of corn decreased 2,121,000 bushels and is down to 21,258,000 bushels, against 24,000 last year. Chicago has 10,783,000 bushels, a decrease of 731,000 for the week, despite reports of a slow cash demand.

Oats are disappearing although stocks are largely in excess of last year, the visible standing at 44,005,000 bushels against 9,250,000 last year. Chicago stocks are 11,632,000 bushels, a loss of 1,309,000 for the week. Export sales were 250,000 bushels from Chicago and 200,000 from the seaboard to the continent.

As reported increase of 374,000 bushels in the visible supply of rye led to selling and a decline of 2½@4 cents in futures.

Primary arrivals of corn today were 878,000 bushels; week ago, 877,000; last year, 770,000, and shipments, 292,000; week ago, 346,000; last year, 755,000.

Canada Wheat Estimate Goes Up.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Spot Cotton and Printcloths at New Lows—Metals and Dairy Products Higher.

A sharp drop in spot cotton, to 22.85 cents, a new low for the year, and a fractional decline in printcloths, to 6¾ cents, also a year's low point, were the outstanding changes in yesterday's cash markets. Weakness followed heavy market for the contract grades where heavy losses of more than $3 per bale were scored in the leading options. Strength was noted in other staples, lead, copper, zinc, tin, butter, eggs and corn moving higher; while wheat and rye eased off. Other provisions and groceries were firm.

FIRST BYRNE CHECK CUT TO 7 PER CENT.

Trustee of Bankrupt Brokerage Tells Creditors This Will Not Affect Final Amount.

DUE TO S. S. KRESGE CLAIM

Payment to Be Mailed Soon, and There Is Still Chance Claims May Be Settled Almost in Full.

Due to unexpected developments in liquidating the estate of the bankrupt brokerage firm of J. M. Byrne & Co., former members of the New York Stock Exchange, general creditors will receive an initial payment of 7 per cent. of their total claims, instead of the 30 per cent. originally agreed upon. Checks covering the initial payment of 7 per cent. are expected to be mailed soon.

A. Bruce Bialaski, 120 Broadway, formerly receiver for the firm and now trustee for the estate, stated yesterday that these developments would not affect the final settlement, but only the initial payment.

The change in the plans of the trustee, it was stated yesterday, was due to the representations by attorneys for S. S. Kresge concerning a claim of $800,000 against the estate. The status of this claim is now in dispute. The interests protecting the claims of the general and preferred creditors, it is stated, take the stand that this claim of Mr. Kresge for $800,000 was in the form of a personal loan to J. M. Byrne Jr., senior partner of the brokerage firm, and was made prior to the bankruptcy. It is contended that because this was a personal loan to the head of the firm it represents just so much capital put into the business by Mr. Byrne and therefore cannot be listed among the claims of the general creditors.

Attorneys for Mr. Kresge, however, maintain he has a claim against the firm for $800,000 inasmuch as that amount was loaned prior to the receivership. It was pointed out that Mr. Kresge's attorneys have thus far filed no direct claim in regard to the loan, because they have not decided yet what action to take. Their indecision, it was stated yesterday, was due to the fact that if a direct claim is made against the fund now held for the general creditors the trustee for the creditors is expected to contest it. Mr. Kresge, it is understood, is also a general creditor for about $300,000.

A reserve fund is understood to have been created for the $800,000 loan, pending a final decision on the claim. If the claim is allowed, it is said, the general creditors will receive between 50 and 60 per cent. of their individual claims. If it is held that the loan was a personal one to Mr. Byrne Jr., then it is expected the creditors will receive between 90 and 100 per cent., or virtually all their claims, minus the actual cost of liquidating the estate. In addition to the funds now in hand, the trustee holds $1,200,000 par value of the notes of the Middle States Oil Corporation, now in receivership. The value of these notes is considered questionable, and they have not been carried as an asset.

BOXING CLUB AGENTS MUST PAY FEDERAL TAX

Supreme Court Holds Johnston Was Personally Liable—Dismisses Embezzlement Count.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Agents who, acting for New York boxing clubs stage bouts under the contract whereby they pay the club for the use of its license are still personally liable for the Federal tax on admissions the Supreme Court decided today. The ruling was made in a decision holding that James J. Johnston, promoter of boxing shows in New York, must be considered personally guilty of failure to pay taxes on admissions and of failing to make a return showing their receipts. Johnston, as manager of the Central Manhattan Boxing Club, Inc., had resisted efforts to make him pay the taxes, on the ground that he was only the agent of an incorporated club.

The lower courts found Johnston had failed to pay the taxes and make the return and had embezzled the amounts involved, but the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit reversed the decision. The Supreme Court ruled that the embezzlement charge was not upheld, but in relation to the other counts said:

"On the other counts we are of opinion that the Court below was wrong. We do not grant a certiorari to review evidence and discuss specific facts. But the Court seems to have regarded the formal relations of Johnston to the Central Manhattan Boxing Club, Inc., made necessary by the laws of New York, as conclusive upon his relations to the United States. The laws of New York permitted a license only to a corporation, and so Johnston may have assumed the technical position of agent and manager for the club. But if as a matter of fact, all this was machinery to enable Johnston to give exhibitions, collect the entrance fees and make himself liable for the tax, it properly might be alleged that he collected the fees and if he wilfully failed to pay that he refused and failed to pay the tax."

VALUES L. & N. RAILROAD.

Commerce Commission Finds Its Property Worth $321,169,838.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—A tentative value of $321,169,838 was fixed today by the Interstate Commerce Commission on the property of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad.

The amount is in excess of the railroad's outstanding stock and bond issue, which totals $242,279,615, and its capital investment account, which is $251,630,823.

The valuation covers property on 4,500 miles of railroad and equipment, facilities and terminals operated by the Louisville & Nashville and subsidiary corporations.

George Kelly Fined in Traffic Court.

George Kelly, first baseman on the Giants' baseball team, paid a fine of $10 yesterday in the Traffic Court when he was found guilty by Magistrate Thomas F. McAndrews of driving his car without a license. Kelly, who said he was 27 years old, and gave 930 St. Nicholas Avenue as his temporary home and San Francisco as his permanent home, was served with a summons on Saturday by Motorcycle Policeman Reynolds at Bradhurst Avenue and 145th Street. He said that he had a California license for the car, but was not aware it was necessary to have a New York license. He said he would get one right away.

COURT SAYS BRINDELL MUST PAY DAMAGES

Upholds $2,000 Verdict Won by Contractor Who Paid to Have a Strike Called Off.

Supreme Court Justice Cotillo, who heard the suit of Joseph H. Goldblatt, a contractor, against Robert P. Brindell, former labor "czar," recently released from Sing Sing, in which Goldblatt got a verdict for $2,000 alleged to have been paid by him to have workmen ordered back on a job from which Brindell had called them, handed down a decision yesterday upholding the verdict.

The suit was brought against two labor delegates, Chapman and Pike, as well as Brindell, but the papers were not served on them, and the case went to trial against Brindell alone. The testimony showed that Pike and Chapman notified Goldblatt that the work would go on if $2,000 were paid.

Justice Cotillo said in his opinion the motion to set aside the verdict was based not only upon the ground that no civil liability attached to acts of Brindell, but also because the Court permitted testimony to be given concerning conversations with Chapman and Pike involving Brindell when he was not present. Brindell asserted that no evidence was offered showing that he ever communicated with Chapman and Pike, who received the $2,000.

Justice Cotillo said he believed the evidence justified the findings of the jury that the "three men were guilty of a conspiracy to extort money from the plaintiff." He said the fact that a conspirator might be prosecuted criminally did not preclude the maintenance of a civil action by a victim to recover damages. The Court said:

"Could it be said that Brindell's victims were fully compensated for their losses by reason of the fact that he spent several years in jail? If the convicted extortioner, though punished by imprisonment, is allowed to retain his ill-gotten gains, so it would seem reasonable that he might regard the profits of extortion as reasonable wages for the greater or less time that he was required to spend in jail."

Justice Cotillo asked "if any one could doubt from the testimony that Brindell was the one who planned and controlled, and that he procured Pike and Chapman to execute the mischief they conspired to commit." The Court said Brindell testified he was President, Chairman and head of the Building Trades Council. He ruled the evidence showed that Pike and Chapman referred to Brindell as "Chief."

FEDERATION OPPOSES BONUS PAY ON SHIPS

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The American Federation of Labor is opposed to the proposal suggested by T. V. O'Connor, Chairman of the Shipping Board, to subsidize American shippers by paying part of the wages of seamen.

"The officers of the American Federation of Labor are informed that the growing inefficiency which it is alleged prevails among seamen is due to the non-enforcement of the Seamen's act," said William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, today.

"The reason advanced for the wage subsidy is the differential between the wages of foreign and American seamen. The cause for such differential, however, is not far to seek. If the Seamen's act were enforced there would be no differential. The proposed wage subsidy is to cover up the failure to enforce that act.

"Apparently the idea of the sponsors of the subsidy is that in proposing that it be in wages it will eliminate opposition from labor. But this is not true. Labor stands where it did in 1899, when the convention of the American Federation of Labor declared:

"'A subsidy in the very nature of things is the granting of a special privilege empowering some men to fill their pockets at the expense of others through the forms of law.'

"This principle was followed in successfully opposing ship subsidies in 1899, 1906 and 1922. Hiding it behind a wage proposition does not minimize the fact that it is a ship subsidy for the benefit of private ship owners, who have maliciously violated the Seamen's act."

WATER TUNNEL PLANS TO BE HEARD JUNE 5

Public Hearing to Deal With $64,000,000 Project to Safeguard City's Supply.

June 5 was set by the Board of Estimate yesterday as the date for a statutory public hearing on the sixty-four-million-dollar city project to build a new tunnel to deliver Catskill water to Brooklyn and Queens.

The new tunnel, which will be seventeen feet in diameter, will be built in solid rock, if authorized, 500 feet underground and will run from the Hillview Reservoir through the Bronx, under the East River at Riker's Island and through the Borough of Queens to Fort Greene Park in Brooklyn, where it will join the existing tunnel from Hillview Reservoir which runs through Manhattan, thus affording a system through which water could be supplied either way in the case of a breakdown of one tunnel. As the water system is revenue producing, the expenditure would be exempted from the city's debt limit.

The necessity for this tunnel was pointed out by the Water Department years ago because it is indicated that within fourteen years the city will be consuming all its available supply of safe water. It would take about seven years to build the new tunnel and put it in use. One effect would be to increase fire protection.

Merritt Smith, Chief Engineer of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, explained at the request of Mayor Hylan, how it would be necessary to conserve our water supply in many of the boroughs if the present main tunnel suffered a break. He said that in some sections the available supply in such circumstances would last only about two weeks.

NEWSPAPERS MAY MERGE.

Atlantic City Press-Union Said to Have Bought Gazette Review.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 11.—The Atlantic City Review, founded in 1872 by Albert English, and merged in 1905 into The Gazette Review, and The Sunday Gazette will publish for the last time on Saturday May 23, according to report here. Employes of all departments received two weeks' notice today.

The Gazette Review Publishing Company is headed by Harry E. Smith. Among the heaviest stockholders are Isaac Bacharach, his brother, former Mayor Harry Bacharach, and former Senator Charles D. White.

The two papers, it is understood, will be absorbed by the Press-Union Publishing Company, publishers of The Daily Press, a morning paper, and The Evening Union. The Sunday Gazette will be replaced by the Sunday Press on May 24, while The Gazette Review will disappear entirely.

The Press and The Union were sold by United States Senator Walter E. Edge six years ago to three of his departmental heads—former State Librarian Francis E. Crosadale, his former secretary, and editor of the morning publication; Albert J. Feyl, advertising manager for both papers, and Paul O'Neill, head of the Atlantic City branch of the Dorland Advertising Agency.

COURT BARS TAXES ON INSURANCE GIFTS

FRICK ESTATE WINS CASE

Government Must Refund $108,675 Collected on Policies Made Payable to Widow and Daughter.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The widow and daughter of Henry C. Frick, the Pittsburgh millionaire, were upheld today by the Supreme Court of the United States in their contention that the Government had no right to force them to pay $108,675.88 as a tax on insurance policies worth $474,629.52, made payable to them many years before Mr. Frick's death, and that they could recover the tax from the Treasury.

Holding that the insurance policies were gifts to Mrs. Frick and Miss Frick, the Government collected the tax under the Revenue act of Feb. 24, 1919. The Frick estate argued in the Western District Court of Pennsylvania that it was unconstitutional to tax insurance policies taken out before the passage of the 1919 act, and that court sustained the theory. The Supreme Court agreed with the lower court.

The opinion, written by Associate Justice Holmes, said:

"We do not propose to discuss the limits of the powers of Congress in cases like the present. It is enough to point out that at least there would be a very serious question to be answered before Mrs. Frick and Miss Frick could be made to pay a tax upon the transfer of his estate by Mr. Frick. There would be another in the provisions for the liability of beneficiaries where held to be separable, and it was proposed to make the estate pay a transfer tax for property that Mr. Frick did not transfer.

"Acts of Congress are to be construed, if possible, in such a way as to avoid grave doubts of this kind. Not only are such doubts avoided by construing the statute as referring only to transactions taking place after it was passed, but the general principle that 'laws are not to be considered as applying to cases which arose before their passage' is preserved, when to disregard it would be to impose an unexpected liability that, if known, might have induced those concerned to avoid it and to use their money in other ways."

When Mr. Frick died there were four policies payable to his wife and seven to his daughter, Justice Holmes stated. The total amount of the policies was $474,629.52, and as his estate apart from this was more than $10,000,000, an additional tax of $108,667.88, or 25 per cent. of the sum received, less the statutory deduction of $40,000, was required to be paid.

All the policies were taken out before the Revenue act was passed. The largest, for $114,000, was a paid-up policy issued in 1901, payable to Mrs. Frick without power in Mr. Frick to change the beneficiary. Another, similar so far as material, was for $50,000. Others were assigned or the beneficiary named (Mr. Frick's estate) was changed to Mr. Frick's wife or daughter before the date of the statute. All premiums were paid by Mr. Frick, and some seem to have been paid after the statute went into force.

RUSH TO NEW GOLD FIELD.

Three Boatloads of Prospectors Set Out for Cassiar Creek, B. C.

WRANGELL, Alaska, May 11 (A. P.).—Breaking of the ice in the Stikine River and the consequent opening of water travel was the signal for the exodus of many gold-seekers who have gathered here on their way to newly discovered fields in Northwestern British Columbia.

Three boatloads of prospectors, the first to leave, started for Telegraph, B. C., yesterday. From Telegraph they were to travel by automobile to Deas Lake, within a few miles of the new gold territory, near Cassiar Creek. More than 150 tons, including caterpillar tractors, automobile trucks, horses and oxen, will accompany the stampeders to Cassiar.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 11.—A thousand men have mushed through from Wrangell to Cassiar, B. C., since Christmas, to seek gold in that region, Oscar Sither, Petersburg lumberman, who left Wrangell April 29, declared today. Cassiar is 150 miles up the Stikine River from Wrangell.

WHAT IS A TORNADO?

A tornado is usually confined to a relatively small area, doing great damage only in populous districts. The most frequent tornado areas are Illinois and Kansas, where they occur from five to six times a year. They never occur west of the Rockies. They are whirling masses of air with great lifting power, and are probably caused by the opposing paths of the cold winds from Canada going south and the warm trade winds from the Gulf traveling north. ### Large April Burlap Shipments.

Shipments of burlap from Calcutta to Atlantic Coast ports during April totaled 83,000,000 yards, according to figures issued yesterday by C. E. Rockstroh & Co. It is estimated that the shipments to Pacific Coast ports were about 12,000,000 yards. The arrivals were the largest of any April, with the exception of that month in 1920 and 1922. They compare with 91,000,000 yards in the preceding month and 87,000,000 yards in April, 1924. The total shipments for the first four months of this year were 356,000,000 yards, or a monthly average of 89,000,000 yards. This is the largest quantity for any similar period with the exception of 1920. The arrivals for the same months of 1924 were 322,000,000 yards.

Demand Shows Some Improvement.

While for the most part the dress goods mills are having a very quiet time of it with their Fall offerings, some of the sales executives report more interest than was the case a short while ago. Salesmen for the mills are now being given a more definite hearing on their rounds of the cutting-up establishments, instead of the postponements for some weeks back. The outlook for worsteds of the lustrous variety is growing better and these fabrics are counted upon to do very well when the dress manufacturers really begin to cover their Fall requirements. Coat manufacturers are showing more interest and some of the mills making popular-priced fabrics for mannish garments are credited with doing fairly well.

Gray Goods Easier and Quiet.

The recession in raw cotton prices yesterday served to limit trading in gray goods and likewise softened the market on several of the leading constructions of printcloths. Sales were made of 39-inch 68-72s at 10⅝ cents, off one-eighth from Saturday's close. For spot 38½-inch 60-48s buyers paid 7⅝ cents, although there were some rumors that this price had also been shaded. For late June shipments 38½-inch 5.85s sold at 9 cents. In sheetings there were sales reported of 36-inch 5.50s at 7⅛ cents and of the 5-yard construction at 8¼ cents. Drills were quiet at unchanged levels. The fine yarn specialties were without feature.

Thin Powder and Rouge Compact.

What is said to be the thinnest powder and rouge compact on the market has just been shown by a novelty house. Instead of the usual powder cake, it carries powder in a patent container with a sifter top, which when turned releases just enough powder for immediate use. The compact has a case of sterling or plated silver, engine turned or chased, and also comes in silver gilt. Prices range from $12 to $90.50 a dozen.

Piecemeal Buying of Toys.

Toy manufacturers are not optimistic over the business done at the Chicago Fair and the small manufacturers especially have been hard hit by the piecemeal buying of jobbers and retailers. The latter are showing an ever-increasing tendency toward a drastic cutting down of orders, it is said, with the result that only manufacturers with large capital are able to carry stocks for early delivery. Jobbers, too, it is said, are coming more and more to act merely as commission merchants, inducing manufacturers to ship small drop orders direct to the retailer.

Shoes That Are Favored.

Early predictions that men's shoes for Summer will be of much lighter weight than for some years past have proved correct, according to some manufacturers of the better grades, who report a brisk demand for tans in the light and featherweight models. Heavy brogues, however, are expected to remain in favor with the college trade and younger men generally. Toes in the lighter weights are somewhat narrower than heretofore, tending toward the so-called custom style. Among the tailor shoes for women for Fall there is a steady demand for the two-eyelet Colonial, one manufacturer reporting success with a square-toe model in tan calf.

Silk Orders Still Satisfactory.

Favorable reports regarding the volume of business being placed in Fall silks continue to be made. The response thus far is entirely satisfactory to the wholesalers, who see in it the continuation of the favorable conditions which influenced trading during the Spring season. At the same time, there is still a nice business being done in late Spring and Summer silks. Prints remain in a strong position, although most of the mills are now close to being caught up on the orders they have in hand. Wash silks are coming to the fore strongly and, although buying already has been on a considerable scale, a larger volume of orders is anticipated, particularly from retailers.

Fall Garment Openings.

While there are the beginnings of Fall activity evident in some sections of the women's ready-to-wear trade, most factors are planning openings that will occur about the middle of June. The style houses, particularly, will not be ready before this time, although some of the jobbers will launch their offerings somewhat earlier. Representatives of the leading style houses are now beginning to return from the couturiers' showing abroad and it will be a matter of some weeks after their return before their lines are ready for buyers. The possibility that the labor situation may be an important element in Fall production was cited yesterday as a reason why some firms may start their cutting-up early in order to have garments on hand. It was pointed out, however, that this angle has been overemphasized by wholesalers in recent seasons and that it has not figured large either in amount of merchandise available in the market or in buyers' calculations.

Difficult Situation Remains.

Some of the unfavorable reaction caused in the men's wear woolen and worsted trade last week by the marked decline in raw wool prices has softened, but actual merchandising conditions remain as difficult as ever. The expressed determination of the mills to hold to the Fall opening levels is unchanged. Aside from the fact that the mills claim that the Fall opening figures were below replacement costs, the selling agents say they do not see how there would be much improvement in the demand even if concessions are made in prices. They do not see the price of cloth as the factor that needs correction in the present situation, but put the blame on some of the merchandising practices of both manufacturing clothiers and retailers.

Austria Won't Abolish Visa Fees.

MUNICH, Germany, May 11 (A. P.).—The Austrian Government is not willing to give up the revenue derived from visa fees and, as a result, negotiations to abolish all visa regulations between Germany and Austria suddenly have been broken off. A compromise providing for a material reduction in the fees has been reached.

CAN'T USE NAME OF "FAIN."

Temporary Injunction Restrains the Famous Textile Mills.

A temporary injunction, signed yesterday by Federal Judge Bondy, restrains the Famous Textile Mills, Inc., and Irving Fain individually from using the name "Fain" or the word "Famous" on any of their products. The action was begun last December by the Fain Knitting Mills, Inc., on a complaint, which alleged that the reorganization of the Navy Knitting Mills about a year prior to the beginning of the action resulted in the retirement of Mr. Fain as the President and as a director of the Fain Knitting Mills.

It was also alleged that at the time Mr. Fain bound himself not to engage in any business enterprise competing with the business of the plaintiff or to join any concern using the name of "Fain." But Mr. Fain, it was pointed out, had organized the defendant company, opened headquarters here and was using the name of "Fain." The plaintiff stated that it had spent more than $1,000,000 in advertising its wares and that in 1923 its sales amounted to about $3,000,000. The complaint asked for an injunction and for an accounting, to the end that damages might be appraised.

Cutter Breaks Up Icebergs.

HALIFAX, May 11.—Several huge icebergs, a menace to shipping in the North Atlantic sea lanes, were shattered by shellfire from the United States cutter Tampa, officers of the vessel announced upon its arrival here from patrol duty in the iceberg zone. Heavy fog, numerous icebergs and considerable ice on the Bank were reported by the officers. The Tampa was relieved by the cutter Modoc.

FUR AUCTION OPENS WITH GOOD BIDDING

AUSTRALIAN FOX ADVANCES

Sale Will Continue Nine More Days —First Session's Receipts Total $600,000.

Bidding for wildcat was the outstanding feature of the $6,000,000 sale of raw furs that began in the Masonic Hall here yesterday, under the direction of the New York Auction Company, Inc. The sale will continue nine days more. Under the stimulus of good competition, this fur, which is sheared and made up into coats under the name of American panther, reached a top price of $17.75. The Northern skins were wanted most, and they fetched prices averaging 25 per cent. above those obtained for the same article in the company's Winter sale.

Selling began with an offering of more than 9,000 litch. Between 400 and 500 prospective buyers were present when the hammer was raised on the first lot by Auctioneer J. Gordon Noakes, but, as litch is a trimming fur, bidders warmed up to it a bit slowly. It reached a high price of $3.90. About 2,800 lynx followed, and they gave evidence of the easing off in the market that has come about recently. An extra choice lot sold at $45, and despite the softening tendency of prices generally, the collection averaged 15 per cent. above the Winter sale.

A rise of 10 per cent. was registered by Australian fox, of which 2,983 were disposed of. Following them about 2,300 white fox were put up. Although they were quite generally neglected by buyers—and a good portion of the collection was said on the floor of the salesroom to have been "laid in" by the shippers—the best white fox reached $40.50, which was high price for the day.

An important collection of red fox, numbering 21,155, was the last to go on the block. Bidding for these goods was uneven, with the result that only the German and Swiss goods went above the company's Winter sale levels. Top for red fox was $38.50. Sales for the day totaled $600,000.

| | High Price, Per Ct. | Advance, Per Ct. |
|---|---|---|
| Fitch | 45.00 | 25 |
| Lynx | 46.00 | 15 |
| Wildcat | 17.75 | *35 |
| Australian fox | 4.20 | 10 |
| White fox | 40.50 | †15 |
| Red fox | 38.50 | †15 |

*This advance was on Northern skins. Western went up 20 per cent., while Southwesterns and Southerns were unchanged. †Decline. ‡This advance was in German and Swiss fox. Alaskas and Northwesterns were unchanged. Eastern and Eastern Canadian fox dropped 10 per cent., as did Russian and Siberian skins.

The sale will be continued today with a collection of 7,000 beaver, the first to come up. After them will come nutria, marmot, otter, ermine, kolinsky and squirrel. Nearly 378,000 of the last named will be put on the block.

Smith Rug Prices Are Lower.

Associate Justice Butler Says State Has Wide Power in Classifying Eligible Persons.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Neither the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution, which guarantees that property shall not be taken without due process of law, nor the Japanese-American treaty of 1911 is violated by a decision of the California courts which held that under the State Alien Land law an American could not transfer land to a Japanese, the Supreme Court held today, in an opinion handed down by Associate Justice Butler.

W. A. Cockrill, the American, took title to the land and turned it over to S. Ikada, who said it was for his children, who are American citizens. California's authorities argued that Cockrill acted as trustee for Ikada, who, as an alien, could not hold the property. Attorneys for the defense stated that Cockrill's trusteeship was for the Ikada children, who were Americans.

In the Superior Court of Sonoma, the two men were convicted of conspiracy to violate the Alien Land law, after which they appealed to the District Court of Appeals of California, alleging that the rule of evidence or presumption raised through Section 9 of the Alien Land law, and given as a charge to the jury, violated the Fourteenth Amendment, and also was against the treaty. But the Court of Appeals confirmed the decision of the lower court. The Supreme Court of California declined to reopen the case, and it was brought to Washington on a writ of error.

In his opinion of today Associate Justice Butler said:

"The statute is not repugnant to the equal protection clause. The rule of evidence applies equally and without discrimination to all persons—to citizens and eligible aliens as well as the ineligible. In the application of the law at the trial, no distinction was made between the citizen and the Japanese. Plaintiffs in error maintain that invalidity results from that fact that, where payment of the purchase price is made by an ineligible alien, the law creates a presumption of a purpose to prevent, evade or escheat, while no such presumption arises where such payment is made by a citizen or eligible alien. But there are reasonable grounds for the distinction. Conveyances to ineligible Japanese are void to the State and the lands conveyed escheat.

"The State has a wide discretion and may classify persons on bases that are reasonable and germane, having regard to the purpose of the legislation."

The Justice added:

"The fact that in California all privileges in respect of the acquisition, use and control of the land for agricultural purposes are withheld from ineligible Japanese constitutes a reasonable and vital basis for the rule of evidence.

"It is plain that the treaty does not furnish any protection to Japanese subjects in this country against the application of a rule of evidence created by State enactment that is not afforded them by the due process and equal protection clauses of the Fourteenth Amendment. As the law does not contravene these constitutional provisions it must be held not to violate the treaty."

CHILDREN'S ART EXHIBIT.

Work of Youngsters Under 12 Shown at the Hudson Guild.

Pictures by children for children are being shown at the Hudson Guild, 436 West Twenty-seventh Street, until Saturday. The exhibit includes the art work of the Cizek School of Vienna, and the Roerich, Walden, Lincoln, Bellevue hospitals and Horace Mann schools, Hudson Guild and the Modern School of Stelton, N. J. The exhibition is open in the afternoon from 3 until 6 and in the evening from 7:30 until 10 o'clock. The children whose work is shown are under 12 years of age and are permitted to choose their own forms of expression and develop them spontaneously.

The Hudson Guild's exhibit is largely clay modeling and weaving. The prints and reproductions of pupils of the Cizek school are brilliant in color. The Walden school, whose pupils are only 3 when they begin art work, the Modern School of Stelton and the Horace Mann give their pupils few specific instructions.

The Roerich Museum class had not more than one semester's instruction, being pupils in the dancing and music classes. In this class also are the Lincoln and Bellevue Hospital classes, who illustrate their stories in colored chalk, charcoal or water colors.

The Bellevue Hospital school in addition to out-of-door work and illustrations for stories sent some toys, among them a merry-go-round with caparisoned horses and a miniature toy shop containing tiny playthings. Most of those furnishing these exhibits are orthopedic cases, and some have been in the hospital since their birth.

STEAM SCREENS LOOTING.

Boston Railway Men Accused of Thefts of $20,000 From Cars.

BOSTON, May 11.—Under cover of clouds of steam, purposely released from a locomotive in the South Station here, between $20,000 and $25,000 worth of American Railway Express Company shipments have been stolen by a group of railway employes in the last three months.

The thefts were revealed by the arrest of three railway employes tonight. The police say that eight more men, including an engineer, will be taken into custody tomorrow.

The police said that the thefts were made from baggage trucks on the station platforms. The trucks to be looted were drawn along the platform, and as they reached a point opposite a certain locomotive the engineer allowed clouds of steam to escape from the cylinders, under cover of this screen packages containing furs and other valuable clothing were removed.

DISAPPEARS IN SONORA.

American Rancher Is Believed Slain by Cattle Rustlers.

NOGALES, Ariz., May 11.—Mexican Federal troops, police from Nogales, Sonora, and cowboys have spent a fruitless two days in search of George Jerri, American rancher, who disappeared from his ranch home near Quijano, Sonora, last Thursday. Jerri's riderless horse returned to the ranch Saturday and since that time scores have been scouring the countryside. Searchers believe he was killed by cattle rustlers.

The American Consul at Nogales has telegraphed to Governor Bey of Sonora asking that the State make every effort to find the missing man.

On Trial for Slaying Convict.

Every witness in the trial of Louis Chapman, 28 years old, of 83 Grafton Street, Brooklyn, who went on trial in the Bronx County Court yesterday for the murder of Frank Silver in the penitentiary on Hart's Island on Nov. 24 last, will be a convict. Nine jurors were chosen yesterday. The case will be heard by Judge Burt J. Humphrey of Queens, who will sit for Judge Albert Cohn since the latter was disqualified by his investigation of the case when he was an Assistant District Attorney.

TELLS OF CANADIAN AND AMERICAN UNITY

Sir Robert Falconer Says Peoples Understand Each Other as None Others Do.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 11.—Sir Robert Falconer, President of Toronto University, who is about to deliver the Watson Chair lectures arranged by the Sulgrave Institution, was entertained by the Pilgrims at luncheon in London today, Lord Desborough being in the chair.

Sir Robert, replying to a toast to his health, said half the trouble the foreign and Colonial offices used to have with regard to the United States was due to Canada. Now the boundaries and fisheries had been settled because Canada got her own way. In the United States in those days there were prominent men who talked about annexation because they said the country to the North was dragging in Britain to deal reluctantly with things that were specifically North American and in conflict with the Monroe Doctrine. These things were past and in Canada they had got over their embitterment.

The United States had changed profoundly in her attitude toward Canada and, what was the most fundamental change of all, the United States now accepted them as people with its own destiny going its own way.

The United States had become more sure of herself and she had discovered that Canada had become her second best customer; that Canada's natural resources were vastly greater than she had ever imagined and that owing to similarity of social ideals her commercial relations with Canada were almost the most important she had. There was good reason why the two countries should be good friends and they were good friends.

Canada in the future could be a very decided influence in creating that spirit for which the Pilgrims stood. Canada understood the English-speaking American and the latter understood them as no other two peoples in the world understood each other. Canada was in the very centre of the world, not of the world that had been but of the world that was to be. They had a most important function to perform in attempting by their community of life and understanding to weld together the English-speaking peoples.

Colonial Secretary Amory, who followed the Chairman, alluded to the increasing importance in the development of the United States and of the British Empire, and of Canada occupying a mediating and linking position. The world in the future was going to be largely influenced by air communications, and if possible air routes were examined it would be found that Canada was far nearer to this country than those of the United States. She was a growing power which could explain America to the British Empire and could explain the British Empire to the United States.

The American Ambassador was among many distinguished persons present.

'SECRET MEMORANDA' COME UP IN COMMONS

Chamberlain Is Non-Committal on Alleged Documents Published in America.

LONDON, May 11 (A.P.)—The New York World's publication of an alleged secret memorandum which it was said had been sent to members of the British Cabinet by Foreign Minister Chamberlain, and which was said to outline the Government's position on European policies, came up today in the House of Commons when Ramsay MacDonald, former Premier, drew Mr. Chamberlain's attention to the subject and asked if he had a statement to make.

In reply Mr. Chamberlain referred to a question asked in the House two months ago regarding the text of a similar memorandum which it was said appeared in The Chicago Tribune. Mr. Chamberlain said he had asked at that time to be excused from giving either an affirmative or negative answer.

"It is not in the public interest that I should give information as to what memoranda are prepared in the Foreign Office for the use or for confidential communication with my colleagues here or with other Governments of the British Empire, the Foreign Minister said.

"I may add," said Mr. Chamberlain, "that the policy of his Majesty's Government was explained by me in my speech March 24 after my return from Geneva, and remains unchanged by subsequent events."

Mr. MacDonald pressed the matter, saying that the text published in The World did not accord with what Mr. Chamberlain had announced in the House. Mr. Chamberlain deprecated that the Government should be called upon to explain "whether what purported to be a confidential document, which if it were must have been improperly obtained, was or was not accurate."

He added that any statement of policy of the Government which is in contradiction to the statement of policy he had already made has "no authority whatever."

Replying to Commander Kenworthy, Liberal leader, Mr. Chamberlain said the document had not been circulated by his department. Reiterating his belief in the good faith of members of his department, he said he regretted that any aspersions should be even suggested against them.

MOUNTAINS BLOCK AIRSHIP.

Dirigible TC-5 Fails in Flight From Aberdeen to Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 11.—The United States dirigible airship TC-5, which left the Aberdeen, (Md.) proving grounds early this morning on a test flight to Pittsburgh and points in Ohio, returned to its starting point this afternoon.

The flight was given up when difficulty was experienced in trying to cross intervening mountains.

Word that the flight had been given up was received in a telegram to D. J. Parker of the United States Bureau of Mines, which did not state at what point the TC-5 had turned back.

The flight was attempted to test the practicability of using dirigible balloons to rush mine rescue crews and equipment to mine disasters. Bureau of Mines officials believe airships could land rescue crews at the scene of mine accidents several hours quicker than if transportation was by rail.

Curran, the Commissioner of Immigration.

After the regular formalities, the editor was shown over the buildings on Ellis Island and expressed his satisfaction with the manner in which the immigrants were handled. He said that he will write articles on his experiences when he returns to Buenos Aires.

Laskowitz formerly was President and Secretary of the Fifth Avenue Shirt Shop at 122 Fifth Avenue. On Feb. 28 last he obtained $552 in credit from Reichenbach & Co. on a statement that the net worth of his firm was $31,000, when its actual worth was less that $10,000.

SAYS U. S. MUST BACK SHIPS

Senator Jones Would Keep South American Service at Any Cost.

United States Senator Wesley L. Jones, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Commerce, returned yesterday on the Pan America of the Munson Line, on which he and Mrs. Jones made the trip to Buenos Aires and back. He said the steamship service to South America must be maintained indefinitely, whatever the cost to the country.

"This is of tremendous importance for our commerce and our relations with South America," Senator Jones said. "If we cannot get adequate assurance that private capital will continue the service, the Government must do it. We must see to it that as these ships become old and worn out they are replaced by better and faster liners. It is also important that we get another vessel as a reserve for the line. The four ships now in operation will, in the course of time, need repairs and overhauling and we must not permit the service to be interrupted."

The Senator said he was opposed to the suggestion of the American Steamship Owners' Association that the Shipping Board should be reduced from seven to three members, appointed without regard to political affiliations or geographical position.

"I intend to introduce a bill at the next session of Congress to separate the duties of the Board and Fleet Corporation, leaving the former to consider questions of policy and the latter to have control of the ships," he said.

DODDS SALE BRINGS $6,500.

Highest Price Paid Was $1,120 for Eight Queen Anne Dining Chairs.

The first of three sales of the Chamberlin Dodds collection yesterday at 28 East Fifty-second Street, under the auspices of the Rains Galleries, brought $6,500.

A set of Queen Anne dining chairs, six side and two arm chairs, with spoon backs and shaped seats in leather, were bought by R. Livingston for $1,120, the day's highest price. J. W. Waterson paid $500 for a Queen Anne writing desk with block front, and Mrs. B. V. M. La Rue paid $530 for a Louis XV. sofa with a shaped walnut frame covered in gros and petit point. J. K. Allen bought eight Heppelwhite mahogany dining chairs with oval backs and carved and pierced centre splats for $600.

Today a number of old Spanish, Italian, Jacobean, Georgian and French pieces of furniture and art objects will be offered.

Brennan, 28, of 1,298 Park Place, also an ex-pugilist, is under arrest charged with the shooting. He was arraigned before Magistrate Folwell in Brooklyn yesterday and held without bail for examination Thursday. According to the police, Henn was in a restaurant early Monday morning when Brennan, without warning, fired three shots at him.

MUSSOLINI PREPARES FOR CHAMBER SESSION

He Calls Meetings of Cabinet and Fascisti—Takes Over the Naval Ministry.

ROME, May 11 (A. P.).—Prime Minister Mussolini has called a Cabinet meeting for Wednesday, previous to the reopening of the Chamber of Deputies on the following day. He also has called a meeting of all Fascist regional secretaries and Fascist Deputies.

On Thursday morning a parliamentary committee will hold a hearing on the new National Defence act. Many Deputies have indicated their desire to speak on the bill to grant suffrage to Italian women in municipal elections, which Premier Mussolini has said would be passed during the coming session.

This morning Signor Mussolini took over the Ministry of Naval Affairs, made vacant by the resignation of Admiral Thaon di Revel. The ex-Minister introduced the Premier to the heads of the various departments, to whom the Fascist leader made a short speech in which he said he trusted the Navy officials for their cooperation, loyalty, devotion and patriotism in keeping the navy up to the standard required for the safety of Italy.

The newspapers announce the probable appointment of Rear Admiral Giuseppe Sirianni as the new Under-Secretary of the Navy, and Vice Admiral Acton as head of the General Staff of the Navy, to replace Rear-Admiral Ducci.

Rear Admiral Sirianni is known for his distinguished service during the Boxer rebellion in China and also during the Dardanelles campaign in the World War. Vice Admiral Acton came into the limelight among Italy's leading naval officers during the war, when he occupied an important post in Premier Giolitti's Government, and distinguished himself during the naval battle of May 17, 1917, when the Austrians were forced to take refuge in Cattaro.

SOUTH AFRICAN LIQUOR RIOT

One Native Is Killed as 700 Attack Six Johannesburg Detectives.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, May 11 (A. P.).—One native was killed and 100 were arrested as the outcome of an attack upon six native detectives today while making a search. Seven hundred natives participated in the attack and the situation of the detectives became so serious that the European policeman with them was obliged to use his revolver.

The trouble began when native detectives, who were under a European constable, saw that they were outnumbered and summoned reinforcements. Before these arrived the natives made such a violent attack that the European constable, in order to cover the retreat of his men, fired and killed one of the assailants. This demoralized the attacking natives, who fled without offering further assistance.

The incident related in the above dispatch is similar to the recent riot in Bloemfontein, in which four natives were killed and a number wounded when police seized a quantity of Kaffir beer. The illicit manufacture of this beverage is prohibited under new regulations, recently announced.

GIVES PROHIBITION CREDIT.

Dr. Dilthey Says There Is Less Cruelty to Animals or Children.

Prohibition has lessened cruelty, William J. Dilthey, founder and leader of the Brooklyn Heights Forum, declared yesterday to the International Conference for the Investigation of Vivisection, held at the Hotel Biltmore. Representatives of forty-six organizations opposed to vivisection attended. "People are less cruel now because they are more sober," said Mr. Dilthey. "In the past when people were cruel to animals or children it was usually found they had a drop too much. After they became sober you would never see them practicing cruelty."

Mr. Dilthey spoke at a luncheon following a business meeting in the morning. Vivisection, cruelty to animals and inoculation of dogs and humans were denounced by other speakers, who included Mrs. Clinton P. Farrell, Mrs. Richard Hardy, founder and President of the Humane Education Society of Chattanooga; Robert R. Logan, President of the American Anti-Vivisection Society; Miss Mabel Macomber, President of the City Playground League; Harry B. Anderson, Secretary of the Citizens' Medical Reference Bureau; Charles Edward Russell, Mrs. George D. Lovell and Harry Wehnager, President of the New Jersey Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

NO BISCUIT FOR BALTO.

Gunnar Kasson and His Dogs Are Stranded After Movie Venture.

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—Gunnar Kasson, Northland musher, who came into the limelight and a movie contract through his sensational dash to Nome with anti-diphtheria serum, has found little fame and no fortune since coming here with Balto and the rest of his dogs, he related in a complaint filed with the State Labor Department here today.

Kasson alleged he was brought to Los Angeles by Leo Lesser, operator of a string of motion picture theatres, with an offer of $200 a week for him and his dogs, the contract to run ten weeks. So far, he says, he has received but $667.99, and as a result finds himself without even transportation money back to Alaska, let alone dog biscuit for Balto.

The hearing has been called for Friday, at which Lesser will be asked to explain. Meanwhile, at his Los Angeles office, the information was given out that "Kasson has been fully compensated for his services with us to date. He simply pulled out and left us flat after four weeks' work."

SILVER MINE CRASH TOLD IN $35,000 SUIT

FROTHINGHAM IN MEXICO

Is Said to Have Obtained Investments by Many Financial Leaders.

Trial of the action instituted by Frank E. Lackey against Alexander J. McAllister and George E. Farish, for the recovery of $35,000 which it is alleged the plaintiff paid for 15,000 shares of the stock of the El Salvador Silver Mines Company, Inc., will begin this morning in the Supreme Court. Counsel for the plaintiff, the law firm of Ferris, Shepard, Joyce & McCoy, also accuse Thomas H. Frothingham as being equally liable with the two defendants, but he could not be served because of his absence. It was said that he was in Mexico and that his return to this country was problematical.

Frothingham is a son-in-law of the late Henry R. Hoyt, who was the personal attorney of Percy Rockefeller and left about $5,000,000 when he died. Mr. Frothingham was a partner of the defendant, Mr. McAllister, and a member of the brokerage firm of Potter Brothers & Co.

In December, 1921, a petition in bankruptcy was filed against him, when it was alleged that he had transferred $1,500,000 to his wife and had preferred creditors while he was insolvent.

About the same time it was learned that 1,700 investors in the stock of the El Salvador Silver Mines Company had put in about $3,000,000 and that the corporation was without income or funds to carry on the business. The big properties in Central America were shut down.

Among those who invested in the stock at the alleged solicitation of social and business friends were Percy Rockefeller, who is said to have invested about $280,000, and T. A. Howell, the sugar man, who put in more than $150,000. Others who sunk substantial amounts were Vernon C. Brown, the banker; F. B. Adams, the personal representative of Mr. Rockefeller; Eliphalet N. Potter, banker; James Harold Warner, lawyer, and E. D. Dowling, one time President of the mining company and a brother of Justice Victor J. Dowling.

Mr. Lackey, the plaintiff, had personally invested $175,000 at the solicitation of Mr. Frothingham, and went into the same venture again probably in the hope of recouping his loss. It is the second investment that he now seeks to recover.

Counsel for the plaintiff will contend that the stock was sold to their client by false representations that the El Salvador Company had $15,000,000 worth of ore blocked out, that it was making $1,500,000 a year net profits, that the property had $1,750,000 worth of equipment and that the company had $1,500,000 in Liberty bonds.

DR. N. C. PARTOS THE BUYER

Operators Buy Altered Building in East Fifty-sixth Street.

Apartment house trading was the feature of yesterday's real estate market, which opened unusually strong, especially in Manhattan.

In the East Fifty-ninth Street section, where operators have been working up considerable activity, two important deals were closed, one of which has been under negotiation for over a year.

This transaction involved the southwest corner of Sixtieth Street and Madison Avenue, which was sold to Dr. Nicholas C. Partos by the Robert W. Tailer estate.

The property, which is known as the Withington apartment house, consists of four five-story altered dwellings, with stores, occupying a plot fronting 100 feet on the west side of Madison Avenue and 108 feet on the south side of Sixtieth Street.

According to Rice & Hill and Edward C. Barry & Co., which firms negotiated the deal, the property was held at $1,250,000.

About a year ago Dr. Partos purchased from Ephraim E. Levy the adjoining ten-story apartment house at the northwest corner of Madison Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street, on a plot 100.5 by 95 feet, known as Hoffman Arms.

With the newly acquired holdings he now controls the entire westerly block front on the avenue from Fifty-ninth to Sixtieth Street, with frontages respectively of 200.10, 95 and 108 feet.

The opposite northwest corner of Madison Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street was sold last week by Samuel J. Flash to Mandelbaum & Lewine. There has been considerable activity in Fifty-ninth Street and adjacent thoroughfares in recent weeks.

The property will be held for investment.

Mayer, 513 West End Avenue; Katherine H. Kearney, 515 West End Avenue, and 517 and 519 West End Avenue from the 207th Street Construction Company. The W. H. Ebbitt Company, Inc., H. D. Baker and A. Robinson were the brokers in the transaction. The improvement of the property at an early date is indicated.

Fifteen-Story Apartment for West Seventy-sixth Street.

Jack Goldstein and I. Teitelbaum have purchased from a client of Maurice Hyman the three four-story dwellings at 242 to 248 West Seventy-sixth Street, forming a plot 75 by 104 feet, on which they will erect a fifteen-story apartment house from plans by George Fred Pelham, arranged in suites of one, two and three rooms. The house, which is expected to be ready for occupancy in the Spring of 1926, will represent an outlay of about $2,000,000.

Goldstein and Teitelbaum are now completing a fifteen-story multi-family structure at 10 West Eighty-sixth Street and recently acquired the site at 19 and 20 West Seventy-seventh Street for a similar venture.

The property is a plot 63 by 98 feet on the north side of Thirty-fourth Street between Third and Lexington Avenues, and was sold to the Omegt Realty Corporation, Dr. Philip Meirowits, President. Dr. Meirowitz contemplates the improvement of the site just purchased upon expiration of present leases next Fall with a fifteen-story apartment building. The cost of the land and proposed improvement will involve an outlay of approximately $1,000,000. The seller was Robert Silverman. William S. Sussman, Inc., was the broker.

JACKSON, Miss., May 11.—The State Supreme Court today ruled that Chinese children are not eligible to attend the white public schools of Mississippi, in reversing and remanding the case of G. F. The high court holds that Chinese children are of the colored race and must attend the negro schools until some provision is made for them by the Legislature.

TALL HOTEL PLANNED FOR BROOKLYN SITE

Architects Preparing Plans for Twenty-three-Story Hostelry on Lafayette Avenue Corner.

Shampan & Shampan, architects, have been commissioned to prepare plans and supervise the construction of a twenty-three-story hotel to be erected on the northwest corner of Lafayette Avenue and Ashland Place for S. Welsch Sons, owners. The plot, which is 76 by 125 feet, has just been acquired. It will exceed in height any hotel in Brooklyn and will contain about 450 sleeping rooms. The location is directly opposite the Academy of Music and within one block of every rapid transit line, including the Long Island Railroad depot. Negotiations are under way for the leasing of the hotel. It is estimated that the approximate cost will be about $3,000,000.

The C. I. Realty Corporation, represented by Louis W. Osterweis, sold two newly completed buildings on the south side of Seventy-first Street, near Twenty-second Avenue, to Joseph Kletzel and Lazar B. Kahan.

The estate of John Lefferts has sold through Cruikshank Company, broker, to the Savin Realty Corporation the three block fronts on the easterly side of Flatbush Avenue from Lincoln Road to Maple Street, to Midwood Street, to Rutland Road.

This property had been in the Lefferts family since about 1660. The old Lefferts homestead, which was moved to Prospect Park a few years ago and is to be preserved as a historical relic, stood on the property. The new owner expects to improve the site with stores and apartments.

APARTMENTS FOR SALE OR TO LET. APARTMENTS FOR SALE OR TO LET.

What Economy Means when applied to living in New York City

ECONOMY in living, as in everything else, means the wise expenditure of your money, getting value for your dollars.

When you buy a New Garden Apartment at Jackson Heights you immediately get out of the rent paying class without increasing the monthly "rent" you pay. Say that your present rent for the apartment you now occupy is somewhere between $140 and $300 a month. That same amount, paid out each month, exactly the same as rent, will within a comparatively few years pay the purchase price of a modern Garden Apartment in "the finest residential section of New York City"

It will take your family away from the congestion and noise of the usual city neighborhood; it will give you the surroundings of landscaped gardens and wide parked streets. It will make available to you the recreations of the suburbs, with splendid tennis courts, and safeguarded playgrounds for your children. It will enable you to give your family a better environment, substantial neighbors, accessibility and convenience to the shops and theatres and business districts of Manhattan. And above everything, it will give you independence of the landlord—with every month's rent you pay representing a steadily increasing equity in your garden apartment.

If you are interested in living economy, visit Jackson Heights and get first hand evidence of "the finest residential section of New York City," and let us explain and demonstrate the economy of the Jackson Heights Plan of 100% Cooperative Apartment Ownership.

How big does the Industrial Market look to you?

MEASURED by the yardstick "volume", the industrial market as a whole staggers the imagination. The figures are so stupendous, they require a rearrangement of the powers of comprehension before one can think in comparable terms.

Measured by the number of potential buyers, the industrial market becomes alluringly small, for 95% of all industry's purchases are made by 115,000 plants. These include everything from the great industrial works to the little shops with a big future. The remaining 5% is widely scattered, of uncertain stability and low potential. They are beyond the border line of profitable selling.

The obvious economy of selling only where sales are profitable, points directly to the need for concentration of sales and advertising on worth-while markets. Market determination and sales analysis loom big as the first steps toward lower cost of distribution.

Scientific selling simply means the study of markets and the intelligent cultivation of those buyers whose purchases are large enough to justify the effort to sell them.

Four principles of Industrial Marketing

As a preliminary to selling, four basic facts should be determined (1) What are the worth while markets (2) What are the buying habits of these markets (3) What is the most direct approach to them (4) What appeals will have the greatest influence on their buying.

The Industrial Market at a glance

| Group | Units | Purchases |
|---|---|---|
| Mines and Quarries | 11,400 | $1,000,000,000 |
| Public Utilities | 26,680 | 4,000,000,000 |
| Power Plants (over 250 H.P.) | 16,000 | Included in other groups |
| Construction | 7,500 | 2,500,000,000 |
| | Class | |
| Manufacturing | A B | |
| Process Industries | 7069 6285 | 12,700,000,000 |
| Mechanical Industries | 7981 5213 | 5,900,000,000 |
| Textile Industries | 5544 4847 | 4,500,000,000 |
| Lumber Industries | 3531 3546 | 1,200,000,000 |
| Class A (50 or more workers) Class B (21 to 49 workers) | | |
| Total | 115,801 | $35,500,000,000 |

The classification of industrial markets is not difficult. Industry's needs are known and buying habits are well established.

Any manufacturer selling to industry can segregate his prospects with certainty. He can reach them directly and with a definite knowledge of what appeals influence their buying. Information which will aid him to do this is available through the McGraw-Hill Company.

Numbered among the manufacturers who are following these principles of scientific selling and advertising are many of America's Industrial Leaders. Among them, also, are numerous smaller manufacturers whose real success started when they changed from promiscuous selling to concentrated effort.

A service of unique value

The McGraw-Hill Company has been of definite assistance to many of these manufacturers. They were able to bring to the consideration of plans a fifty years' knowledge of industry, unique and unmatched.

Other manufacturers who desire to fit their sales and advertising plans to present-day needs and opportunities, are invited to counsel with the McGraw-Hill Company.

A recent survey of the buying habits of industry has been published under the title of "Industrial Marketing". This graphic analysis will be sent, upon request, to any manufacturer (or advertising agent) whose market embraces the industries served by the McGraw-Hill Publications.
